World in Brief

Santas Are Plentiful For Christmas '76

'Tis the season to be jolly, and around the country Santa Clauses of all sizes and shapes emerged today. One, Bruce McDonald, a traditional red-suited St. Nick, says he sometimes thinks he really is Santa as do the children he visits.

And the police force is playing Santa for the family of Lt. Johnnie Shoates in Detroit, who is in critical condition and semiconscious as the result of being shot in the head last October trying to stop a restaurant robbery while off duty.

...And Festivity Prevails Abroad

Around the world a festive mood also prevails, despite economic woes. Pilgrims are attending midnight Mass at St. Catherine's Church in Bethlehem, which adjoins the Basilica of the Nativity — the spot where Jesus was born nearly 2,000 years ago.

Italy is celebrating Christmas as usual, with two papal Masses at the Vatican, creches in churches — and a strike, this time the railroads.

Teen Skiers Sicken After Vacation

DENVER (UPI) — Some 200 teenagers who had been vacationing at Snow Mountain Ranch, a YMCA camp near Granby, were hospitalized in Texas and Colorado with an illness diagnosed as "winter vomiting disease."

The youths, all church group members from Texas and Mississippi, were struck with the illness characterized by vomiting and nausea followed by diarrhea, either on their way home or as they were preparing to leave for home.

$73,000 Embezzled from Kingston Youth Fund

Billups Admits 'Y' Bilk

James R. Billups

NEW YORK CITY — James Billups, former assistant general director of the Kingston YMCA, pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court in Manhattan Thursday to embezzling $73,000.

The monies Billups admitted taking were in the form of federal revenue-sharing funds that had been earmarked for the local YMCA's Youth Work Experience Program, and its summer program for economically disadvantaged youth.

Robert B. Fiske Jr., United States attorney for the Southern District of New York, said Billups waived indictment and pleaded guilty to two counts charging him with embezzlement.

Billups, 39, who now lives at 215 North Hamilton Street, Poughkeepsie, headed up the YMCA's community programming from 1971 until March of 1976. As director of that department, he was in charge of two job programs for needy young people.

Fiske said the two counts against Billups charged that, during 1973 to 1975, he had—with the permission of Ulster County Intergovernmental Coordinator Robert "Josh" Randall, set up a $28,000 fund for cashing the payroll checks of needy youngsters. "The money from that fund was taken by Billups," Fiske said.

In addition, Billups had also devised a method of registering non-existing persons in the youth job programs. Under this system, he was able to convert the payroll checks issued in their names.

Howard W. Goldstein, the assistant U.S. attorney who conducted the investigation of the case, said Billups could receive a maximum sentence of two years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine on each count.

Billups, in addition to his position at the YMCA, also served as president of the Board of Directors of the Ulster County Community Action Committee (UCCAC). He was involved in a controversy surrounding the fiscal affairs of that committee when it became known that he "borrowed" $5,000 from UCCAC funds, reportedly to be used for a mini-bike program.

Billups resigned from his posts at the YMCA and UCCAC after probes and audits into his financial affairs at both agencies. The Ulster County District Attorney's Office had begun investigating the Billups case last March but, since federal funds were involved, the U.S. Attorney in New York City took over jurisdiction.

A government audit had originally shown that only some $28,000 had been "mishandled" by Billups. No sentencing date has been scheduled on the $73,000 embezzlement charges.

HELPING THE NEEDY

The Salvation Army this holiday season has served several thousand needy persons of all ages in the Kingston area with food and Christmas gifts. In the 'Toys for Tots' program, a cooperative venture with Radio Station WKNY, the Salvation Army's Cedar Street center Thursday gave out toy packages — at least one new toy, one used toy and one pair of underwear — to 537 children. Another 187 Christmas dinners were distributed to needy families with help from the Ulster County Sheriff's Department. Also, gifts were given to another 2,000 persons in eight nursing homes, two hospitals and senior residences in the area.

Pins Hopes on Fund-raising Letters

United Way Goal Short by $34,676

KINGSTON — With only $34,676 needed to reach its goal of $401,000, the Ulster County United Way will mail out more than 2,000 letters Monday seeking funds to wind up its first successful campaign since 1967.

"We've done very well with our mop-up campaign over the last several weeks," campaign chairman Richard Wagner said. "We've collected $366,324, or 91.3 per cent of our goal. All we have to do is get a few thousand dollars more to make our quota."

If $12,173 more can be raised, the 1976 campaign will reach the amount raised in last year's drive. With $20,908 more, the drive will match the best United Way campaign on record — that of 1974.

Wagner said letters are being sent to persons who have contributed to the United Way in past campaigns but haven't done so yet this year. The United Way benefits 17 human service agencies.

"We've tried to contact everyone in our fund drive this year," Wagner said, "but there are some we've missed for one reason or another."

Those who haven't been contacted but wish to donate can mail contributions to the United Way office at the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston.

An added benefit in contributing to United Way now, Wagner said, is the opportunity to use the contribution on 1976 income tax returns as an itemized deduction.

"Many individuals turn their thoughts to contributions as the year ends," he said, " and we hope they will think of United Way and the 17 community agencies we support."

Local Indian Group Faces Grim Christmas

NEW PALTZ — Christmas in this bicentennial year looks bleak for the area's native Americans.

Local organizers of the Association of Native Americans say that they're down to three-quarters of a case of canned food, have no clothes or blankets to give to needy families and are just plain broke.

"The bicentennial year was a disaster for native Americans," says Dr. Gerald Kitzman, professor of bio-physics at the state college, here, and spokesman for the group.

"Our usual fund-raising pow wows and shows just didn't draw any crowds, there was too much going on."

Kitzman says the Indian self-help group has never gone directly to the public for donations or support because "native Americans are very proud, they'd rather starve than ask for money."

The group is appealing now, because for the first time in its five-year exisistence it has no where else to turn.

Registered members of the ANA number 300, but some 10,000 Indiands of various tribes live in the mid-Hudson region.

"We primarily give assistance any way we can to native Americans, but we certainly don't draw the line there — we help in any emergency." said the professor.

ANA's own emergency has become so critical that their telephone has been disconnected, they've lost their office space and are working out of members homes in an effort to put together some Christmas help for needy individuals and families who don't know where else to turn.

"We have a family right now over in Poughkeepsie with eight children...the father has severe mental health problems. They have no food, no money and their heat has been shut off because they couldn't pay the bill," Kitzman told a hastily called news conference Thursday.

Asked why the family doesn't seek some sort of welfare assistance, the scientist responded that native Americans very rarely seek public aid. "They are a proud people. They would rather die that ask for money."

A Welcome Hug

Bob Elgin, director of the Des Moines Children's Zoo in Iowa gets a welcome hug from "Merry," a one-year-old lioness at the start of a three-day Christmas "live-in" with his animals. Elgin is spending the holiday with animals to protest a book by Peter Batten entitled "Living Trophies" which condemns the present conditions in the nation's zoos. "Merry," the lioness, is affection-trained. However, Elgin warns that wild animals should be affection trained only by professionals.

The News Was a Crime

SIMI VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — A single crime report was all the news fit to print in the weekly Simi Valley Mirror this week.

Baby Sales Probed

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Cases of baby sales for profit are under investigation in New York, but under current law, the only illegality generally found has been operating an adoption agency without a license, a misdemeanor.

The state attorney general has been looking into reports that young women, unable to keep their children and unwilling to have an abortion, were referred through abortion clinics to a number of lawyers in the New York City area.

These lawyers then arrange to pay for the women's transportation and expenses to go to New York to have their babies.

In August, Social Services Commissioner Philip Toia said the investigation would be dropped, because of the difficulty in getting sworn testimony from mothers who sold their babies or foster parents who had bought them.

But a recent report by United Press International about his decision prompted a number of witnesses to come forward, reviving the probe, a spokesman for Toia said Thursday.

Toia said he is planning to ask the 1977 legislature to regulate the market in babies for adoption. He said that under current law the most serious charge that can be brought against violators is operating an unlicensed adoption agency, a misdemeanor punishable by up to one year in prison.

One phase of New York's probe has been coordinated with a similar investigation by the state attorney's office in Cook County, Ill., and New Jersey prosecutors.

The spokesman for Toia could not elaborate on the status of the investigation at this time, but he said Assistant Manhattan District Attorney Joseph Morello was working with the department's staff on several cases expected ready for action soon.

He called trafficking in babies "a terribly serious problem," even though there are about 3,900 parentless children in the state awaiting legitimate adoption.

But officials say many of those available through regular channels are hard to place because they are over the age of 6, are black or of other minority or mixed race, or are handicapped.

Fire Toll May Hit Eight in Brooklyn

NEW YORK (UPI) — A loudspeaker blared a scratchy rendition of "O, Come All Ye Faithful" for the Christmas shoppers milling along Fulton Street in downtown Brooklyn Thursday.

Across the street, stone faced firemen lugged four bodies in canvas bags from the charred shell of a five-story department store that burned and collapsed a day before.

Officials said four more bodies still may be inside, but the search was temporarily suspended Thursday afternoon for fear that the building's cast iron columns might give way and bring down what little is left standing.

The three-alarm fire broke out Wednesday afternoon in the five-story building along Brooklyn's busy shopping district. It housed a shoe store at street level and a department store above.

Firemen controlled the blaze by late Wednesday night, but the building had collapsed and could not be searched until Thursday morning, when the bodies of two men and two women were recovered. None was identified.

Fire Commissioner John O'Hagan said missing persons reports indicate that the death toll might reach eight. In addition, eight civilians, two firemen and a police officer were slightly hurt in the fire.

O'Hagan and Mayor Abraham Beame held a briefing for reporters outside the burned out store but were interrupted by a Morris Kashioff, who denounced the commissioner for delays in responding to the fire.

O'Hagan said, "We responded without delay. There was a delay in discovery and reporting."

Kashioff turned away, made fists and choked back tears. "Everything is finished," he said. "I can't find my wife." Yolande Kashioff, 39, was a cashier in the department store.

Then, when he was finished with the cameras and microphones, Beame walked over to Kashioff, who stood staring blankly at the burned out building with his 19-year-old son, Jack.

"I wish I could do something," the mayor said.

Smokers Under 70 Face Twice the Risk of Death

LONDON (UPI) — Men under 70 who smoke face twice the risk of death of nonsmokers, according to the final report of a 20-year survey into smoking habits of British doctors published today in the British Medical Journal.

"These ratios suggest that between a half and a third of all cigarette smokers will die because of their smoking, if the excess death rates are actually caused by smoking," said the report by Richard Peto of the Imperial Cancer Research Fund and Prof. Richard Doll of Oxford.

Doll, one of the first scientists to claim a link between smoking and cancer, headed the study into the smoking habits and subsequent death rate of 34,000 male British doctors.

In an accompanying editorial the British Medical Journal said that between 1951 and 1971 doctors cut their smoking from 9.1 to 3.6 cigarettes a day which "contributed to a steady decrease in the incidence of lung cancer deaths." The editorial, headed "That Lethal Weed," urged that the report be brought to the attention of the young.

Thanks to you it works...

Pending Layoffs Disturb KPFA

Firemen Hit Plan

KINGSTON— Disturbed by the pending layoffs of five firefighters as of next week, the Kingston Professional Firefighter's Association (KPFA) is taking its case to the people and urging a large turnout of support at next Tuesday night's public hearing on the city's 1977 budget.

Meeting Thursday night, with close to 100 per cent of its membership in attendance, the KPFA went on record as being in opposition to their "being used as a pawn in other city problems."

"It is out intention to express ourselves at the public hearing on December 28 to notify the public of the serious problem the City of Kingston is facing with a 10 per cent reduction in the fire department," said KPFA President Harry Hornbeck.

According to the president, the union, at a later date, will prove to the public that the layoffs are not a necessary measure.

Earlier this week the KPFA, as a result of binding arbitration, was awarded a two-year contract calling for a $900 salary increase in the first year (1976) and a $200 increase in the second year (1977). Mayor Francis R. Koenig, who has opposed salary increases for city employes in light of Kingston's delicate financial situation, is making good on a promise to layoff city employes to cover the cost of any forced salary increase. The raises for the firemen have been included in that department's 1977 budget, which has increased $40,000 over the 1976 appropriation. The layoffs will save taxpayers about $50,000 in salaries.

Meanwhile, the Kingston Patrolmen's Association (KPA), which represents the majority of the city's 75 police department employes, is taking a "wait and see" attitude with regard to the way they will be affected by the city's fiscal problems. Earlier this year the police, also as a result of binding arbitration, were awarded a one-year contract with a $900 salary increase. However, there is no additional appropriation for the cops in 1977 and it's not yet known if they will attempt to negotiate a new pact with the city.

Although their will be no actual layoffs in the police department, there are five positions currently vacant and they will remain vacant to cover the cost of the $900 increase, which the police still haven't received.

POLICE BEAT

Police Seeking Mugger

KINGSTON — A Stone Ridge woman was mugged outside the Grand Union on Albany Avenue Thursday and Kingston City Police are looking for her assailant described at as being about 5 foot 10, white and with a full beard.

Police said that Pat Zentner, 35, of Box 395, Stone Ridge, had parked her car on the Madison Avenue side of the Grand Union parking lot. She reportedly saw the suspect standing near a telephone booth and as she neared him, he came out and "gave her a hit" and tried unsuccessfuly to grab her pocketbook. She fell to the ground and he left, running across Madison Avenue between houses.

According to police, witnesses said the suspect placed a ski mask on his face just before grabbing the woman and kept tugging at it. He wore dark pants and jacket.

Ms. Zentner was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance.

Car Smashes Porch

A side porch and the foundation of a house at 171 First Ave. was demolished some time Thursday night or early today when a car belonging to Frank Stokes of Port Ewen crashed into it.

Kingston City Police said they contacted Stokes at his home early this morning and invited him to the police station for an explanation.

The house, which is owned by Joseph Woods of First Avenue, is occupied by the tenants who were away at the time.

Vols Rescue Man

Volunteer firemen from Esopus and Port Ewen were credited Thursday with rescuing an accident victim who was pinned in his car on Floyd Ackert Road.

L. W. Russomanno, who lives on the road, was taken to Benedictine Hospital with a broken leg and ribs, according to Highland State Police who investigated the 8:30 p.m. one-car accident.

Shoplifting Arrest

Kingston City Police report the arrest of a New Paltz man for shoplifting in Britt's Department Store in Kingston Plaza, Thursday.

Guy S. Licgardner of 129 Plains Road, New Paltz is scheduled for a court appearance Dec. 28.

Crossing Guard Hit

A school crossing guard was hit by a car in the City of Kingston Wednesday at the corner of Highland Avenue and East Chester Street.

City Police report that Henry Jordon of 316 Hasbrouck Ave., was struck by a car driven by Bessie Taylor of 54 Gill St., Kingston. Jordon indicated he would have x-rays taken.

Bad Checks Charged

Kingston City Police report the arrest of Wendy Delamater of 28 Foxhall Ave., Kingston on charges of issuing two bad checks. She is scheduled for a court appearance Jan. 4.

★★★

Burglaries Probed

Two burglaries in the city are also being investigated by city detectives.

Change was removed from a pool table, juke box, cigarette machine and pinball machine at Kenny's Corner, 169 Abeel St., Kingston.

Police report that entry was gained by smashing a window. The pool table and vending machines were pried open.

Another burglary was reported at the home of Robert Diek, 187 Pine St., Kingston where a two-dollar bill and a roll of dimes and pennies were taken.

Entry was gained by breaking a window.

Crash Hurts Two

Two persons were injured in a two-car accident Thursday afternoon on Rt. 32 in Rosendale.

Two passengers in a car driven by Frank T. Interlone, 20, of 21 Schrieber Lane, New Paltz, Jeffrey Schott, 19 and Valerie Wolt, 18, were taken to Benedictine Hospital suffering from head and shoulder injuries.

The driver of the other car, Fred Brink Jr., 53, of Chapel St., Kingston, was given a summons for failure to keep right.

According to the Ulster County Sheriff's Department, Brink was traveling north on Rt. 32 when his car went out of control and struck the Interlone car headon.

Napanoch Accident

A Kerhonkson man was hospitalized and an Ellenville woman sustained injuries in a two-car accident early today on Rt. 209, Napanoch.

The Sheriff's Department reports that a vehicle driven by James Horvath, 42, of Ellenville was attempting to make a left turn into Valley Mall when it was struck in the rear by a vehicle operated by William Blakely, 45, of Kerhonkson.

Mrs. Sandra Horvath, a passenger in the Horvath car was treated at Ellenville Hospital for contusions and bruises and released.

Blakely was admitted to the hospital suffering from lacerations of the head.

Blakely was issued a summons by members of the Ellenville substation for following too close and having an uninspected motor vehicle.

Alcohol Charges

A Pittsburgh, Pa. man was arrested by sheriff's deputies Thursday morning and charged with driving while intoxicated, failing to submit to a chemical test, having an open container of an alcoholic beverage in his car and having no insurance.

Bruce Gomes, 33, was going west on DeWitt Mills Road near Rt. 32, when he lost control and went over an embankment, police said.

Accident

A three-car accident on Route 212 in Centerville at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday resulted in back injuries to the driver of one car. Town of Saugerties police identified the injured man as Thomas Doerr, 33, of Route 212, Saugerties. Police said the accident occurred when a car going east on the highway and driven by Thomas Martin, Route 2, Kingston, passed an unknown vehicle, skidded to the left side of the road, and hit a tree. Doerr, who was proceeding west, stopped in the roadway and was struck in the rear by a car driven by Harold Reynolds, also of Route 212, Saugerties. Doerr, police said, complained of back pains and suffered emotional stress after his car flipped over on its roof as a result of the impact.

Doerr did not go to a hospital.

Two Cars

Ulster Town Police also investigated an automobile accident involving two cars on Route 209 near Neighborhood Road that injured one person. Police said a car driven by Joseph Goldpaugh of Ruby crossed over a solid line and hit a car driven by Joan Mooney of Kingston. The Mooney vehicle was forced into a guard rail, injuring a passenger, Brenda Mooney.

She was treated at Kingston Hospital for contusions of the scalp and released. Goldpaugh was issued a summons for driving while intoxicated. Police said both vehicles had to be towed from the scene.

Apartment Fire

Ulster Hose No. 5 Fire Company was called out Wednesday at 3:40 p.m. to quell an apartment fire at Sunset Gardens. Ulster Fire Chief William Williams said the apartment, occupied by John Hosford, was gutted. Thirty firemen from the company responded to the blaze, located in Apartment D, Section 11 of the complex. Williams said Hosford was not at home at the time. He said the cause of the fire was unknown, but was not suspicious in nature.

Apartments above and below the Hosford unit sustained water and smoke damage. Ulster Hose firemen had the fire under control and returned to quarters at 5:56 p.m.

Bad Checks

Gloria Mae Brandon, 31, of Kingston, RD 1, was arrested Wendesday by Ulster Police and charged with five counts of issuing a bad check.

Arraigned before Ulster Town Justice Arthur Reilly, Ms. Brandon entered a plea of guilty, made restitution in the amount of $99.74, the amount of the checks, and was fined $25 and a given a 60-day conditional discharge.

V.A.W. employes receive turkeys and time capsules for Christmas. Handing out capsules is Bob Logan. Giving out birds is Paddy DePetrillo.

Ellenville VAW..a Lasting Gift

ELLENVILLE — An Ellenville aluminum products firm this year gave its employes a Christmas gift that has both a temporary and lasting nature — a turkey and a time capsule.

With each Christmas turkey they received Wednesday, the 400 employes of V.A.W. of America also got an aluminum time capsule designed to preserve its contents at least 50 years under normal conditions.

The "Bicentennial Time Capsule," an 18-inch-long aluminum tube sealed by plastic end caps, was given to employes to "help them and their families — especially the children — keep the historic message of 1976 alive," President Manfred F. Schroeder said.

V.A.W. also has given time capsules to individuals, schools and organizations "in recognition of their many extraordinary efforts to celebrate the Bicentennial," the company said.

Suggestions for memorabilia to be preserved in the capsule include Bicentennial flags, photographs of family, friends, area scenes or events, commemorative coins and stamps, local newspapers from July 4, current highway maps, grocery bills, tax statements (copies, of course), children's school papers, and forecasts of what life may be like in the future.

One end of the capsule is permanently sealed. The other end is sealed by inserting a plastic cap with alumnimum Bicentennial emblem into the open end, then crimping a wire that fits through two holes in the tubing. The cap also can be glued.

While "delighted" with the capsule, one employe said she didn't intend to bury it: "My kids are planning to use it as a bank," she said.

CB Antennas Can Kill the Careless

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you are careless, a citizens band radio antenna can electrocute you, the Consumer Product Safety Commission warns.

The commission said it had received reports of 92 deaths and 156 injuries from antenna accidents in the past year. It issued the warning Thursday because it expects many people will receive CB radios for Christmas.

The agency said most accidents involved contact between the antennas and power lines during installation or removal from mountings alongside private homes on masts or towers.

"Avoid putting up antennas anywhere in the vicinity of power lines. If this cannot be avoided, contact the power company in advance for further instructions," the agency said.

The agency suggested attaching ropes to antennas during installaion or removal, to hold the antennas steady.

In other actions the commission announced Thursday:

— It determined that former commission Chairman Richard W. Simpson did not violate the law by forming a consulting firm working for two standards organizations. A majority of the commissioners said Simpson's customers do not qualify as manufacturers, for whom he would have been proibited from working, and that the Justice Department fully agrees with the decision.

— It turned down a petition for safety standards covering support wires for pierced earrings. The agency had been asked to require that the wires be made in such a way that they spring loose when an earring is acidentally pulled off, but said it does not believe there is a problem.

— It turned down a petition for safety standards for five-gallon glass water bottles of the type used in office water coolers. The commission said it appeared the problem of breakage and potential injury was lessening because of the increased use of plastic bottles in water coolers.

Agron, now 33, Has Earned High School, College Degrees

Carey Commutes Sentence of 'Cape-Man'

ALBANY, N.Y.(UPI) — Gov. Hugh Carey has commuted the sentence of a 33-year-old man whose part in the 1959 murder of two youths at a westside Manhattan playground marked the height of street gang warfare in New York City.

Salvatore Agron, who was 16 when the killings occured, was known as "Cape Man" or "Dracula" because of the cape he wore when the murders occured.

The case involved members of a Puerto Rican youth gang who went to the playground to "beat up Irish and Italian kids." It was viewed as the straw that broke the camel's back in so far as public toleration of gangs was concerned.

During the 17 years he has served, Agron has earned a high school diploma and an associates degree from Dutchess Community College.

Agron was one of five murderers and three persons serving up to life sentences for drug possession to be granted traditional Christmas clemency Thursday by the governor.

All of the inmates are now eligible to go before the Board of Parole for release in January.

A resident alien, Mary Ledgister, 41, a citizen of Jamaica, West Indies, was granted a pardon. She is on parole for slaying her husband and was granted the pardon to prevent her deportation.

Others granted clemency included:

— Habib Raid Hawa, 46, serving 20 years to life for the February 1960 conviction for first degree murder in Manhattan during the course of a liquor store robbery, has served 17 years.

— Roger Whitfield, 32, serving 20 years to life for murder first degree. He was convicted in Suffolk County for the 1966 slaying of a Wayne Foster during a dispute over the proceeds of a robbery.

— Rolando Montane, 46, serving six years to life, was convicted in April 1974 in Manhattan for criminal sale of drugs. He has served more than three years and has enrolled in school programs and English classes at Fishkill prison.

— Doris McNair, 25, serving six years to life for the April 1974 conviction for drug possession in Monroe County.

— Marc Dearstyne, 22, serving four years to life for his September 1974 conviction for possession of LSD in Rensselaer County.

— Richard Figoratta, 30, serving 20 years to life for his April 1967 murder conviction in Manhattan for shooting a man during a domestic dispute.

— Walter Daniels, 57, serving 20 years to life for a February 1966 murder conviction for shooting a tenant at the Manhattan apartment building of which he was landlord during an argument.

Blodgett

Eva Whitbeck Blodgett, 87, of Wiltwyck Gardens, died Thursday following a short illness. Born July 4, 1889 at Kingston, she was the daughter of the late Frank and Lillian Neice Whitbeck, and the widow of Henry C. Blodgett, who died in 1961.

Mrs. Blodgett was a member of the First Baptist Church and the Golden Age of Kingston. She is survived by a daughter, Gladys, wife of Frank W. Thompson of Kingston; and two grandsons, John Thompson of Ballwin, Mo.; James B. Thompson of Kingston. Two great-grandchildren and several nieces and nephews also survive. Funeral services will be held at the Keyser Funeral Service Kingston Chapel, Albany and Manor Avenues, Monday at 11 a.m. The Rev. Norman Blosat, pastor of First Baptist Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Wiltwyck Cemetery.

MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our Dads, Ralph Louden Sr., and Charles Bower Sr., who passed away within the past year.

There are two vacant places this Christmas,
Two places no one can ever fill,
I know that they're in heaven,
I guess it was God's will.
When God called home our two Dads,
He got the very best.

Sadly missed,
Janice, Karl & Granddaughter,Darlene

MEMORIAM

A Christmas remembrance of our Dad, James H. Scism, Sr., on Christmas Day.

His memory is as dear today
As in the hour he passed away.

MEMORIAM

Christmas thoughts of my husband, James H. Scism, Sr.

Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory sad and true,
Just the love and sweet devotion,
Of one who thinks of you.

MEMORIAM

To my husband, Frank W.Burgher, on the eve of our 39th Wedding Anniversary, who passed away November 6,1976.

I sit alone in silence,
And somehow seem to weep,
When I think of the one I loved,
Who once sat across from me.
If loving you would have saved you,
You never would have died,
But,I guess, our Lord knew best.

Miss You,
Wife,
Mildred B.

MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Pastor Olney and Aunt Ruth Cook on their first Christmas in Heaven.

We miss you, but we know you are with Him whom you both love so.

MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our beloved parents, Giovanna and Leo Tabacchi, on Christmas Day.

"I peeped into the stable,
Where Baby Jesus Lies,
And every dream I ever dreamed,
Was shining in His eyes.
His Lady-Mother smiled at me:
My heart leaped up in joy;
For the love that was within my heart,
Seemed to warm her little Boy.
Then I bent down my face to His,
And whispered in His ear,
"Please bless today all those I love,

We Miss You, Love

Eroes

Mrs. Emma Eroes, 87, of Woodstock, died today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Paul LePaige, where she had resided for the past five years. Born in Gyula, Hungary on May 12, 1889, she was the daughter of the late Count Denes and Countess Gabrelle Karolyi Almasy. Mrs. Eroes was married twice, her first husband, Count Miklos Keglevich, died in 1919; her second husband, Paul Eroes, died in 1945. Surviving, in addition to her daughter, Mrs. Paul (Gabrelle) LePaige, are a son, Steven Keglevich of Stamford, Conn., a granddaughter, and a great-granddaughter . The funeral will be private with the Lasher Funeral HOme, Woodstock, in charge of arrangements.

Joynt

Miss Helen M. Joynt of 50 Locust Hill Ave., Yonkers, formerly of Binnewater, died Wednesday at Sans Souci Nursing Home, Yonkers, Wednesday following a long illness. She was a daughter of the late Patrick and Margaret Brennan Joynt, and before retirement had been employed as a clerk by the Waldworth Pump Co. Miss Joynt is survived by: a nephew, Frank Joynt of High Falls; and two nieces, Mrs. Marie Hause and Mrs. Patricia McLaughlin, both of Massachusetts. The funeral will be held from the George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Rt. 32, Rosendale Heights, Monday at 10:30 a.m., thence to St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, where at 11 a.m. a Mass of Christian Burial will be offered.

Heusler

Mrs. Helen A. Heusler, 84, of Fairview Avenue, High Falls, died at her home Thursday following a long illness. Born in High Falls, she was the daughter of the late William and Ellen Rigney Fitzpatrick, and was a lifelong resident of the community. Mrs. Heusler is survived by her husband, Charles Heusler; two daughters: Mrs. Helen Volk of Lynbrook; Mrs. Catherine Frankman of Bluepoint; 13 grandchildren and several nieces and nephews. The funeral will be held from the George J. Moylan Funeral Home, Rt. 32, Rosendale Heights, Monday at 8:30 a.m., thence to St. Peter's Church, where at 10 a.m. a Mass of Christian Burial will be offered. Burial will be in St. Peter's Cemetery.

Funeral Notices

Inloving memory of my husband, Joseph DeLuca, on Christmas Day.

You cannot say, you must not say
That he is dead, he is just away!
With a cherry smile
and a wave of the hand
He has wandered into an unknown land
And left us dreaming. How very fair
It needs must be,
since he lingers there;
So think of him faring on, as dear
In the love of There as the love of Here.
Think of him still
as the same, and say
He is not dead, he is just away.

Your loving wife

Automen Joyous Over Sales

DETROIT (UPI) — The auto assembly lines were stilled for a 10-day holiday today, but not before industry executives jubilantly reported their second highest pre-Christmas new car sales in history.

The 32½ per cent mid-December gain reported Thursday was the best gain over a comparable 1975 period since early June. It assured that 1976 would be the U.S. auto industry's best year since pre-energy crisis 1973.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the 10 million annual sales rate was the best so far this year.

With the sales report out of the way, auto plants began shutting for a 10-day holiday that ends Jan. 3.

Seven Ford Motor Co. car and truck plants will work an unusual four days during the holiday with workers earning triple-time pay to build mid-sized and full-sized cars and vans that are in strong demand.

The 223,556 cars sold in the Dec. 11-20 period were about 23,000 more than most analysts had expected.

But they will accept help from their own people, which was why ANA was founded several year's ago.

"We're a self subsistence organization. We try to get people jobs, help them hold on to their homes, stand on their own two feet without public assistance."

The group has received some recognition and help from local IBM administrators, who recently set up and conducted an intensive seminar for six local members of the group to aid them in planning business, cultural and youth groups and other organizational groups.

"It was a technical assistance program," commented Mrs. Peter Fogden of New Paltz, who along with several other ANA members from Dutchess county, had joined Kitzman in his presentation.

"They explained the techniques of problem identification, goal setting, resource identification and follow up...the kinds of technical training most people don't associate with American Indians."

Mrs. Fogden and the other ANA council members agreed that one of their most insurmountable problems is a cowboys and Indians image of native Americans that east coast residents seem to have.

"On the west coast and in that part of the country, citizens are very much aware of the needs of native Americans, and of the fact that they are real people...you don't get that in this part of the country," Kitzman said.

ANA says it needs about $3,000 to clear up its debts — incurred by posting bail, handling legal fees, offering home and personal loans to needy persons and trying to feed and clothe people in emergency situations.

"That means we'll be at zero, but at least we won't leave anyone without necessities, or force anyone to pay back money they can't afford right now," says Kitzman.

Althouhg the groups needs money badly — the need for canned food, clothing and blankets is even greater.

Kitzman and the other council members will accept donations at their homes, since they now have no office. He can be reached through the college or at his New Paltz home.

It could mean a great deal to a great, many of these all-American Americans in this all American Christmas year.

Tanker's Oil Spill Reaches Southern Edge of Fishing Bank

NANTUCKET, Mass. (UPI) — Officials and scientists, helpless to contain the ecological ravages of the Atlantic coast's worst oil spill, concentrated today on setting up monitoring systems to keep tabs on the damage.

A 20 knot southerly wind pushed the oil slick from the wrecked tanker Argo Merchant — now more than 100 miles long — across the southern edge of Georges Bank. "It's like a fat hungry snake," a Coast Guard spokesman said.

Icy waters have coagulated the oil, forming tar-like chunks that have been scooped up by scientists crisscrossing the slick in research vessels. Navy divers Thursday brought sediment samples up from the ocean floor near the remains of the shattered tanker.

Massachusetts officials reported Thursday none of the 7.6 million gallons of oil from the tanker had yet reached the floor of the 10,000 square mile fishing ground, one of the most important in the world.

If it does, experts fear it may take years for the fishing grounds to recover. But even if it does not, or it reaches the floor in tiny amounts, scientists admit it would be difficult to pinpoint the extent of environmental damage in open seas.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Marine and Water Quality Laboratory has been named to coordinate all environmental impact studies relating to the spill from the Liberian-registered tanker, which broke up Monday 27 miles off Nantucket Island after running aground on a shoal last week.

"We are setting up a situation room with chart boards so we can track things. By Monday we should have a full blown communications center," said Dr. Jan C. Prager, chief of technical assistance.

At the University of Rhode Island's Graduate School of Oceanography, a special oil-response team was preparing URI's $4 million research vessel Endeavor for a tracking trip into the Atlantic next Tuesday.

"In previous spills, nobody has ever been able to say where all the oil has gone. We hope to find that out this time," said university researcher Robert Sexton.

Not much was left today of the 640-foot Argo Merchant. The severed stern was pointing skyward at an awkward angle and what remained of the bow was gradually filling with water.

The Coast Guard Thursday opened all hatches on the bow to expedite the sinking "so she will not be a hazard to navigation," a spokesman said.

Members of the Coast Guard's antipollution Atlantic Strike Force Team were lowered by helicopter onto the bow to see how much oil remained in her tanks.

"There's just isolated pockets of oil left inside. All her cargo has been lost to the sea," a spokesman said.

A Coast Guard spokesman said observers on a flight over the slick saw about 3,000 seagulls of which "only about 125 were covered with oil."

"They also flew over Muskeget and Tuckernut Islands west of Nantucket and they didn't see any of the seals which are usually there. They may have been out feeding or they could have been scared away by all the helicopter flights which have been going on since this thing started," he said.

Bank Closings

In Thursday's edition of the Daily Freeman, it was stated that the county's banks would keep "regular hours" today.

Regular hours on a Friday would normally be until 8 p.m. according to Francis R. Kugelman, of the Ulster County Financial Council. He said that actually the banks would be closing at 3 p.m. today.

A potent snow storm assured a white Christmas in the Northeast but made holiday travel a hazard in some areas.

Tax Hike Notice Inadequate

Dear Editor:

On Tuesday night, Dec. 14, the Ulster County Legislature passed a 40 per cent increase in sales tax that affects 115,000 people in the county — everyone except City of Kingston residents. The notice given to county residents that they were to be hit with the 40 per cent increase was mere hours. Not even a full day's notice.

With the exception of four conscientious and independent-minded legislators, the county legislators, led by "I-know-what's-good-for-'em" Savago, arrogantly jammed this increase down our throats with such speed that it was all but impossible for a legislator to hear a word from a constituent before the 7 p.m. caucus session on Dec. 14.

As the Freeman editorial of Dec. 15 pointed out, "Ulster County citizens...should have had a chance to ponder and diocuos this measure before it was approved."

The deal was obviously in the making for weeks, but there was no chance for a question to be asked nor alternatives to be examined.

Would a six per cent tax and a 12 per cent property tax increase have been less destructive to the county? (Bordering Orange county has a four per cent tax and Dutchess a five per cent rate. Could that last one per cent have lost us more than we gained? Who knows? The whole thing was a secret from the public until it happened. Other considerations are:

• The sales tax hits the poorest hardest, as the Freeman pointed out.

• The average taxpayer gets no three per cent decrease in his property tax for 1977 despite the deceptive "Three Per Cent Property Tax Drop Expected" headline on Dec. 15. The three per cent decrease is the most optimistic figure for the county portion of your property tax. Almost all town property tax rates will rise. If you live in the Town of Ulster, you can expect an over-all increase of about $3.50 per $1,000 assessed valuation in your tax, exclusive of special assessments such as a sewer district. No decrease.

• The 7 per cent sales tax will increase the inherent cost of everthing you buy by more than the obvious 2 per cent. The electricity bill, fuel oil bill, toilet tissue bill, and so on will rise for every business as well as every resident outside Kingston, and for Kingstonians who shop outside Kingston. Where do you think the increase in the cost of doing business will end up? You now pay 40 per cent more tax on what will have to be a higher-priced article or service.

• The larger sales tax on prices that increase 6 or 7 per cent a year for inflation reasons alone should really drag in everyone's spare change.

But our arrogant 27 in the legislature gave us no chance to discuss any of the above points, nor a host of others. Based on the legislature's reaction to the 650 who attended the budget hearing — "They were just venting themselves" — the county taxpayers should be getting the picture on the importance of their opinions.

The legislature knows for months something of the general area of the increase in funds needed. Can't you just see how these wise people will solve our fiscal problems in December 1977? A 30 per cent increase in property taxes. But don't get excited. The politicians will tell us this averages out to only 15 per cent (a year) because we had no property tax increase (except from our town governments) for a whole year.

No Substitutes for Mother

WASHINGTON- Would Mary have sent the Baby Jesus to a day care center? She might if she were with us this Christmas and she was a career woman out there in the market place battling for a paycheck right along with Joseph. That's assuming that Joseph had seniority in the carpenter's union and hadn't been laid off; otherwise he could stay home with the Baby, although few men in our culture have done very well at that job.

If Jesus had been sent to a day care center shortly after Mary had recovered her strength enough to go back to work as an account executive in an advertising agency or as a lawyer, her Son might not have become the symbol and ideal of love, both human and divine, which He has been for our civilization for 20 centuries. Our experience with infants who are put in the institutional setting so early in life is that they grow up with considerable difficulty expressing love or loyalty. It's not known as a scientific fact, but the impression garnered by many observers is that the children of a kibbutz-type infancy grow up to be intensely middling people, never at the bottom, never at the top.

The day care center seems to be an efficient means of rearing organization men and women, but as Dr. Herbert Ratner has said, "If nature wanted children to be raised in litters, they would be born that way... The reason only one child is born at a time is because the only way to teach children love is in a one-to-one relationship. That is why I'm against day care centers."

Parents in the kibbutz are now being encouraged to spend more time with their very young infants for some of these very reasons. Not that there is any ground for comparing the care an infant gets in Israel with the treatment it gets in America. We can't begin to offer such quality of nurture. "During the first few months of existence," writes Barbara Joe, a mother of four with a masters degree in social care services, "they require many of the services that would be provided by an intensive care nursing home at any other stage of life - a liquid diet, round-the-clock feedings and assurance that their breathing is unobstructed. They must be dressed and bathed, they are incontinent, they often regurgitate their food, they cannot speak, and they are practically immobile." After that comes love and a million other less tangible but no less important things.

The further away one gets from home and mother the less able our society is to provide these necessities for our children. The reason isn't hard to come by. The high status, high respect occupations are those concerning money, production, power and fame. The care of human beings is a despised, low-caste occupation. Our hospitals, old age, nursing and convalescent homes are staffed with poorly paid, looked-down-upon people, mostly black people and more often than not black women who can't get any other kind of a job.

The clamor for day care centers from some women's organizations but by no means all women's groups is, then, not for the benefit of the child, but only the mother and father who don't want to or can't take care of their offspring. However, since there is no data anywhere suggesting the institutional rearing of infants and small children is better than or even as good as a good home, feminist groups might be wiser urging women who don't want to take care of their children just not to have them.

The pressure is all the other way, to go on increasing day care center financing by the government. With the new administration, which is rather thoughtlessly committed to day care, there will be yet more pressure, especially in view of the fact these centers can appear to create jobs, although it's actually only hocus-pocus to pay people to perform a service outside the home that can be performed in it for about 20 per cent of the cost.

Switching over to government rearing of small children isn't like switching from the production of one kind of bomber to another. Once you do it, you must accept that you may have irreversibly changed society and not necessarily for the better, for as Barbara Joe writes: "... once begun, the experiment would be difficult to abandon. This is because the way people learn to parent - and girls specifically to 'mother' - is first by experiencing mothering roles. It would be almost impossible for a whole generation of children raised in group settings without individualized mothering and without examples of this in their experience to suddenly be able to adapt this behavior upon achieving biological parenthood, whatever their intellectual commitment might be. Thus, day care, while liberating girls from the stereotyped motherhood role, might liberate them to the extent that mothering would no longer be an option for them and the choice, once made, would have become irreversible."

The least we can do, as Barbara Joe points out in her excellent unpublished paper, "Child in Crisis," is debate the significance of what we're drifting into here. There are other ways to handle these problems. Many have been suggested but scarcely given a serious hearing, such as according wives and mothers social security protection even if they don't work outside the home; universal child allotments; and perhaps the novel idea of one job (decently paid) per every two parents, perhaps jointly held by the wife-husband-mother-father together. Call it a shared employment program.

There are many things we can do beside bureaucratizing infancy and early childhood. We can pay attention to The Martha Movement (1022 Wilson Boulevard, Suite 2610, Arlington, Virginia, 22209), an organization trying to give some respect, dignity and prestige to the calling of wife, mother and homemaker in the traditional sense. Don't knock it until you can come up with a substitute. Certainly we need the role models of women Supreme Court Justices and women in other power, prestige positions, but the role of Mother in the Holy Family isn't without honor either.

Our Gifts on His Birthda

Silent Night...

Street lamps swing in the night wind. Rhinestones gleam yellow and red on sheaves of snow. There is a solemn silence, as though the world is holding its breath.

Trees wear ermine on their arms. Boots crunch and squeak in the drifts. Somewhere, there is the sound of sleighbells and the muffled thud of hoofs. The night sky is an indigo vault, pale on the edges. A billion stars wink like Christmas tree lights.

Holy Night...

Before the moment of dawn, there is the smell of wood smoke. This is the only occasion when time hangs still between tick and tock. This is the interval when the infant Jesus was born. His mother bathed Him and wrapped Him warm against the chill of Bethlehem. The tiny legs moved up and down and He uttered His first cry.

It is the rule of God that as her suffering ended, His began.

Dawn is special on Christmas Day. The great blue star in the East fights the rising rays of pale blue and yellow and pink. It flashes color onto fleecy clouds and tosses long blankets of blue shadows on the snow.

All Is Calm...

Most of all, it is a children's dawn. Sleepy-heads tumble out of bed as the rising sun studies its reflection in a billion windows. It is a time of happy cries; of apple cheeks and little faces with thumbs stuck in them.

It is kisses and shouts of "Merry Christmas." It is a green tree laden with colored ornaments. It is candy and apples and nuts in stockings. Most of all, it is happy surprises: a doll, a train, a football, a mitt, a doll house, skates, a sled, games.

All Is Bright...

It is also His birthday. Light streams in colored bands in churches where hosts of people say "Happy Birthday" in many languages and in many ways. A choir swells the old story to the skies - the birth, the star, the adoration, the magi.

Thick white flakes fall lazily. Little tongues are out to taste them. Boys play in mittens and stocking hats. A little girl visits all the neighbors, both hands stuck in a new fur muff. Strangers smile at strangers.

It is a day of cooking smells and white linen tablecloths. A day for slender glasses with stems and the ruby flash of port wine. A day for crackling log fires and a busted wind-up toy.

'Round yon Virgin, Mother and Child...

College students are back home in their own bedrooms. Adults crowd the kitchen with gossip. There are creamed onions and giblet gravy and candied yams and a turkey shining in its own juices. It is pfefferneusse and oranges and candy canes and hot toddies.

It is new robes and wallets and ties and shirts and pocketbooks, tennis racquets and a fancy putter. It is warm hearts and cold bathrooms and a clutch at the heart remembering who isn't here. It is giving and getting and loving and forgiving and remembering and forgetting.

Holy Infant So Tender and Mild...

It is snowballs in flight and runny noses. Steamy plumes from farm horses and someone reading aloud, " 'Twas the Night Before Christmas." It's a chemistry set, a manger, building blocks and television. It is a well-fed old man snoring in a chair.

It is also unexpected visits, a little stomach in cramps, the women straightening the living room every hour. It is a late bronze sun and automobiles which will not start.

Sleep in Heavenly Peace...

And, lest we forget, it is also wrong sizes, a leaden sky, a busy telephone, a roof weeping icicles, and small bottles of perfume. It is a fat puppy looking up at his new owner and wetting the rug. It is early darkness, bowls of fruit and Christmas cards.

It is little nighties much too long and lighted candles in the window which grow brighter as the sun goes down. There is a silent glance of understanding between a mother and a father. One more Christmas.

It is a sink full of dishes and a copy of "Little Women." It is a tree in tilt with a lighted star on top. It is a day on which to meditate, to wonder at the enigmatic story of life itself. A day for giving a small gift to Him.

Sleep in Heavenly Peace...

New Info On Ray And Oswald

WASHINGTON — House investigators have uncovered dramatic new evidence that the accused killer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. may not have acted alone.

The murder was pinned on James Earl Ray, an escaped convict, who used phony passports to slip out of the country. According to the investigators, he got as far as Portugal, where he received "further instructions" from a secret conspirator.

Ray finally was tracked down in London and extradited to the United States for trial. His activities in Portugal, meanwhile, have been concealed from the authorities for eight years.

Not until a few weeks ago did the House investigators learn about Ray's Portugal connection from "a witness who had never previously been interviewed by any investigative agency."

The investigators reported this startling development confidentially to the Select Committee on Assassinations. "Ray contacted another person from whom he received further instructions," they disclosed cautiously in a preliminary report.

They didn't mention in the report where the contact was made, except that it was "out of the United States." We have established that the location was Portugal.

The investigators also have uncovered some intriguing new information about Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

According to the report, the committee staff "spent seven hours questioning an ex-CIA agent who had come forth to relate his personal knowledge of the contents of conversations between Lee Harvey Oswald and personnel within the Cuban and Soviet embassies in Mexico City."

Oswald's conversations, according to our sources, were monitored by the Central Intelligence Agency. Immediately, staff members "were dispatched to Mexico City where they conducted further interviews," the report discloses. No evidence has been uncovered so far, however, that Oswald discussed the Kennedy assassination at either embassy.

The committee will probe deeply into any connection between the CIA and Kennedy's assassination. The agency, we have learned, has more than 60 cartons of top-secret documents "relating to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and the activities of Lee Harvey Oswald prior to that assassination."

Meanwhile, the committee staff is anxiously awaiting congressional approval of their request for a record $6.5 million to investigate the assassinations. Behind closed doors, Richard Sprague, the panel's brilliant staff director from Philadelphia, dramatically laid out his plans, and persuaded even the most stubborn members of the committee that the money was necessary.

Sprague pointed out that, compared to other investigations, the money he wanted was not an unreasonable sum. For example, he noted that for the first three-month period of the search for Patty Hearst, the FBI spent $2.6 million.

In addition, Sprague explained, the New York State investigation of abuse in the Medicaid program has a budget of $ million for its second year.

Rep. Henry Gonzales, D.-Tex., the incoming chairman of the assassination committee, told us he is convinced that Sprague is right.

CONFLICT CURBS: President-elect Jimmy Carter, armed with an unpublished survey showing that employes are abysmally ignorant of conflict-of-interest laws, plans to make an exective order on the problem one of his first orders of business.

According to the survey, prepared by Ralph Nader's Center for Law and Social Policy, the conflict laws are so complex that employes can't understand them.

In fact, the employes told the Nader interviewers, the legal terminology is "so boring and burdensome" that they sign federal job agreements without even reading the regulations.

Some agencies, states the report, don't even bother to provide workers with the written laws. Instead, the employes receive quick oral briefings.

Incredibly, federal agencies do not remind employes about potential conflicts when they leave the government. The burden is on the worker to determine if taking a new job is illegal.

The Lost Christmas

(Reprinted by Request)

There is nothing sadder in this world than to awake Christmas morning and not be a child.

Not to feel the cold on your bare feet as you rush to , the Christmas tree in the living room. Not to have your eyes sparkle at the wonderment of discovery. Not to rip the ribbons off the shiny boxes with such abandon.

What happened?

When did the cold, bare feet give way to reason and a pair of sensible bedroom slippers? When did the sparkle and the wonderment give way to depression of a long day? When did a box with a shiny ribbon mean an item on the "charge"?

A child of Christmas doesn't have to be a toddler or a teen. A child of Christmas is anyone who believes that Kings have birthdays.

The Christmases you loved so well are gone. What happened?

Maybe they diminished the year you decided to have your Christmas cards printed to send to 1,500 of your "closest friends and dearest obligations." You got too busy to sign your own name.

Maybe it was the year you discovered the traditional Christmas tree was a fire hazard and the needles had to be vacuumed every three hours and you traded its holiday aroma for a silver one that revolved, changed colors, played "Silent Night" and snowed on itself.

Or the year it got to be too much trouble to sit around the table and put popcorn and cranberries on a string. Possibly you lost your childhood the year you solved your gift problems neatly and coldly with a checkbook.

Think about it. It might have been the year you were too rushed to bake and resorted to slice-and-bake with no nonsense. Who needs a bowl to clean — or lick?

Most likely it was the year you were so efficient in paying back all your party obligations. A wonderful little caterer did it for you for $3 per person.

Children of Christmas are givers. That's what the day is for. They give thanks, love, gratitude, joy and themselves to one another.

It doesn't necessarily mean you have to have children around a tree. It's rather like lighting a candle you've been saving, caroling when your feet are cold, building a fire in a clean grate, grinding tinsel deep into the rug, licking frosting off a beater, giving something you made yourself.

It's laughter, being with people you like, and at some time falling to your knees and saying, "Thank you for coming to my birthday party."

How sad indeed to awake on Christmas and not be a child.

Time, self-pity, apathy, bitterness and exhaustion can take the Christmas out of the child, but you cannot take the child out of Christmas.

The Living Nativity

The Saugerties Stockaders climaxed a week of activities last Sunday with the presentation of the Living Nativity at the Partition Automotives Building, Main Street. For the week previous a Christmas display and tree that might have graced the home of a Colonist in 1776 was prepared by about 100 children from the Stockaders group. A different Santa Claus each night played by one of the Senior Citizens assisted the young people. The group also did carolling in Saugerties and heralded the whole celebration with a parade through Saugerties accompanied by the Sawyer Band brass ensemble under the direction of David Keehn.

Dolls Distributed in Time for Christmas

KINGSTON—Making clothes for and dressing dolls has long been a favorite pastime; contests are also fun, and the people at Bankers Trust Hudson Valley combined the two ideas this year for a program that would eventually cheer some child who is sick or underprivileged at Christmas.

Dolls were provided by the bank early in December to any employee, or any member of an employee's immediate family, who wished to participate. Three prizes would be awarded in each of the bank's major regions (Ulster, Dutchess and Rockland Counties).

The Ulster Region judging took place Monday at the Wall Street Branch and winners are firat prize, Mary Ann Kelly of bookkeeping, Port Ewen; second, Mary Soodek, research, Port Ewen; and third, Elna Demarest, Wall Street branch.

Judges were Harry Kapreilian, president of Charles Ramsey Corp.; Harlow F. DeForest, president of the Chidsey-DeForest Insurance Agency; Walter Maxwell of WGHQ and WBPM; and John Betaudier of WKNY.

The Ulster Region dolls were distributed to Benedictine Hospital, Kingston Hospital, WKNY's Toys for Tots Program; and Head Start programs in Saugerties and Woodstock which are supported by WGHQ-WBPM.

Musical Program Slated at Ancram

ANCRAM—Among the activities at the Ancram Restoration this Christmas is The Spiffy Music Hall, a relatively new but highly polished music hall show performed by three young gentlemen and a lady. The program runs the gamut of numbers from the 1890's through a medley of songs written in the last 80 years; an imaginary trip around the world in Flo Ziegfield style of songs; bright and lively sophisticated musical pieces which Noel Coward, Rodgers and Hart, Cole Porter wrote in the 1920's and '30s.

The troupe performs the music as it was written, high stepping, rhythmic dance routines that accompany the songs and done as they should be with grace and style.

Information for the busy schedule may be obtained at the Ancram Opera House. The schedule for The Spiffy Music Hall includes Christmas Day, 8:30 p.m.; Sunday, Dec. 26, 2:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, New Year's Day, 8:30 p.m. and Sunday, Jan. 2, 2:30 p.m. Tickets are $6.95 for orchestra seats and $9.95 for box seats. Special dinner-theater prices are available.

The Ancram Opera House will be the site used for the first Christmas Mass (Roman Catholic Liturgy) to be celebrated in the restoration for the general public. The Candlelight Carol Service to mark the end of Advent and Eucharistic Celebration will start tonight at 11:30. The Rev. Gerard Tierney, director of religious education of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Albany, will celebrate the liturgy.

DEAR ABBY

Unmarried Mother Expecting Again

DEAR ABBY: I am 29 years old, have seven kids and I am pregnant again. I've never been married, but I've been engaged twice and I've been pinned several times. Don't tell me I should have been more careful because I WAS careful, but nothing seemed to work with me.

A doctor put me on birth control pills, and I followed his instructions, but I turned up pregnant anyway. The doctor said it must have been the fault of the pills, so he put me on another brand, and the same thing happened.

I've used other methods including marking the calendar, but they all failed. I must be one of those super fertile types.

I don't want any more kids after this, at least not until I get married, but I don't want an operation to make me sterile because I might meet a guy who wants a kid of his own, and then what will I do?

Is there a method of birth control that is positively sure? Don't send me to a doctor. They're the ones who got me into this fix.—FERTILE MYRTLE

DEAR MYRTLE: When it comes to birth control, the only method that's 100 per cent effective is SELF-control.

You don't say who's supporting all those kids, but if we taxpayers are, you owe it to your country to visit the Planned Parenthood people and turn off the baby machine.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and have this problem with my boyfriend. We've been going together for nearly two years, and when we go to a movie or out to eat, he thinks I should pay my own way. I suppose it's only fair because I'm working, too, but this is what bothers me. He asks me for the money in private and then pays for both of us in public so it won't make him look bad. He says it's embarrassing for a guy to be with a girl who lays down her own cash.

Well, it makes me feel bad to see him pretending to be a big shot. But on the other hand, when a girl pays her own way, it makes her look like she couldn't get a guy any other way.

What do you think, Abby? Should a girl pay her own way? And if she does, should she be up front about it? Or should she slip it to the guy so he won't look cheap?— —JUST ME

DEAR JUST: If the girl wants to pay her own way, and her date has no objections, why not? But if she does, she should do so openly. And the guy who would accept a girl's money privately and then make a big show of "treating" her is phony.

DEAR ABBY: I am so mad at myself, I don't know what else to do, so I'm writing to Dear Abby!

I let an 8-year-old con artist (my son) talk me into buying him a dog! He cried and begged and promised to take care of it, so like a fool I gave in.

For exactly one week the kid "took care" of his dog. He ever got up early to take the dog out. Well, the novelty soon wore off, and now guess who's taking care of the dog? The kid does the dog a favor and plays with it (in the house) for maybe 10 minutes.

I guess I want to tell other parents that just because a kid begs for a dog doesn't mean he really wants it.

I wish there was a "rent-a-dog" outfit in business somewhere. I'd have rented this pooch first to find out if I really wanted to buy him.—GROWLING MAD

DEAR GROWLING: Thanks for the tip. Put your kid in the doghouse and try to find a good home for the pooch.

There Are Many Faces of Santa

(By UPI)

To the Johnnie Shoate family, Santa Claus is the Detroit police force. And in the Louisiana bayous, Santa is a raggedy man in muskrat trappings driving a skiff pulled by alligators.

Santas of all shapes emerged today for Christmas Eve, some in red suits bearing gifts, others in more mundane attire, bearing Christmas cheer for the down-and-out.

The Detroit police force is Santa for the family of Lt. Johnnie Shoates, who was shot in the head trying to stop a restraurant robbery while off duty last October. Shoates is still in critical condition and semiconscious. He has never seen his daughter, Kelli, born 11 days after the shooting.

Officers in Shoates' precinct and throughout the city have raised $3,050 for the Shoates and have helped out in other ways — even putting up the Christmas tree.

Somewhere between the North Pole and Louisiana's Bayou Teche, Santa sheds his crimson-and-white suit for muskrat trappings and ditches his reindeer and sleigh for a gator-pulled skiff.

That's the Santa of "Cajun Night Before Christmas," an illustrated Cajun dialect version of Clement Moore's classic. The Cajun version's fast becoming a classic of its own in the bayous.

Bruce McDonald, however, is a more traditional St. Nick. And the Chicago businessman says he sometimes thinks — - like the children he visits — - that he really is Santa.

McDonald has been taking time off the job to play Santa for 24 years.

"It's my way of saying 'I love you' to my world," says McDonald, who is visiting his son in Richmond, Va., for the holidays.

His visits are rarely announced — sometimes to homes where he's a stranger. His appointment book is as full as his sack of candy canes but he's always ready to add another stop.

"When I'm dead tired, I play Santa Claus because of a memory," he said.

The memory is of a visit to a Chicago hospital, where a nurse asked him to make one more stop to see her mother, an elderly stroke victim who hadn't moved for several days.

"I leaned down to her and said, 'Hello Mary. This is Santa."

He said he laid a candy cane by her hand and started to leave when her face lit up and she waved faintly.

"That's why I play Santa. If you can bring love and happiness to just one person, it's well worth it."

At San Quentin prison in California, Santa is a convict serving a life term on two murder charges. But the convict Santa, Don Blansett, is a marvel to the children of fellow inmates. After a few minutes on his knee, most forget where they are.

In Los Angeles, Milo Speriglio and his band of detectives, who make a good many people unhappy plying their trade the rest of the year, are back playing Santa Claus.

Speriglio is director of the Nick Harris Private Detective Agency, where a telephone problem four years ago began a tradition. Four years ago the 87-person agency was flooded with calls from children asking for Santa Claus after a dial-a-Santa service took a phone number only one digit removed from theirs. Rather than disappoint the children, the detectives began pretending to be Santa. Women detectives said they were Mrs. Claus or an elf.

The number was passed around school yards and every year since, the detectives found themselves spending a lot more time ho-ho-hoing than gumshoeing.

And, while Santa has been under fire recently from psycholists who say the Santa tradition may be harmful to children, Texas Tech University professor of psychiatry Dr. Harold M. Erickson Jr. says Santa represents hope for many children and is a good idea, if not carried too far.

Woes Fail to Mar Yule

(By UPI)

People around the world are celebrating the Christmas holiday in a festive mood despite economic uncertainty, warnings of violence and government attempts to discourage religion.

In Bethlehem, the birthplace of Jesus, thousands of pilgrims were expected today to attend a Midnight Mass at St. Catherine's Church, adjoining the fourth century Basilica of the Nativity. A silver star in the Basilica marks the spot where Jesus was born nearly 2,000 years ago.

Italy is celebrating Christmas in the usual way — with two papal Masses, cribs in churches and a strike, this time the railroads. But shopping is down and the atmosphere is less cheerful than in previous years because of the nation's economic woes.

Pope Paul VI's Yule program includes a midnight Mass in St. Peter's Cathedral televised live to more than 30 countries and a morning Mass on Christmas Day.

Even nations that live under harsh governments are not immune from the holiday spirit. The South Korean government is lifting its midnight to 4 a.m. curfew and Chileans will not face a curfew for the first time since a 1973 military coup.

In Argentina, the military government is warning citizens to beware of bombs disguised as Christmas gifts and distributed by "subversive criminals (who) have no feeling of Christian peace and may use the holiday to spread chaos."

In Rhodesia, citizens have been warned against a predicted upsurge in black guerrilla activity over the holiday.

"It's a turkey and guns Christmas for Rhodesia," said Jack Jocelyn, a white storekeeper near Salisbury.

"We still go to the usual round of Christmas parties but all people can talk about is whether we'll still be in Rhodesia next year."

Yugoslavs are managing to celebrate Christmas despite the government's attempt to discourage the practice by replacing it with a two-day holiday for the New Year.

Swedish families start feasting early today on dark raisin bread dipped in ham cooking juices, pate, meatballs, sausages, red cabbage, stout beer and lemonade. German, Dutch, French and British families also were gathering for traditional Christmas feasts.

Season's Greetings

At this most joyous of holidays, the staff and delivery people here at 79 Hurley Avenue fervently wish for you everything good and beautiful.
We sincerely appreciate, in this our 105th year, the support of our readers and advertisers.

THE FORGOTTEN MOUNTAIN

All that's missing is the echo of nine-pins

Is a Renaissance Dawning For the Windham Mt. Club?

By STEVE KANE
Freeman Staff

WINDHAM — It's easy to imagine how one person, especially one so insignificant as Rip Van Winkle, could have been lost and forgotten in the Catskills for 20 years, but a whole mountain?

Move over, Washington Irving, truth is stranger than fiction.

Ten years is more like the number in this case, but that certainly serves to make the case of Windham Mountain unique. Windham, for those who don't know, is a ski area, a big ski area. It has everything you would expect to find in a major Eastern ski resort, everything save skiers. And therein lies the puzzle.

Gene McMasters pushed himself away from his desk and swung his gaze out the window. In the distance empty chairs spun silently around the base of a chairlift. "I think my third goal would be to increase the midweek business up from zero to 100 skiers per day."

"You mean nobody skis here during the week?"

"That's about right."

Windham didn't start out the way most ski areas did, and that's essentially the reason for the current state of affairs. Four years after Tom Sheridan bought his 800 acres, four years of a small return on a large investment, Windham became a private club. A few hundred people had effectively solved the problem that ranks second only to bad weather for skiers—overcrowding.

After a few refinements the club concept proved workable. Windham maintained its equilibrium, and the membership climbed to about 650. New trails were cut, facilities were added, and still there were no liftlines. But in the early '70s a lot of Eastern ski areas went under. Dry, warm winters gobbled up a bunch of small time operations. Windham also felt the heat.

"I think the weather was the prime reason. The economy was bad, too, but we had a lot of members who were able to stand that. There was no snow, and people just weren't skiing."

Before McMasters could continue a young boy knocked on the open door of the office. He wanted to know if he could go sleighriding on the slope. It probably didn't occur to him that the only reason his Flexible Flyer might get a workout was because a crew of men worked all summer with backhoes and bulldozers laying miles of pipe that were attached to a huge compressor.

Last season Windham's membership rolls were at 450. Thanks to a few of those members the club survived, but it was apparent some changes were needed. The club started by hiring Gene McMasters. They told him to do the rest. It was the scope of that assignment that lured McMasters away from Loon Mountain, New Hampshire.

He'd enjoyed his tenure at Loon. Under Loon's guiding light, Sherman Adams, he'd experienced what he considers the better side of skiing. A good mountain, an ambience fostered by Loon's limited lift ticket sale, and a strong cadre of repeat customers. All that especially in contrast to his first ski resort job at Mount Snow, "life with the barracudas," as he says.

A Madison Avenue warrior until the age of 45, he first saw the challenge of selling Windham—and that was no challenge at all. Of the 90-odd ski areas in New York State, he points out, only three have a bigger vertical. The snowmaking capacity is also exceptional. Few places in the East can cover more acres artificially, and Windham's system reaches to the summit and fans out under every lift.

Peter Klempa's accent doesn't hinder his speech at all, probably because for the last decade or so he's been spending only half a year in his native Argentina. He looked up at his winter home and drew a comparison with the ski area seven miles down the road.

"Sometimes when they close the lifts at Hunter because of the wind, we're still going here. This is much more sheltered."

If a ski area were measured by how much enjoyment it provided, Windham's potential has been barely scratched. McMasters wants to tap that potential with his first responsibility to the current members of the Windham club.

The mountain belongs to the club members on the weekends. For a substantial investment you can join the club. During the week, though, all you need is eight dollars and a serious attitude.

That midweek business would be a welcome boon to Windham. To help promote it, McMasters has a list of daily deals—things like discounts for college students and senior citizens, cut rates for residents of certain counties (Ulster included), and a special rate for mixed couples. (Dogs don't count, unless they ski.)

If a cash flow from that source develops, it would be something of a bonus. It ranks behind McMaster's second goal of adding 50 new members this year.

The word "millionaire" has been used. We've been told some members are "out of the country." McMasters realizes it and doesn't want to distort the perspective.

"We're shooting for the middle income guy. The guy who makes $20,000 and has a couple of kids."

All the ingredients for success seem to be present. The only potential pitfall looming is some kind of economic crunch, and Windham survived one already. McMasters certainly believes in the future and he's got a rolled up map of Windham, 1990, to prove it.

The simple factors are that Windham is a fine mountain; it has a base lodge that borders on extravagant; it has expansion possibilities that few, if any, ski areas in the East can match. Right now it is a rare entity—an uncrowded mountain, and is it designed to stay that way.

McMasters crushed a Taryton and blew out the last of the smoke. "You know," he said, "Windham was ten years ahead of its time."

Every Point Counts For Improving Rangers

BOSTON (UPI) — This tie was akin to punching your sister and having her hit back with a lead-lined pocketbook.

The 3-3 deadlock between the Boston Bruins and New York Rangers Thursday night kept the Rangers in last place in the Patrick Division and dropped the Bruins two points out of first in the Adams Division. But it was a good, physical hockey game that left each coach satisfied with the progress of his team.

New York's Steve Vickers forced the deadlock with a quick poke from in front of the Boston goal with 7:20 remaining in the contest. Fleet rookie Don Murdoch had the first two Ranger goals, his 26th and 27th, while Earl Anderson, Terry O'Reilly and John Bucyk registered the Boston scores.

"We've got to play for ties in our division," said Rangers' Coach John Ferguson, whose club trails third-place Atlanta by one point and first-place Philadelphia by 10 points in the NHL's Patrick Division. "Every point is so valuable.

"We've got to get (catch up) to Atlanta and then...we're going for first place."

The Bruins, whose 10-point lead over Buffalo has dissolved during a 3-8-2 stretch have played three more games than the first place Buffalo Sabres.

"We've played two super games in a row (including a 3-0 loss to the New York Islanders (Tuesday night) and we've only got one point to show for it," said Boston Coach Don Cherry.

"I like what I'm seeing. I know no one believes me — I'm like Shakespeare: 'Thou dost protest too much' — but I do like what I see."

What Cherry saw was 60 minutes of hard-fought hockey as the Bruins jumped to a 2-0 lead 43 seconds into the middle period only to have Murdoch's pair even the match. Bucyk stole a pass and got an unassisted goal 4:15 into the final period and Vickers knotted the game again on a cross-ice pass from Wayne Dillon.

The theatrics in between the goals made the game more enjoyable for the 12,178 Boston Garden fans who love to hate the Rangers. Ranger wing Nick Fotiu picked up an interference penalty 56 seconds into the game and added a high stick and misconduct penalty six minutes later.

The second period was rugged but penalty free, setting up a brutal third period. First Rod Gilbert received a 10-minute misconduct on Bucyk's goal. The veteran Ranger, upset because Boston's Rick Middleton had pinned goalie Gilles Gratton behind the New York net to leave Bucyk a wide-open shot, tossed his stick into the stands.

The main event occurred at 7:29 when Murdoch went after a puck along the Boston boards and appeared to hit Milbury with a clean, hard check. Milbury, upset over an earlier elbow joust with the Ranger rookie, whacked Murdoch repeatedly behind the head and shoved him to the ice. Ranger center Walt Tkaczuk zoomed to Murdoch's aid and received a game misconduct.

Milbury ended up with a five-minute fighting penalty and Murdoch a two-minute infraction for roughing.

Five seconds before the tying goal, Carol Vadnais and Brad Park —involved in last year's Rangers-Bruins trade — traded sticks and elbows and were awarded two-minute penalties by referee Wally Harris.

Flyers 5, Caps 2

After a slow start, the Philadelphia Flyers finally have overtaken the New York Islanders for first place in the Patrick Division of the National Hockey League, and the prime mover in the past two games is a player not well known for knowing where the goal is.

Don Saleski, best-known for having the same nickname as Mark "The Bird" Fidrych (Saleski had his "bird" first), scored more than 15 goals only once in his five-year National Hockey League career —last season, with 21— and had just four this season before Wednesday night's contest against the New York Rangers.

He now has seven, thanks to a shorthanded goal that helped the Flyers to a tie against the Rangers and two goals, including the winner, Thursday night in a 5-2 triumph over the Washington Capitals that gave Philadelphia a two-point Patrick Division lead over the Islanders.

In the World Hockey Association, Houston edged Cincinnati 6-5 in overtime, Calgary nipped Minnesota 2-1 and New England outscored San Diego 5-3.

Red Wings 5, Penguins 2

Jim Nahrgang and Rick Wilson scored open net goals in the final minute of play, Nahrgang's coming from 160 feet. Bill Lochead paced Detroit with a pair of goals and Walt McKechnie added another before Pittsburgh Coach Ken Schinkel pulled goalie Denis Herron twice to give the Penguins an extra forward advantage in the final minute.

Sabres 4, Leafs 2

Rene Robert scored his 10th goal on a 20-foot shot with 4:46 to play and Craig Ramsay added an insurance goal into an empty net in the final minute to rally Buffalo from a 2-0 deficit to its seventh straight victory. The Leafs got their two goals from Bob Neely and Dave Williams 33 seconds apart in the first period. Rick Martin scored his 22nd goal for Buffalo.

Blues 4, Canucks 2

Bob Gassoff scored with three seconds left in the second period to break a 2-2 tie. His point shot was deflected past goaltender Cesare Maniago, who played his second game in as many nights.

New Jersey Eyeing All-Stars

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — First the New York Giants, next the College All-Star Game?

The New Jersey Sports Authority, which lured the New York Giants away from New York City and refurbished Yankee Stadium, has now become the second bidder for the recently discontinued College All-Star football game amid suggestions of possible changes in the game's format.

A spokesman for the Sports Authority said Thursday that Chairman Sonny Werblin contacted National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle about sponsoring the game in New Jersey's Giants Stadium.

On Wednesday, Joe Albritton, publisher of the Washington Star, expressed interest in acquiring the game, which traditionally matches a squad of college football all-stars against the NFL Super Bowl champions and had been sponsored for 43 years by the Chicago Tribune. But the Chicago paper Tuesday cited increased expenses and uncertainty over its ability to recruit personnel as reasons for withdrawing its backing of the game.

The brainchild of former Tribune sports editor Arch Ward, the game, played annually in Chicago, has raised more than $4 million for needy causes.

In recent years, the game has been opposed by many NFL owners, who object to their high draft choices missing the first three weeks of preseason training and risking possible injury. In addition, 26 of the 54 players who participated in last year's game were unsigned.

Among the alternatives proposed by the New Jersey Sports Authority are a rematch between the Super Bowl finalists or a game between two college all-star squads. The collegiate players have not beaten the NFL representative since 1963, with many scores being one-sided.

"To put it in a basically positive plane," the spokesman said, "we would be interested in reviving the game in any conceivable type, shape or form."

He may have a big night planned for this evening, but this gentleman found time Thursday to get in a little relaxation at Woodstock Country Club. And from the looks of things, Santa could use a present himself. How about a dozen golf balls?

FREEMAN FLASHBACK

25 Years Ago Today

December 24, 1951...Rapp's Furniture Express keglers set an all-time city and Hudson Valley League team record of 3,414 and Joe Schrowang rolled 771 for an all-time city individual series mark in a league match with Elston Sports at Ferraro's Bowlodrome...Los Angeles Rams beat Cleveland Browns for the first time in six tries, 24-17, for the NFL championship. Rookie quarterback Norm Van Brocklin sent a 73-yard touchdown pass to Tom Fears for the clincher.

Millbrook Trims Rhinebeck Cagers

PINE PLAINS — After posting its first win of the season in Wednesday's opening round of the Pine Plains Christmas Tournament, Rhinebeck High's basketball team fell to Millbrook, 59-48, in Thursday's championship contest.

The smaller Indians hung in for a good half against the Blazers, but a series of Millbrook fast breaks in the third period enabled the winners to open up an eight-point lead. Not a strong offensive club, that gap was too much for Rhinebeck to close.

"We kept their big men off the boards, but while we were concentrating on that we didn't contain (Wayne) Finger" said Rhinebeck coach Bob Ahlin. "He's about a six foot guard, and he gets up and down the court pretty fast."

Finger had 20 points to lead all scorers, and he was a key factor in the third period when Millbrook took command. Ahlin figured his squad was caught napping for about four uncontested layups during that period.

Steve Sherman had 17 points to pace the Indians, but only five of the losers hit the scoreboard, and only three reached double figures. That situation was a little different in the first round battle.

Rhinebeck took on host Pine Plains in their opener after took the preliminary contest, 55-55 from Webutuck. The Indians had been winless in three previous starts, but they jumped right out in front of the Bombers and managed to stay there.

"We pressed the whole game and forced a lot of turnovers, Ahlin said, "that's the only way we won. Joe Mazzarella did some scoring for us too, and that's something we hadn't been getting."

Sherman and John O'Han each had 15, Jim Ferriello had 12 and Mazzarella chipped in with 11 against Pine Plains.

Rhinebeck will seek to improve its 1-4 slate January 4 when Webutuck pays a visit for a Bi-Valley contest. The Indians have a chance to even the score with Millbrook on January 21.

"I think we can take them or our court," said Ahlin. "It's a little smaller, and our press might work better there."

JV Tourney at Rhinebeck

RHINEBECK — Rhinebeck Central School will host its third annual junior varsity basketball tournament Tuesday and Wednesday.

Germantown, Haldane and North Salem will be in the field with the Indians. Rhinebeck, 0-4 thus far, will meet 5-0 Germantown in the Tuesday nitecap at 8:45 p.m. North Salem, 0-2, faces Haldane, 2-1, in the opener at 7 p.m.

The championship and consolation games will occupy the same time slots Wednesday. Thursday has been reserved in case of inclement weather.

Gay's Wife Is Indicted

CAMDEN, N.J. (UPI) — Roxanne Gay, the wife of Philadelphia Eagles' defensive lineman Blenda Gay, has been indicted on charges of stabbing her husband to death in their apartment Monday.

A Camden County grand jury handed up the first-degree murder indictment Thursday charging Mrs. Gay, 26, with stabbing her husband in the neck with an eight-inch kitchen knife while their 3-year-old daughter, Fonda, slept in another room.

Mrs. Gay was arrested at the Gays' luxury garden apartment in Blackwood after Gay telephoned for help, saying he had been stabbed in the neck. She has been held in lieu of $100,000 bail since her arrest on murder charges.

Camden County Prosecutor Thomas J. Shusted said the couple had a history of quarreling.

Mrs. Gay's defense lawyer said at her arraignment that Gay had beaten his wife and a Gloucester Township official said Mrs. Gay once filed assault charges against her husband.

Rams Had Better Bring Their Mittens to Chilly Minnesota

By UPI

The Los Angeles Rams are reminded to take their mittens to Minnesota for this Sunday's National Football Conference championship game against the Vikings.

It is expected to be considerably warmer in Oakland for the American Football Conference's championship game between the Raiders and the defending Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers.

With temperatures in the teens and wintry winds whipping across the Minnesota flatland, the visitors from sunny Southern California will have to battle the elements as well as the Vikings.

In past years, the Vikings have moved their postseason practices to Tulsa, Okla., because of the Minnesota's annual ice age. But this year Coach Bud Grant elected to remain in Bloomington and quarterback Fran Tarkenton believes it will help the Vikings.

"Staying here to practice has been a definite advantage for us," Tarkenton said. "That's not because of the cold, but because traveling is never an advantage. It's never a convenience. It wears you out."

"The cold weather doesn't hamper our practices," Grant said. "It's the snow that's the troublemaker."

It used to be the worse the weather, the bigger the advantage for the Vikings.

But the Vikings have a new look this season with an explosive offense centered around Tarkenton and wide receivers Sammie White and Ahmad Rashad. Clearly, the Vikings will be hoping for dry weather Sunday in order to deploy their air attack.

Conversely, the Rams appear better suited for an "off-track" as running backs Lawrence McCutcheon and John Cappelletti each gained 100 yards in a 10-10 tie against the Vikings earlier this season. In that game, Minnesota's Chuck Foreman and Brent McClanahan combined for only 59 yards.

While a good football game is expected in Minnesota, war is forecast for Oakland.

"I think people are expecting to see the Little Big Horn out there," Pittsburgh defensive end Dwight White said.

The Pittsburgh-Oakland rivalry has been pro football's bitterest since the immaculate reception by St. Franco in 1973 when Jack Tatum batted down a Terry Bradshaw pass which Franco Harris scooped up at his shoetops and carried into the end zone for the winning touchdown in the final seconds of a playoff game.

Lawsuits are being served on Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll for referring to the Raiders' defensive back George Atkinson as part of the "criminal element" in the NFL. Additionally, Atkinson gave the Steelers' top wide receiver, Lynn Swann, a concussion with a blow from behind in Pittsburgh's season-opening loss to the Raiders.

"I think it's going to be a high intensity game, with some vicious hitting out there," White said. But, he added, "That goes on every week.

"They've got too much to lose to worry about fighting. We've got too much to lose to worry about fighting. I think whoever does the most fighting is probably going to end up the loser."

Oakland Coach John Madden is more concerned with the Pittsburgh defense, which has been almost impenetrable during the Steelers' 10-game winning streak.

"They're red-dogging a little more than they used to and they're mixing up their defense a lot more," Madden said.

In losing four of their first five games, the Steelers yielded 95 points. In winning their final nine games, the Steelers gave up only two touchdowns and a total of 28 points while recording five shutouts. The Steelers then met Baltimore, the NFL's top offensive team, in the first round of the playoffs last week and routed the Colts, 40-14.

Indiana Cage Fans Rate an Assist

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The basketball fans gained a large part of the credit for the Indiana Pacers' 96-94 comeback victory over the New York Nets in the National Basketball Association Thursday night.

However, Nets' Coach Kevin Loughery didn't even think he had a right to say anything about the game since he wasn't around for the final two minutes when Indiana charged from 10 points back and moved ahead on Billy Knight's three-point play with 28 seconds remaining.

"I didn't see the game so I can't comment on it," claimed Loughery, who was chased with two technical fouls late in the fourth quarter.

But Bobby Leonard of Indiana and assistant New York Coach Rod Thorn agreed the fans were a big factor.

"Our crowd is not very vocal and a crowd pushes a team a lot," Thorn said. "This crowd tonight helped the Pacers win."

But Thorn also said several key steals when Indiana went to a hounding defense also counted a lot.

"We couldn't get a good shot off. They made a good comeback," he concluded.

"Our crowd really helped," Leonard explained. "That's what a home crowd is for. When you get something going like we did and the crowd gets excited and vocal it really helps."

He added that "we had to go to our trap defense and go after the ball. It really worked out right tonight."

Knight finished with 32 points, high for all players. New York's John Williamson pumped in 28. Forward Darnell Hillman also contributed 19 points for Indiana along with a strong rebounding effort with a season high 22 rebounds. He also blocked seven shots.

Dan Roundfield, who injured his right wrist and will be X-rayed today, scored 16 points for Indiana, the final one on a free throw after the final buzzer when he was fouled and hurt.

Suns 107, Braves 92

Excuse Ernie DiGregorio if he "Bah, humbugs" his Christmas gift from Phoenix' Ricky Sobers.

Ever since coming into the National Basketball Association, DiGregorio has strived to escape the nickname "Ernie No D," a reference to his reputed defensive shortcomings. And Sobers may have stuck the Buffalo guard with that sobriquet permanently Thursday night.

Sobers, known primarily as a defensive specialist, scored a career-high 28 points to lead the Suns to a 107-92 victory over the Braves.

Even more damaging to DiGregorio was what Sobers had to say after the game.

"I tried to be more offensive minded against him," Sobers said of DiGregorio. "I feel I can take him one-on-one because of my height advantage and because he has the reputation of not being a good defensive player. I think he really is the weak link in Buffalo's defense."

The Suns' victory ended a four-game losing streak.

DiGregorio also had a tough night offensively as he scored only 11 points.

The Suns' guards scored 69 points as Paul Westphal scored 22 and reserves Ron Lee and Dick Van Arsdale had 11 and 8, respectively.

John Shumate was high for Buffalo with 26 points.

Spurs 118, Bullets 116

Larry Kenon scored 26 points to lead San Antonio to victory as Washington's Elvin Hayes missed a last-second tap, which would have tied the game. Hayes had 32 points and 15 rebounds to lead the Bullets.

Bulls 101, Hawks 95

Mickey Johnson scored 26 points to lead Chicago to its eighth victory in the last 10 games. Artis Gilmore had 23 points for the Bulls, while Lou Hudson scored 22 to lead Atlanta, which lost its fourth straight.

Bucks 107, Warriors 92

Bobby Dandridge scored 22 points and Milwaukee scored the game's final eight points to record its third straight victory. Gus Williams led the Golden State scoring with 26 points.

Nuggets 123, SuperSonics 95

David Thompson scored a season-high 38 points and Bobby Jones added 20 by extending his string of consecutive field goals to a team-record 17 over a two-game period to lead Denver to an easy victory. Tom Burleson scored 17 points to lead Seattle, which lost its fifth straight game.

Long Beach St. 'Celebrates'

By UPI

Long Beach State received word Thursday night the NCAA was lifting its athletic probation effective Jan. 5, then went out and celebrated by losing to Montana, 77-75, for the 49ers' fourth loss in 104 games at the Long Beach Arena.

The end of the probation means Long Beach State football and basketball teams will not be barred from television appearances or post-season competition after Jan. 5.

The violations responsible for the NCAA penalties occured under the coaching regimes of Jerry Tarkanian, now the basketball coach at Nevada-Las Vegas, and Jim Strangland, who resigned as football coach to go into the insurance business.

"This is the best holiday present possible," Long Beach State president Stephen Horn said after the NCAA's announcement. "They (the 49ers' athletes) have waited patiently for this moment. Now our teams are ready and anxious to meet any and all comers."

He was proved wrong less than a few hours later.

Montana guard Kirk Rocholeau scored with 19 seconds left in the game to lift the Grizzlies over the 49ers. M.R. Richardson, a 6-5 forward, scored 28 points and 6-10 Lee Johnson added 24 to lead Montana to its sixth victory in eight games.

Long Beach State got 12 points apiece from Ricard Johnson, Donnie Martin and highly-recruited freshman Michael Wiley as the 49ers' record dropped to 6-3.

Despite the loss, however, it was still a night for celebration in Long Beach.

Alabama also had good reason to celebrate as the fourth-ranked Crimson Tide won the Carolina Classic with a 67-62 victory over South Carolina.

Freshman Robert Scott came off the bench and scored 12 of his 14 points in the second half to lead Alabama to its eighth victory without a loss his season.

Guard T.R. Dunn' an strong defensive player, was named the tournament's most valuable Player, after scoring 15 points in the victory over the Gamecocks.

No. 20 Georgetown won third place in the tournament with a 60-40 romp over Harvard as Derick Jackson and Ed Hopkins each scored 12 points for the Hoyas.

Roy Hamilton sank four free throws and Jim Shilgo25q ltWilbur Olinde added two apiece in the final 58 seconds to give eighth-ranked UCLA a 59-55 victory over William & Mary.

Brad Holland led the UCLA scoring with 11 points and Hamilton added 10. Matt Courage led William & Mary with 18 points.

No. 15 Utah scored the first six points in overtime and topped Weber State, 88-81. Greg Deane, who scored six points in the overtime, and Jeff Judkins had 20 points each for the Utes and Jeff Jonas added 19 although his string of consecutive free throws ended at 42, a school record. Bruce Collins of Weber State scored a game-high 28 points.

No. 16 Minnesota edged Kansas State, 62-60, on guard Ray Williams' layup in the final minute. Mike Thompson led the Minnesota scoring with 16 points.

Greg Ballard scored 15 points and Rob Closs nine to lead 18th-ranked Oregon to a 42-38 victory over Grambling.

In other major games, Rutgers edged Pittsburgh, 81-77; Memphis State routed TCU, 116-72; Drake beat Illinois State, 80-67; Arkansas defeated Tulsa, 81-66; Oklahoma City edged Texas, 66-65.

Finley: It Was My Decision

CHICAGO (UPI) — Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley says he believed the decision on whether to buy, trade or sell players on his team was solely his prerogative and was outside the realm of Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Finley was in court Thursday in hopes of giving owners sole control over the purchase, sale and trading of players.

Finley announced in June the sale of pitcher Vida Blue to the New York Yankees for $1.5 million, and of relief pitcher Rollie Fingers and outfielder Joe Rudi to the Boston Red Sox for $1 million each. Kuhn blocked the sale in "the best interests of baseball," and Finley alleges in his suit that Kuhn had no authority to do so.

Testifying for the second day in his $3.5 million U.S. District Court suit against Kuhn, Finley outlined his understanding of how deals for players should be made.

"It was a very simple understanding, that if I cared to buy a ball player or trade a ball player, that that was my prerogative. And in the same respect, if I cared to sell a ball player, that also was my prerogative," he said.

"At the time I came into baseball and today, it has been my understanding that the 'best interest of baseball' provision (was) that the commissioner would make sure there was no gambling going on, that there was nothing immoral going on."

The Oakland owner said that in his 17 years in baseball he had never heard of a commissioner disapproving a sale.

Finley said he tried to sign some of his star players whose contracts were expiring but they all turned his offers down and he said he had to either trade or sell them.

He cited as one example slugger Reggie Jackson. Finley said he offered Jackson $1.5 million to sign a five-year contract but he refused and was later traded to the Baltimore Orioles.

Finley said he offered Don Baylor, Rudi, Fingers, Bert Campaneris and Gene Tenace each at least a three year contract at $90,000 a year. Most of them were offered much more money, he said.

U.S. District Court Judge Frank J. McGarr recessed after 45 minutes Thursday and scheduled the next session for 2 p.m. Jan. 3, when Finley is expected to be questioned by Kuhn's attorneys.

Ralston Won't Quit

DENVER (UPI) — John Ralston, the winningest coach in Denver Bronco history, Thursday refused to quit as head coach of the National Football League club despite dissension among key players who urged his resignation.

The 49-year-old coach made the announcement after a meeting with team owner Gerald Phipps and General Manager Fred Gehrke. The two officials had met two days earlier in the week with several players who demanded Ralston's resignation.

"I have never walked away from anything in my life, and I'm not a quitter," Ralston said. "We've gone too far in the last five years not to see this thing through."

Ralston, whose 9-5 record this past season was the best in Bronco history, said he expected apologies from the players who took the action. He also warned some of them would be wearing different uniforms next year.

'Most Confused Deal of Year'

ATLANTA (UPI) — Former Texas Ranger Jeff Burroughs apparently plans to become an Atlanta Brave next season after all, a Braves' spokesman said Thursday.

"At this point the plans are for Burroughs and his fiance to come to Atlanta the first week in January for his first introduction to the city," said Bob Hope of the Braves.

Hope said Burroughs, Atlanta owner Ted Turner, Rangers' owner Brad Corbett, General Manager Eddie Robinson, and Burroughs' attorney, Marvin Demoff, had straightened out "one of the most confused baseball deals of the year" on the telephone.

The men had "pretty much come to the agreement" that the trade was valid, Hope said.

Turner said "our position is that he's an Atlanta Brave and that's the way it stands now."

The Braves swapped five players and $250,000 in cash for the Ranger outfielder who has a reputation as a long hitter. Burroughs, however, balked at going to Atlanta and said he had signed a no-trade contract with the Rangers last year.

But Robinson argued Burroughs had no choice but to move to Atlanta because his contract did not include a no-cut clause.

Earlier in the day, the situation had begun to take on the proportions of a confused soap opera with none of those involved apparently knowing what was going on.

Corbett had reportedly taken Burroughs and Demoff to Las Vegas Tuesday night to discuss the situation. Afterwards, Burroughs said the trade had been canceled and he would be remaining with the Rangers.

Turner charged the deal was never in question and Corbett was playing "king of the mountain."

For his part, Corbett said the matter was up to Turner, but he hoped to work out a new deal to bring Burroughs back to the Rangers.

Yost to Red Sox

BOSTON (UPI) — Eddie Yost, an 18-year major leaguer who coached the New York Mets the past nine seasons, signed Thursday to coach for the Boston Red Sox.

Yost, a six-time American League leader in walks earned, was a third baseman with a lifetime batting average of .254.

He spent 14 seasons with the Washington Senators before finishing his career with Detroit and the Los Angels Angels. Yost, 50, set a major league record for games played at third base (2,008).

It has not been announced where he will be used, although it expected he will coach first base.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Tom Gorman announced his retirement Thursday after a 25-year career as a National League umpire.

NL president Charles S. Feeney said Gorman, 57, would continue to work in baseball and for the National League. His duties will include special assignments and speaking engagements.

Gorman, who once pitched for the New York Giants, began his umpiring career in 1947 in the New England League and joined the NL staff in 1951.

Newborn in Delaware County

Babe Wrapped in Clothing Left in Shopper's Auto

WALTON, N.Y. (UPI) — The calls have begun to come into the Delaware County Sheriff's Department from persons seeking to adopt a newborn boy hastily left on the seat of a car while the owner of the vehicle was shopping.

Hazel O'Dell scarcely believed what she saw Thursday when she returned to her auto after 15 minutes of shopping at McLean's Food Store and found the infant. She called police.

The boy, nearly nine pounds, had been born less than two hours earlier, Chief Paul Peterson said. The umbilical cord had been clipped with a clothes pin and the boy was wrapped in a blanket.

Mrs. O'Dell said she had been in the store for only 15 minutes, and that the child must have been left during that time in her unlocked car, which was parked in front of the store.

The store is on the main street of this village of 3,700 persons, and officials said it seemed inconceivable that someone could have placed the infant in the vehicle without someone noticing. They have asked all local residents for help in solving the mystery.

The baby was taken to Delaware Valley Hospital, where doctors report he is in good condition today.

A deputy at the sheriff's department in Delhi, where calls are taken for the Walton village police, said that once the story got around, there had been several calls from persons seeking to adopt the boy. All had to be refused, he said.

Police are searching for the child's mother who could be charged with abandonment if she were found, deputies said. If she is not located, the baby will be turned over to the county's welfare agency for adoption procedings.

'Miss Lillian' Will Miss The Carter Family Yuletide

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — President-elect Jimmy Carter, the job of selecting a Cabinet behind him, settled down today to a quiet Yuletide celebration with his family.

The matriarch of the Carter family, "Miss Lillian" will be missing from the Plains home, however. Carter's 78-year old mother is recuperating from arthritic discomfort in an Americus, Ga., hospital, where she will have to stay through Christmas.

Family sources said she wants to be in "top health" for her son's inauguration. "The family will take Christmas to her," sources said.

Christmas Day at the Carter's will be devoted to the traditional exchange of gifts and holiday feasting.

Next week, the President-elect will gather his Cabinet and New York's top executive officers, Gov. Hugh Carey and Mayor Abraham Beame, at St. Simons, an island off the south coast of Georgia, for wide-ranging talks on policy and New York's finances.

Carter signed off at his news conference announcing the rest of his appointments Thursday with an expression of hope "that we can enter the New Year with a commitment to being closer together, to sharing our problems and our opportunities ..."

Carter penciled in the last name for his cabinet by selecting Washington attorney and former Johnson White House adviser Joseph Califano to head the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

With Califano, Carter also named former Ford Defense Secretary James Schlesinger as a White House assistant "for coordination of all energy efforts," and Theodore Sorenson, a former speech writer and adviser to President John Kennedy, to be director of the CIA.

Overall, Carter's campaign promise of new faces in his administration went unfulfilled in the choice of a Cabinet. He picked seven veterans of other administrations, plus two congressmen — a mostly middleaged, middle-of-the-road group.

Carter has noted he still has many important appointments to make at the Cabinet level and others, as he described of "acute importance" such as FBI director.

The President-elect has indicated he believes it within his power to replace FBI director Clarence Kelley, even though the tenure for that postion is now set at 10 years. Carter aides believe Kelley will go.

Carter met with Treasury Secretary-designate Michael Blumenthal Thursday but there were no details on their talks.

He also was moving toward release next week of the strict code of ethics he has mandated for anyone serving in his administration. At the same time, Carter was expected to disclose plans for divesting his own interests in the family's peanut business.

On St. Simons there will be a thorough review of the economy —including the New York picture — and recommendations to Carter on whether to seek a tax cut next year to stimulate the economy.

Outing Ends in Upset Epidemic

Skiers Take Gastric Spill

DENVER(UPI) — As many as 200 teen-age church group members ending a five-day ski outing have been hospitalized in two states with stomach ailments suffered as they were heading home.

Dr. Tom Vernon, state epidemiologist for the Colorado Health Department, Thursday diagnosed the illnesses as "winter vomiting disease." He said it was characterized by vomiting and nausea followed by diarrhea.

Officials received reports of young people being hospitalized in Dallas, Memphis and Wichita Falls, Tex., and in Las Animas and Denver, Colo. Others still at the mountain camp also were ill.

Some doctors imvycaply IAGnosed 'the illness as food poisoning, but health officials in Colorado ruled against that diagnosis. All of the stricken youths had vacationed at Snow Mountain Ranch, a YMCA camp west of Granby in Grand County.

"We feel certain it was not food poisoning," said health department spokesman Rtwene Danbaum. "From the information we have received so far — and it still is very sketchy — we think as many as 200 young people were stricken."

Mrs. Danbaum said those ill were all members the church groups from Houston, Beaumont and Dallas in Texas, and Jackson, Miss. They were ending their five-day ski outing when the illnesses occurred.

"Some of them were on their way home and some were still up there when they became ill," Mrs. Danbaum said.

Grand County Sanitarian Jack Eslien went to the ranch to check the food handlers and to take specimens of all food products.

"There is no evidence at all to incriminate the food or anything at the ranch itself," Mrs. Danbaum said. "There appears to be nothing improper at all.

"Dr. Vernon said it is a strange disease, probably viral in origin and probably spread by the respiratory tract. It moves explosively through groups in dormitories such as this.

"Recovery begins with 8 to 10 hours, and it's almost never fatal. However, there is not a whole lot known about it."

Probing Sex Charged By Fun City Massagers

NEW YORK (UPI) — A midManhattan massage parlor sued the city for $275,000 Thursday, alleging city officials hired three private investigators to obtain first hand information on its activities.

The lawsuit filed in U.S. District Court in Manhattan claimed the investigators engaged in sexual activities with the employes of BOCA Trading Corp. and provided evidence which led to its closing.

The suit claims violations of BOCA's constitutional rights to due process and freedom from unlawful searches.

It names as defendants Sidney Baumgarten, a special assistant to Mayor Abraham Beame, and Manhattan District Attorney Robert Morgenthau.

Swindle Charged To Firm

NEW YORK (UPI) — The government charged Thursday that the five top officers of Stirling Homex Corp., a now-defunct modular housing company, fooled their auditors, inflated the firm's worth and swindled investors out of $40 million.

But the defense said they were financial naives who built their business from nothing and then "relied totally" on "brokers, bankers and other financially sophisticated people" to manage the firm.

The five defendants are on trial in U.S. District Court on charges of securities fraud for selling lots owned by Stirling Homex to dummy corporations that could not pay for them, thus exaggerating the corporation's worth to its investors.

They also are charged with forging a $15 million federal financing commitment concerning a contract to provide low-cost modular housing for hurricane victims in Mississippi and bribing union officials to ensure labor peace.

The indictment said the artificial inflation of the company's worth led the public to invest heavily in Stirling Homex, headquartered in the Rochester suburb of Avon, N.Y., until it went bankrupt in 1972.

Assistant U.S. Attorney William MacDonald said the investors lost $40 million when the company folded but the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, which first investigated the matter, said it was more like $100 million.

But defense lawyer Albert Gaynor said the defendants — -particularly David Stirling Jr., 45, the company's chief executive officer, and his brother, William, 38, its president — -were not to blame for the investors' losses.

Gaynor said Stirling Homex' sudden "success did not go unnoticed" and the Stirlings "were sought after by brokers, bankers and other financially sophisticated people who wanted to take things in hand.

"The Stirlings relied totally on these people to the very end," Gaynor said, with no intent to defraud.

In addition to the Sterlings, both Canadians now living in England, the defendants are Harold M. Yanowitch, 56, of Braintree, Mass., executive vice president and general counsel; Edwin J. Schulz, 43, of Lancaster, Pa., controller, and Rubel L. Phillips, 51, of Jackson, Miss., a politically connected lawyer who was hired by Stirling.

Pilgrims Progress Peaceful

BETHLEHEM, Israeli-occupied Jordan(UPI) — Officials in the birthplace of Jesus expect thousands of pilgrims and "no trouble whatsoever" this Christmas — the ninth celebrated under Israeli occupation.

"I can assure you there will be no trouble whatsoever," said Mayor Elias Freij, a ChristianArab and one of the few Palestinian moderates to retain his office in local elections this spring.

"The Arabs respect Christmas as a national religious holiday and no one will do anything to harm it. All people will be safe and secure in Bethlehem," he said.

The ceremonies were to begin at noon today, when the Roman Catholic Patriarch of Jerusalem, Msgr. Giacomo Beltritti, sets out on foot with a procession of bands and acolytes for Bethlehm, six miles to the south.

Services leading up to the Midnight Mass at St. Catherine's Church, adjoining the fourth century Basilica of the Nativity, begin at 10:30 p.m. The mass will be transmitted to a big outdoor television screen for celebrants on Manger Square outside.

The Basilica, a massive Greek Orthodox Church, houses the grotto where a silver star marks Jesus' birthplace.

In Manger Square, workmen erected platforms for the 10 choirs expected from Africa, America, Australia, Britain and Sweden and decorated a big Christmas tree with neon starts and silver stars of Bethlehem.

Authorities mounted special security precautions for the festivities, beefing up the local police force to 400 men in addition to stepped up Israeli army patrols.

Tourism ministry and local officials said they expected 20,000 pilgrims from abroad and thousands more from Israel and the occupied territories to visit Bethlehem during the holiday weekend.

Early Approval Hope Of Senate on Cabinet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate hopes to confirm President-elect Jimmy Carter's proposed Cabinet shortly after his inauguration, barring strong opposition to any of the candidates.

When a new administration comes into office, the Senate tries to complete the confirmation inquiry in advance and then take the actual vote on each Cabinet member after inauguration.

Technically, Carter cannot submit the nominations to the Senate until after he is sworn in.

So, Senate committees hold informal meetings to question Cabinet nominees. Once the names are formally submitted, they can be confirmed quickly.

Proposed reorganization of Senate committees could prevent assignments of new senators before inauguration day.

One suggestion is to let new senators sit in on any nomination inquiry they want to. They would, of course, have a vote when the nomination reaches the Senate.

Congress convenes Jan. 4 and will have ample time for informal confirmation hearings before the Jan. 20 inauguration.

The Senate is heavily Democratic and traditionally inclined to give a new president the Cabinet he wants. Carter's Cabinet choices should have no serious problems.

But Attorney General-designate Griffin Bell could spend some uncomfortable days before the Senate Judiciary Committee and HUD Secretary-designate Patricia Roberts Harris may run into stiff questioning on her expertise in the complex housing field.

A number of the prospective Cabinet members served in the Kennedy-Johnson era and their views are well-known. Included in this group are Secretary of State-designate Cyrus Vance, Treasury Secretary-designate W. Michael Blumenthal, Defense Secretary-designate Harold Brown, HEW Secretary-designate Joseph Califano and Harris.

Robert Bergland, picked as agriculture secretary, and Brock Adams, named to head the Department of Transportation, are congressmen whose views are on record. Cecil Andrus, named to Interior, is a well-known, longtime governor.

Commerce Secretary-designate Juanita Kreps, Labor Secretary-designate Ray Marshall and Bell are probably the three least familiar to the Senate.

The only opposition so far is to Bell's nomination. Senate liberals are certain to investigate deeply Bell's 15-year career as a federal judge, with emphasis on his rulings in civil rights and school desegregation cases.

We Get Warning On Canal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Reacting to U.S. press reports unfavorable to his government, Panama's strongman, General Omar Torrijos has released a tough-worded letter to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

The State Department, where publication of the letter was the subject of day-long high-level consultations Thursday, declined comment on Panama's decision to release the diplomatic note that Torrijos had called confidential.

In the letter, Torrijos warned Kissinger that recent "rash accusations" by the United States may threaten the security of the Panama Canal and negotiations on a new treaty.

"I am writing you this letter to warn you that it is not with threats that you will gain our support and continued vigilance, which will ensure that the canal continues to operate efficiently and with the proper defense," Torrijos said.

The Nov. 29 note was made public Thursday by the Panamanian Embassy in Washington, after published reports had quoted Defense and State Department "secret cables" that recent terrorist activities in the U.S.-controlled Panama Canal Zone allegedly were carried out by members of Panama's National Guard.

The Panamanian leader told Kissinger that similar charges about alleged National Guard activities in the Canal Zone were made by U.S. Ambassador William Jorden in a meeting with him Nov. 9 in Panama City.

Torrijos said Jorden told him the United States had proof of that and "that any repetition of these activities would have serious consequences for our relations and for the negotiations aimed at a new Panama Canal treaty."

Torrijos said a full investigation of the National Guard found "no evidence that such an accusation is well-founded."

"We do not wish to publicize our indignation and displeasure in the face of this rash accusation made by your government, particularly because we wish to avoid inflaming the people and, in particular, to prevent the young people of Panama from engaging in angry and vigorous protests," Torrijos wrote Kissinger.

The above parcel being the same premises conveyed to Allen DeLano and Gladys Hurlburt Delano, otherwise known as Allan Delano and Gladys Hurlburt Delano by three deeds as follows: (1) Deed from Gladys Hurlburt Delano to Allen Delano and Gladys Hurlburt Delano, dated November 2, 1936, and recorded on the same day in the Office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster in Liber 584 of deeds at page 427; (2) Deed from Saugerties Savings Bank to Allen Delano and Gladys Hurlburt Delano, his wife, dated April 18, 1938, and recorded on the same day in said Clerk's Office in Liber 594 of deeds at page 324, and (3) Deed from Lillian G. West to Allen Delano and Gladys H. Delano, his wife, dated May 17, 1939 and recorded on May 22, 1939 in said Clerk's Office in Liber 602 of deeds at page 269.

Together with the right to use a certain road leading from the premises hereby conveyed over premises of Lillian West and Florence Webster to the public highway as the same is now laid out and as the same is used and has been used in the past by Allen DeLano and Gladys Hurlburt DeLano and their predecessors in title for ingress, egress and regress over the same from the premises hereby conveyed to the public road. Said right of way was acquired by Allen DeLano and Gladys Hurlburt DeLano by two deeds: (1) Deed from the Saugerties Savings Bank to Allen DeLano and Gladys Hurlburt DeLano dated April 18, 1938, and thereafter recorded in the Office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster in Liber 594 of deeds at page 324, and (2) Deed from Florence Webster to the said Allen DeLano and Gladys Hurlburt DeLano, his wife, dated September 19, 1944 and recorded in the Office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster on September 22, 1944, in Liber 645 of deeds at page 126.

The above described premises and said right of way being the same as conveyed by Allen DeLano and Gladys Hurlburt DeLano, otherwise known as Allan DeLano and Gladys Hurlburt DeLano to Helen C. Thibaut, by deed dated October 6, 1944 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on October 17, 1944 in Liber 645 of Deeds at page 536.

ALSO, ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Woodstock, County of Ulster and State of New York, bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point in the center of a small brook on the westerly side of a small bridge over the private road leading northerly to the residence of Percy and Nancy Lyons said point being 7.10 feet distant on a course of north 31° 34' west from an iron pipe driven in the ground on the southerly side of the said brook, said point of beginning also being the northeasterly corner of an 0.683 part acre parcel of land with house heretofore conveyed by Percy S. Lyon and Nancy R. Lyon to Jay W. Seeman and Lois A. Seeman, his wife, by deed dated August 15, 1966 and recorded on August 15, 1966 in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber of Deeds No. 1186 at page 793, thence from the said point of beginning running along the said Brook and following the southerly boundary of a 11.722 acre parcel of land being the house lot of said Percy and Nancy Lyon and which also are to be conveyed to the parties of the second part herein, north 66° 34' east 10.52 feet to a point, thence north 46° 33' east 44.00 feet to a point, thence north 83° 38' east 58.10 feet to a point, thence south 17° 08' east 18.10 feet to a point, thence following the line of an old fence and stone wall, being the division line of other lands of Lyons north 48° 38' east 33.56 feet to a point, thence leaving said division line south 55° 23' east 24.64 feet more or less, to an iron pipe driven in the ground on the easterly side of a pond, thence south 21° 50' east 82.50 feet to an iron pipe driven in the ground near a cedar tree, thence north 85° 36' west 78.98 feet to a steel rod driven in the ground on the easterly side of the aforesaid private road, thence crossing the same on a course of north 48° 30' west 49.38 feet to an iron pipe driven in the ground on the south side of the aforesaid brook; thence north 31° 34' west 7.10 feet to the point and place of beginning. Containing 0.206 part of an acre.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, DEC. 25

Your Birthday Today: Scholarship, both formally recognized and naturally embodied in your daily routines, dominates your coming year. Regular pursuits become training grounds in which you improve your skills, perception and personal effectiveness. Relationships multiply, mostly casual, a few coming on to lasting strength. Today's natives have charisma and meet all with an open heart. Those born this year will take initiative in serious research, constantly ask questions early in life.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Your inner nature is open to special influences and may not be understood by others. If away from home, take time to send out a word of holiday greeting.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): People and their festivities favor you; see that you respond. Tidying up must be done, but leave lots of time for celebration.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): This is about as smooth a day of personal and group rejoicing as you've had for many a year. What comes into your life now should be shared.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Consider the needs and capabilities of those around you. Organize a flexible program to fill the holiday with pleasant experiences for all. Stay cheerfully relaxed.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Entertaining attracts people of local importance, but it's no time for politicking or persuasive efforts. Let your personality shine for its own sake. Grant a favor.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Communication is important if you've neglected anyone faraway. Youngsters put on a good show. You're missing out on something; hurry and catch up!

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): In all the conviviality you can overdo most anything and get away with it up to a point. Let people enjoy their opinions, though you know they're wrong.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): It's a happy day if you'll remember original traditions and avoid commercial interpretations. Keep open house unless you've accepted invitations.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Visits are in order. Renew contacts wherever you can, even briefly. Everyone of importance in your life comes back to you in good time.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Don't look back. Take up what is at hand in good faith for joyful celebration. Family gatherings unite those who drifted apart and heal differences.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): This is a mellow Christmas Day, long to be remembered. Create your own entertainment if you aren't already in a whirl of social chores.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): You reach the peak of your efficiency cycle over this weekend. Enjoy the day's traditions, while you think seriously of opening doors into the future.

TEEN FORUM

By JEAN ADAMS, Ph.D.

SMEARED: (Q.) My best friend and I have always hung around together and tried to do the right thing. I guess we had a good reputation—until last summer.

Another girl came to stay the summer with us. She swore a lot and went wild around guys. She went home when school started. But now my friend and I have bad reputations because she stayed with us. What can we do? —Innocent in Oklahoma.

(A.) Getting a bad reputation is an easy thing to do. A girl can get one in one night. You and your friend spent the summer getting one. It may take longer to get rid of it.

I sympathize with you. I wish I could tell you how to clear away the dirty fog immediately, but I can't. All you can do is to be yourselves, doing what you know is right, and eventually the smut that was rubbed off on you will wear off.

If you had seen or thought about what was happening early in the summer and had talked to your parents about it, your problem might have been avoided, or at least eased. The girl could have been sent home then.

All teens should take note of the fact that being too close to evil can do harm to a person who is not evil at all.

REFUSED: (Q.) I've known this girl Tess for about a year now and I like her very, very much. But she's going out with this other guy. She says she likes him a lot.

Twice, several months ago, she went out with me. But now when I call her, she tells me she's going out with her boy friend. I don't know what to do. Should I keep trying for her? —No Luck in Maine.

(A.) Tess is going steady with someone else. She has told you as much. She has, since those early trial dates with you, decided that he is the one.

She has been fair with you and hasn't tried to string you along or encourage you in any way. Be fair with her and honest with yourself and stop calling her for dates. Your calls only serve to upset both of you.

Years ago, there were two sure ways to recognize a gentleman: He always stood up when a lady entered the room, and he always returned his partner's suit. Nowadays, a gentleman stands up mostly in self-defense and is equally lax about returning his partner's suit.

East wins the first trick with the ace of spades and, being an old-fashioned gentleman, returns his other spade.

South takes the king of spades and develops the diamonds, losing a diamond trick to East. Declarer is sure to win two spades, three diamonds, and three clubs. He can develop a heart as his ninth trick, and the opponents can do nothing to stop him.

TIMELY SWITCH

East should switch to hearts after winning the first trick. West's lead of the deuce of spades shows that he has only four spades, which means that South also has four spades. There cannot be much nourishment in such a suit, but hearts may be the stuff to feed the troops.

West takes the king of hearts and returns a heart. East gets in with a diamond in time to defeat the contract with the rest of the hearts.

Note that West does return his partner's suit, hearts. It is clear that East has rejected spades, presumably for a good reason. West has no reason to reject hearts, so he returns the suit. This, essentially, is the modern rule: Return your partner's suit unless you have a good reason to switch.

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer, at your right, opens with one spade. You hold: ♠KQ94 ♡Q10 ◇K863 ♣KQJ. What do you say?

ANSWER: In general, bid 1 NT, showing spade strength and the values for an opening bid of 1 NT. When not vulnerable against vulnerable opponents, you might pass in the hope that the opponents will dig themselves a pit and fall into it.

Says 89 Per Cent of Registered Voters Cast Ballots

Census Bureau Gives Lie to Poll Apathy Estimates

WASHINGTON(UPI) — The Census Bureau says 89 per cent of registered voters participated in the Nov. 2 election.

Despite estimates that only little more than half of all eligible voters trooped to the polls, those that were actually registered took part in greater numbers than four years ago.

A Census Bureau survey showed 89 per cent of those who were registered took the time to vote. When Richard Nixon defeated George McGovern in the 1972 presidential race, the figure was 87 per cent.

The reports of voter apathy which surfaced during and after the campaign dealt with those eligible to vote — registered or not.

Unofficial figures based on earlier Census Bureau estimates of the voting age population showed the percentage of eligible voters —citizens over 18 — casting ballots was down from 55.5 per cent in 1972 to about 53.4 per cent this year.

Officials said their survey indicates voting may have been heavier last month were it not for the drop off in registration following Nixon's landslide victory.

"There was a 10 per cent drop in registrations between 1972 and 1974," said Census Bureau branch chief Larry Suter. "Voters were apparently turned off by Watergate and the poor showing of the Democratic candidate."

Folllowing a traditional pattern, however, registrations increased 4 per cent during the last two years, he said.

Complicated procedures for registration and a general feeling that Democratic candidate Jimmy Carter would easily defeat President Ford may have combined to prevent a surge in registrations by those who allowed them to lapse, Suter said.

"When the race heated up in October it was too late for many voters to register," Suter said.

People between the ages of 18 and 20 had the lowest percentage of registered voters, 47 per cent, in 1976. Only 38 per cent in that age bracket actually cast ballots in the Ford-Carter race.

Highest participation was among those between the ages of 55 and 64. Almost 77 per cent registered while 70 per cent actually voted.

Fulton St. Fire Takes Four Lives

NEW YORK(UPI) — A loudspeaker blared a scratchy rendition of "O, Come All Ye Faithful" for the Christmas shoppers milling along Fulton Street in Downtown Brooklyn Thursday.

Across the street, stone-faced firemen lugged four canvas body bags into the steely winter air from the charred shell of a five-story department store that burned and then collapsed a day before.

Officials said four more bodies still may be inside, but the search was temporarily suspended Thursday afternoon for fear that the building's cast iron columns might give way and bring down what little is left standing.

A crane will be used today to help the finish the search, but Fire Commissioner John O'Hagan said the chances were "virtually nil" that anyone still caught in the building could survive.

The three-alarm fire broke out at about 2 p.m. Wednesday in the five-story building at 526 Fulton St. in Brooklyn's busy shopping district. It housed a shoe store at street level and a department store above.

The fire started in a stairwell between the first and second floors, O'Hagan said, then spread across the second floor and then up to the top of the building. The cause of the fire could not be determined.

Firemen controlled the blaze by late Wednesday night, but the building had collapsed meanwhile and could not be searched until Thursday morning, when the bodies of two men and two women were recovered. None was identified.

O'Hagan said missing persons reports indicate that the death toll might reach eight. In addition, eight civilians, two firemen and a police officer were slightly hurt in the fire.

O'H a g a n and Mayor Abraham Beame held a briefing for reporters outside the burned out store but were interrupted by a Morris Kashioff, 53, of Brooklyn, who denounced the commissioner for delays in responding to the fire.

O'Hagan said, "We responded without delay. There was a delay in discovery and reporting."

Kashioff turned away, made fists and choked back tears. "Everything is finished," he said. "I can't find my wife." Yolande Kashioff, 39, was a cashier in the department store.

Then, when he was finished with the cameras and microphones, Beame walked over to Kashioff, who stood staring blankly at the burned out building with his 19-year-old son, Jack.

"I wish I could do something," the mayor said.

Santas Are Plentiful For Christmas '76

'Tis the season to be jolly, and around the country Santa Clauses of all sizes and shapes emerged today. One, Bruce McDonald, a traditional red-suited St Nick, says he sometimes thinks he really is Santa as do the children he visits.

And the police force is playing Santa for the family of Lt Johnnie Shoates in Detroit, who is in critical condition and semiconscious as the result of being shot in the head last October trying to stop a restaurant robbery while off duty

...And Festivity Prevails Abroad

Around the world a festive mood also prevails, despite economic woes. Pilgrims are attending midnight Mass at St. Catherine's Church in Bethlehem, which adjoins the Basilica of the Nativity — the spot where Jesus was born nearly 2,000 years ago.

Italy is celebrating Christmas as usual, with two papal Masses at the Vatican, creches in churches — and a strike, this time the railroads.

Teen Skiers Sicken After Vacation

DENVER (UPI) — Some 200 teenagers who had been vacationing at Snow Mountain Ranch, a YMCA camp near Granby, were hospitalized in Texas and Colorado with an illness diagnosed as "winter vomiting disease."

The youths, all church group members from Texas and Mississippi, were struck with the illness characterized by vomiting and nausea followed by diarrhea, either on their way home or as they were preparing to leave for home

$73,000 Embezzled from Kingston Youth Fund

Billups Admits 'Y' Bilk

James R. Billups

NEW YORK CITY — James Billups, former assistant general director of the Kingston YMCA, pleaded guilty in U S District Court in Manhattan Thursday to embezzling $73,000

The monies Billups admitted taking were in the form of federal revenue sharing funds that had been earmarked for the local YMCA's Youth Work Experience Program, and its summer program for economically disadvantaged youth

Robert B Fiske Jr, United States attorney for the Southern District of New York, said Billups waived indictment and pleaded guilty to two counts charging him with embezzlement

Billups, 39, who now lives at 215 North Hamilton Street, Poughkeepsie, headed up the YMCA's community programming from 1971 until March of 1976 As director of that department, he was in charge of two job programs for needy young people

Fiske said the two counts against Billups charged that, during 1973 to 1975, he had—with the permission of Ulster County Intergovernmental Coordinator Robert "Josh" Randall, set up a $28,000 fund for cashing the payroll checks of needy youngsters "The money from that fund was taken by Billups," Fiske said

In addition, Billups had also devised a method of registering non existing persons in the youth job programs Under this system, he was able to convert the payroll checks issued in their names

Howard W Goldstein, the assistant U S attorney who conducted the investigation of the case, said Billups could receive a maximum sentence of two years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine on each count

Billups, in addition to his position at the YMCA, also served as president of the Board of Directors of the Ulster County Community Action Committee (UCCAC) He was involved in a controversy surrounding the fiscal affairs of that committee when it became known that he "borrowed" $5,000 from UCCAC funds, reportedly to be used for a mini-bike program

Billups resigned from his posts at the YMCA and UCCAC after probes and audits into his financial affairs at both agencies The Ulster County District Attorney's Office had begun investigating the Billups case last March but, since federal funds were involved, the U S Attorney in New York City took over jurisdiction

A government audit had originally shown that only some $28,000 had been "mishandled" by Billups No sentencing date has been scheduled on the $73,000 embezzlement charges

HELPING THE NEEDY

The Salvation Army this holiday season has served several thousand needy persons of all ages in the Kingston area with food and Christmas gifts. In the 'Toys for Tots' program, a cooperative venture with Radio Station WKNY, the Salvation Army's Cedar Street center Thursday gave out toy packages — at least one new toy, one used toy and one pair of underwear — to 537 children. Another 187 Christmas dinners were distributed to needy families with help from the Ulster County Sheriff's Department. Also, gifts were given to another 2,000 persons in eight nursing homes, two hospitals and senior residences in the area.

United Way Goal Short by $34,676

KINGSTON — With only $34,676 needed to reach its goal of $401,000, the Ulster County United Way will mail out more than 2,000 letters Monday seeking funds to wind up its first successful campaign since 1967.

"We've done very well with our mop-up campaign over the last several weeks," campaign chairman Richard Wagner said. "We've collected $366,324, or 91.3 per cent of our goal All we have to do is get a few thousand dollars more to make our quota."

If $12,173 more can be raised, the 1976 campaign will reach the amount raised in last year's drive. With $20,908 more, the drive will match the best United Way campaign on record — that of 1974.

Wagner said letters are being sent to persons who have contributed to the United Way in past campaigns but haven't done so yet this year. The United Way benefits 17 human service agencies

"We've tried to contact everyone in our fund drive this year," Wagner said, "but there are some we've missed for one reason or another."

Those who haven't been contacted but wish to donate can mail contributions to the United Way office at the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston

An added benefit in contributing to United Way now, Wagner said, is the opportunity to use the contribution on 1976 income tax returns as an itemized deduction

"Many individuals turn their thoughts to contributions as the year ends," he said, " and we hope they will think of United Way and the 17 community agencies we support."

Local Indian Group Faces Grim Christmas

NEW PALTZ — Christmas in this bicentennial year looks bleak for the area's native Americans

Local organizers of the Association of Native Americans say that they're down to three-quarters of a case of canned food, have no clothes or blankets to give to needy families and are just plain broke

"The bicentennial year was a disaster for native Americans," says Dr Gerald Kitzman, professor of bio-physics at the state college, here, and spokesman for the group

'Our usual fund-raising pow wows and shows just didn't draw any crowds, there was too much going on"

Kitzman says the Indian self-help group has never gone directly to the public for donations or support because "native Americans are very proud, they'd rather starve than ask for money"

The group is appealing now, because for the first time in its five-year existence it has no where else to turn

Registered members of the ANA number 300, but some 10,000 Indians of various tribes live in the mid-Hudson region

"We primarily give assistance any way we can to native Americans, but we certainly don't draw the line there — we help in any emergency" said the professor

ANA's own emergency has become so critical that their telephone has been disconnected, they've lost their office space and are working out of members homes in an effort to put together some Christmas help for needy individuals and families who don't know where else to turn

"We have a family right now over in Poughkeepsie with eight children . the father has severe mental health problems They have no food, no money and their heat has been shut off because they couldn't pay the bill," Kitzman told a hastily called news conference Thursday

Asked why the family doesn't seek some sort of welfare assistance, the scientist responded that native Americans very rarely seek public aid "They are a proud people They would rather die that ask for money"

A Welcome Hug

Bob Elgin, director of the Des Moines Children's Zoo in Iowa gets a welcome hug from "Merry," a one-year-old lioness at the start of a three-day Christmas "live-in" with his animals. Elgin is spending the holiday with animals to protest a book by Peter Batten entitled "Living Trophies" which condemns the present conditions in the nation's zoos. "Merry," the lioness, is affection-trained. However, Elgin warns that wild animals should be affection trained only by professionals.

The News Was a Crime

SIMI VALLEY, Calif. (UPI) — A single crime report was all the news fit to print in the weekly Simi Valley Mirror this week.

Baby Sales Probed

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Cases of baby sales for profit are under investigation in New York, but under current law, the only illegality generally found has been operating an adoption agency without a license, a misdemeanor.

The state attorney general has been looking into reports that young women, unable to keep their children and unwilling to have an abortion, were referred through abortion clinics to a number of lawyers in the New York City area.

These lawyers then arrange to pay for the women's transportation and expenses to go to New York to have their babies.

In August, Social Services Commissioner Philip Toia said the investigation would be dropped, because of the difficulty in getting sworn testimony from mothers who sold their babies or foster parents who had bought them.

But a recent report by United Press International about his decision prompted a number of witnesses to come forward, reviving the probe, a spokesman for Toia said Thursday.

Toia said he is planning to ask the 1977 legislature to regulate the market in babies for adoption. He said that under current law the most serious charge that can be brought against violators is operating an unlicensed adoption agency, a misdemeanor punishable by up to one year in prison.

One phase of New York's probe has been coordinated with a similar investigation by the state attorney's office in Cook County, Ill., and New Jersey prosecutors.

The spokesman for Toia could not elaborate on the status of the investigation at this time, but he said Assistant Manhattan District Attorney Joseph Morello was working with the department's staff on several cases expected ready for action soon.

He called trafficking in babies "a terribly serious problem," even though there are about 3,900 parentless children in the state awaiting legitimate adoption.

But officials say many of those available through regular channels are hard to place because they are over the age of 6, are black or of other minority or mixed race, or are handicapped.

Fire Toll May Hit Eight in Brooklyn

NEW YORK (UPI) — A loudspeaker blared a scratchy rendition of "O, Come All Ye Faithful" for the Christmas shoppers milling along Fulton Street in downtown Brooklyn Thursday.

Across the street, stone faced firemen lugged four bodies in canvas bags from the charred shell of a five-story department store that burned and collapsed a day before.

Officials said four more bodies still may be inside, but the search was temporarily suspended Thursday afternoon for fear that the building's cast iron columns might give way and bring down what little is left standing.

The three-alarm fire broke out Wednesday afternoon in the five-story building along Brooklyn's busy shopping district. It housed a shoe store at street level and a department store above.

Firemen controlled the blaze by late Wednesday night, but the building had collapsed and could not be searched until Thursday morning, when the bodies of two men and two women were recovered. None was identified.

Fire Commissioner John O'Hagan said missing persons reports indicate that the death toll might reach eight. In addition, eight civilians, two firemen and a police officer were slightly hurt in the fire.

O'Hagan and Mayor Abraham Beame held a briefing for reporters outside the burned out store but were interrupted by a Morris Kashioff, who denounced the commissioner for delays in responding to the fire.

O'Hagan said, "We responded without delay. There was a delay in discovery and reporting."

Kashioff turned away, made fists and choked back tears. "Everything is finished," he said. "I can't find my wife." Yolande Kashioff, 39, was a cashier in the department store.

Then, when he was finished with the cameras and microphones, Beame walked over to Kashioff, who stood staring blankly at the burned out building with his 19-year-old son, Jack.

"I wish I could do something," the mayor said.

Smokers Under 70 Face Twice the Risk of Death

LONDON (UPI) — Men under 70 who smoke face twice the risk of death of nonsmokers, according to the final report of a 20-year survey into smoking habits of British doctors published today in the British Medical Journal.

"These ratios suggest that between a half and a third of all cigarette smokers will die because of their smoking, if the excess death rates are actually caused by smoking," said the report by Richard Peto of the Imperial Cancer Research Fund and Prof. Richard Doll of Oxford.

Doll, one of the first scientists to claim a link between smoking and cancer, headed the study into the smoking habits and subsequent death rate of 34,000 male British doctors.

In an accompanying editorial the British Medical Journal said that between 1951 and 1971 doctors cut their smoking from 9.1 to 3.6 cigarettes a day which "contributed to a steady decrease in the incidence of lung cancer deaths." The editorial, headed "That Lethal Weed," urged that the report be brought to the attention of the young.

Thanks to you it works...

Pending Layoffs Disturb KPFA

Firemen Hit Plan

KINGSTON— Disturbed by the pending layoffs of five firefighters as of next week, the Kingston Professional Firefighter's Association (KPFA) is taking its case to the people and urging a large turnout of support at next Tuesday night's public hearing on the city's 1977 budget.

Meeting Thursday night, with close to 100 per cent of its membership in attendance, the KPFA went on record as being in opposition to their "being used as a pawn in other city problems."

"It is out intention to express ourselves at the public hearing on December 28 to notify the public of the serious problem the City of Kingston is facing with a 10 per cent reduction in the fire department," said KPFA President Harry Hornbeck.

According to the president, the union, at a later date, will prove to the public that the layoffs are not a necessary measure.

Earlier this week the KPFA, as a result of binding arbitration, was awarded a two-year contract calling for a $900 salary increase in the first year (1976) and a $200 increase in the second year (1977). Mayor Francis R. Koenig, who has opposed salary increases for city employes in light of Kingston's delicate financial situation, is making good on a promise to layoff city employes to cover the cost of any forced salary increase. The raises for the firemen have been included in that department's 1977 budget, which has increased $40,000 over the 1976 appropriation. The layoffs will save taxpayers about $50,000 in salaries.

Meanwhile, the Kingston Patrolmen's Association (KPA), which represents the majority of the city's 75 police department employes, is taking a "wait and see" attitude with regard to the way they will be affected by the city's fiscal problems. Earlier this year the police, also as a result of binding arbitration, were awarded a one-year contract with a $900 salary increase. However, there is no additional appropriation for the cops in 1977 and it's not yet known if they will attempt to negotiate a new pact with the city.

Although their will be no actual layoffs in the police department, there are five positions currently vacant and they will remain vacant to cover the cost of the $900 increase, which the police still haven't received.

Police Seeking Mugger

KINGSTON — A Stone Ridge woman was mugged outside the Grand Union on Albany Avenue Thursday and Kingston City Police are looking for her assailant described at as being about 5 foot 10, white and with a full beard.

Police said that Pat Zentner, 35, of Box 395, Stone Ridge, had parked her car on the Madison Avenue side of the Grand Union parking lot. She reportedly saw the suspect standing near a telephone booth and as she neared him, he came out and "gave her a hit" and tried unsuccessfuly to grab her pocketbook. She fell to the ground and he left, running across Madison Avenue between houses.

According to police, witnesses said the suspect placed a ski mask on his face just before grabbing the woman and kept tugging at it. He wore dark pants and jacket.

Ms. Zentner was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance.

Car Smashes Porch

A side porch and the foundation of a house at 171 First Ave. was demolished some time Thursday night or early today when a car belonging to Frank Stokes of Port Ewen crashed into it.

Kingston City Police said they contacted Stokes at his home early this morning and invited him to the police station for an explanation.

The house, which is owned by Joseph Woods of First Avenue, is occupied by the tenants who were away at the time.

Vols Rescue Man

Volunteer firemen from Esopus and Port Ewen were credited Thursday with rescuing an accident victim who was pinned in his car on Floyd Ackert Road.

L. W. Russomanno, who lives on the road, was taken to Benedictine Hospital with a broken leg and ribs, according to Highland State Police who investigated the 8:30 p.m. one-car accident.

Shoplifting Arrest

Kingston City Police report the arrest of a New Paltz man for shoplifting in Britt's Department Store in Kingston Plaza, Thursday.

Guy S. Licgardner of 129 Plains Road, New Paltz is scheduled for a court appearance Dec. 28.

Crossing Guard Hit

A school crossing guard was hit by a car in the City of Kingston Wednesday at the corner of Highland Avenue and East Chester Street.

City Police report that Henry Jordon of 316 Hasbrouck Ave., was struck by a car driven by Bessie Taylor of 54 Gill St., Kingston. Jordon indicated he would have x-rays taken.

Bad Checks Charged

Kingston City Police report the arrest of Wendy Delamater of 28 Foxhall Ave., Kingston on charges of issuing two bad checks. She is scheduled for a court appearance Jan. 4.

★★★

Burglaries Probed

Two burglaries in the city are also being investigated by city detectives.

Change was removed from a pool table, juke box, cigarette machine and pinball machine at Kenny's Corner, 169 Abeel St., Kingston.

Police report that entry was gained by smashing a window. The pool table and vending machines were pried open.

Crash Hurts Two

Two persons were injured in a two-car accident Thursday afternoon on Rt. 32 in Rosendale

Two passengers in a car driven by Frank T. Interlone, 20, of 21 Schrieber Lane, New Paltz, Jeffrey Schott, 19 and Valerie Wolt, 18, were taken to Benedictine Hospital suffering from head and shoulder injuries.

The driver of the other car, Fred Brink Jr., 53, of Chapel St, Kingston, was given a summons for failure to keep right.

According to the Ulster County Sheriff's Department, Brink was traveling north on Rt. 32 when his car went out of control and struck the Interlone car headon.

Napanoch Accident

A Kerhonkson man was hospitalized and an Ellenville woman sustained injuries in a two-car accident early today on Rt. 209, Napanoch.

The Sheriff's Department reports that a vehicle driven by James Horvath, 42, of Ellenville was attempting to make a left turn into Valley Mall when it was struck in the rear by a vehicle operated by William Blakely, 45, of Kerhonkson.

Mrs Sandra Horvath, a passenger in the Horvath car was treated at Ellenville Hospital for contusions and bruises and released.

Blakely was admitted to the hospital suffering from lacerations of the head.

Blakely was issued a summons by members of the Ellenville substation for following too close and having an uninspected motor vehicle.

Alcohol Charges

A Pittsburgh, Pa. man was arrested by sheriff's deputies Thursday morning and charged with driving while intoxicated, failing to submit to a chemical test, having an open container of an alcoholic beverage in his car and having no insurance.

Bruce Gomes, 33, was going west on DeWitt Mills Road near Rt. 32, when he lost control and went over an embankment, police said.

Accident

A three-car accident on Route 212 in Centerville at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday resulted in back injuries to the driver of one car. Town of Saugerties police identified the injured man as Thomas Doerr, 33, of Route 212, Saugerties. Police said the accident occurred when a car going east on the highway and driven by Thomas Martin, Route 2, Kingston, passed an unknown vehicle, skidded to the left side of the road, and hit a tree. Doerr, who was proceeding west, stopped in the roadway and was struck in the rear by a car driven by Harold Reynolds, also of Route 212, Saugerties. Doerr, police said, complained of back pains and suffered emotional stress after his car flipped over on its roof as a result of the impact.

Doerr did not go to a hospital.

Two Cars

Ulster Town Police also investigated an automobile accident involving two cars on Route 209 near Neighborhood Road that injured one person. Police said a car driven by Joseph Goldpaugh of Ruby crossed over a solid line and hit a car driven by Joan Mooney of Kingston. The Mooney vehicle was forced into a guard rail, injuring a passenger, Brenda Mooney.

She was treated at Kingston Hospital for contusions of the scalp and released. Goldpaugh was issued a summons for driving while intoxicated. Police said both vehicles had to be towed from the scene.

Apartment Fire

Ulster Hose No. 5 Fire Company was called out Wednesday at 3:40 p.m. to quell an apartment fire at Sunset Gardens. Ulster Fire Chief William Williams said the apartment, occupied by John Hosford, was gutted. Thirty firemen from the company responded to the blaze, located in Apartment D, Section 11 of the complex. Williams said Hosford was not at home at the time. He said the cause of the fire was unknown, but was not suspicious in nature.

Apartments above and below the Hosford unit sustained water and smoke damage. Ulster Hose firemen had the fire under control and returned to quarters at 5:56 p.m.

Bad Checks

Gloria Mae Brandon, 31, of Kingston, RD 1, was arrested Wendesday by Ulster Police and charged with five counts of issuing a bad check.

Arraigned before Ulster Town Justice Arthur Reilly, Ms. Brandon entered a plea of guilty, made restitution in the amount of $99.74, the amount of the checks, and was fined $25 and a given a 60-day conditional discharge.

THE GREAT TURKEY GIVEAWAY

Ellenville VAW..a Lasting Gift

ELLENVILLE — An Ellenville aluminum products firm this year gave its employes a Christmas gift that has both a temporary and lasting nature — a turkey and a time capsule.

With each Christmas turkey they received Wednesday, the 400 employes of V.A.W. of America also got an aluminum time capsule designed to preserve its contents at least 50 years under normal conditions.

The "Bicentennial Time Capsule," an 18-inch-long aluminum tube sealed by plastic end caps, was given to employes to "help them and their families — especially the children — keep the historic message of 1976 alive," President Manfred F. Schroeder said.

V.A.W. also has given time capsules to individuals, schools and organizations "in recognition of their many extraordinary efforts to celebrate the Bicentennial," the company said.

Suggestions for memorabilia to be preserved in the capsule include Bicentennial flags, photographs of family, friends, area scenes or events, commemorative coins and stamps, local newspapers from July 4, current highway maps, grocery bills, tax statements (copies, of course), children's school papers, and forecasts of what life may be like in the future.

One end of the capsule is permanently sealed. The other end is sealed by inserting a plastic cap with aluminum Bicentennial emblem into the open end, then crimping a wire that fits through two holes in the tubing. The cap also can be glued.

While "delighted" with the capsule, one employe said she didn't intend to bury it: "My kids are planning to use it as a bank," she said.

CB Antennas Can Kill the Careless

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you are careless, a citizens band radio antenna can electrocute you, the Consumer Product Safety Commission warns.

The commission said it had received reports of 92 deaths and 156 injuries from antenna accidents in the past year. It issued the warning Thursday because it expects many people will receive CB radios for Christmas.

The agency said most accidents involved contact between the antennas and power lines during installation or removal from mountings alongside private homes on masts or towers.

"Avoid putting up antennas anywhere in the vicinity of power lines. If this cannot be avoided, contact the power company in advance for further instructions," the agency said

The agency suggested attaching ropes to antennas during installaion or removal, to hold the antennas steady.

In other actions the commission announced Thursday.

— It determined that former commission Chairman Richard W. Simpson did not violate the law by forming a consulting firm working for two standards organizations. A majority of the commissioners said Simpson's customers do not qualify as manufacturers, for whom he would have been proibited from working, and that the Justice Department fully agrees with the decision.

— It turned down a petition for safety standards covering support wires for pierced earrings. The agency had been asked to require that the wires be made in such a way that they spring loose when an earring is acidentally pulled off, but said it does not believe there is a problem.

— It turned down a petition for safety standards for five-gallon glass water bottles of the type used in office water coolers. The commission said it appeared the problem of breakage and potential injury was lessening because of the increased use of plastic bottles in water coolers.

Agron, now 33, Has Earned High School, College Degrees

Carey Commutes Sentence of 'Cape-Man'

ALBANY, N.Y.(UPI) — Gov. Hugh Carey has commuted the sentence of a 33-year-old man whose part in the 1969 murder of two youths at a westside Manhattan playground marked the height of street gang warfare in New York City.

Salvatore Agron, who was 16 when the killings occured, was known as "Cape Man" or "Dracula" because of the cape he wore when the murders occured.

The case involved members of a Puerto Rican youth gang who went to the playground to "beat up Irish and Italian kids." It was viewed as the straw that broke the camel's back in so far as public toleration of gangs was concerned.

During the 17 years he has served, Agron has earned a high school diploma and an associates degree from Dutchess Community College.

Agron was one of five murderers and three persons serving up to life sentences for drug possession to be granted traditional Christmas clemency Thursday by the governor.

All of the inmates are now eligible to go before the Board of Parole for release in January.

A resident alien, Mary Ledgister, 41, a citizen of Jamaica, West Indies, was granted a pardon. She is on parole for slaying her husband and was granted the pardon to prevent her deportation.

Others granted clemency included:

— Habib Raid Hawa, 46, serving 20 years to life for the February 1960 conviction for first degree murder in Manhattan during the course of a liquor store robbery, has served 17 years.

— Roger Whitfield, 32, serving 20 years to life for murder first degree. He was convicted in Suffolk County for the 1966 slaying of a Wayne Foster during a dispute over the proceeds of a robbery.

— Rolando Montane, 46, serving six years to life, was convicted in April 1974 in Manhattan for criminal sale of drugs. He has served more than three years and has enrolled in school programs and English classes at Fishkill prison.

— Doris McNair, 25, serving six years to life for the April 1974 conviction for drug possession in Monroe County.

— Marc Dearstyne, 22, serving four years to life for his September 1974 conviction for possession of LSD in Rensselaer County.

— Richard Figoratta, 30, serving 20 years to life for his April 1967 murder conviction in Manhattan for shooting a man during a domestic dispute.

— Walter Daniels, 57, serving 20 years to life for a February 1966 murder conviction for shooting a tenant at the Manhattan apartment building of which he was landlord during an argument.

MEMORIAM
To my husband, Frank W Burgher, on the eve of our 39th Wedding Anniversary, who passed away November 6,1976.
I sit alone in silence,
And somehow seem to weep,
When I think of the one I loved,
Who once sat across from me.
If loving you would have saved you,
You never would have died,
But,I guess, our Lord knew best.
Miss You,
Wife,
Mildred B.

MEMORIAM
In loving memory of Pastor Olney and Aunt Ruth Cook on their first Christmas in Heaven
We miss you, but we know you are with Him whom you both love so.

MEMORIAM
In loving memory of our beloved parents, Giovanna and Leo Tabacchi, on Christmas Day.
"I peeped into the stable,
Where Baby Jesus Lies,
And every dream I ever dreamed,
Was shining in His eyes.
His Lady-Mother smiled at me:
My heart leaped up in joy,
For the love that was within my heart,
Seemed to warm her little Boy
Then I bent down my face to His,
And whispered in His ear,
"Please bless today all those I love,
And throughout the coming year."
We Miss You, Love
Madeline and Gloria

MEMORIAM
In loving memory of my husband, Joseph DeLuca, on Christmas Day.
You cannot say, you must not say
That he is dead, he is just away!
With a cherry smile
and a wave of the hand
He has wandered into an unknown land
And left us dreaming. How very fair
It needs must be,
since he lingers there,
So think of him faring on, as dear
In the love of There as the love of Here.
Think of him still
as the same, and say
He is not dead, he is just away.
Your loving wife

MEMORIAM

MEMORIAM
Christmas thoughts of my husband, James H. Scism, Sr
Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory sad and true,
Just the love and sweet devotion,
Of one who thinks of you.

But they will accept help from their own people, which was why ANA was founded several year's ago.

"We're a self subsistence organization. We try to get people jobs, help them hold on to their homes, stand on their own two feet without public assistance."

The group has received some recognition and help from local IBM administrators, who recently set up and conducted an intensive seminar for six local members of the group to aid them in planning business, cultural and youth groups and other organizational groups.

"It was a technical assistance program," commented Mrs. Peter Fogden of New Paltz, who along with several other ANA members from Dutchess county, had joined Kitzman in his presentation.

"They explained the techniques of problem identification, goal setting, resource identification and follow up...the kinds of technical training most people don't associate with American Indians."

Mrs. Fogden and the other ANA council members agreed that one of their most insurmountable problems is a cowboys and Indians image of native Americans that east coast residents seem to have.

"On the west coast and in that part of the country, citizens are very much aware of the needs of native Americans, and of the fact that they are real people...you don't get that in this part of the country," Kitzman said

ANA says it needs about $3,000 to clear up its debts — incurred by posting bail, handling legal fees, offering home and personal loans to needy persons and trying to feed and clothe people in emergency situations.

"That means we'll be at zero, but at least we won't leave anyone without necessities, or force anyone to pay back money they can't afford right now," says Kitzman.

Althouhg the groups needs money badly — the need for canned food, clothing and blankets is even greater.

Kitzman and the other council members will accept donations at their homes, since they now have no office. He can be reached through the college or at his New Paltz home.

Tanker's Oil Spill Reaches Southern Edge of Fishing Bank

NANTUCKET, Mass. (UPI) — Officials and scientists, helpless to contain the ecological ravages of the Atlantic coast's worst oil spill, concentrated today on setting up monitoring systems to keep tabs on the damage.

A 20 knot southerly wind pushed the oil slick from the wrecked tanker Argo Merchant — now more than 100 miles long — across the southern edge of Georges Bank. "It's like a fat hungry snake," a Coast Guard spokesman said.

Icy waters have coagulated the oil, forming tar-like chunks that have been scooped up by scientists crisscrossing the slick in research vessels. Navy divers Thursday brought sediment samples up from the ocean floor near the remains of the shattered tanker.

Massachusetts officials reported Thursday none of the 7.6 million gallons of oil from the tanker had yet reached the floor of the 10,000 square mile fishing ground, one of the most important in the world.

If it does, experts fear it may take years for the fishing grounds to recover. But even if it does not, or it reaches the floor in tiny amounts, scientists admit it would be difficult to pinpoint the extent of environmental damage in open seas.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Marine and Water Quality Laboratory has been named to coordinate all environmental impact studies relating to the spill from the Liberian-registered tanker, which broke up Monday 27 miles off Nantucket Island after running aground on a shoal last week.

"We are setting up a situation room with chart boards so we can track things. By Monday we should have a full blown communications center," said Dr. Jan C. Prager, chief of technical assistance.

At the University of Rhode Island's Graduate School of Oceanography, a special oil-response team was preparing URI's $4 million research vessel Endeavor for a tracking trip into the Atlantic next Tuesday.

"In previous spills, nobody has ever been able to say where all the oil has gone. We hope to find that out this time," said university researcher Robert Sexton.

Not much was left today of the 640-foot Argo Merchant. The severed stern was pointing skyward at an awkward angle and what remained of the bow was gradually filling with water.

The Coast Guard Thursday opened all hatches on the bow to expedite the sinking "so she will not be a hazard to navigation," a spokesman said.

Members of the Coast Guard's antipollution Atlantic Strike Force Team were lowered by helicopter onto the bow to see how much oil remained in her tanks

"There's just isolated pockets of oil left inside. All her cargo has been lost to the sea," a spokesman said.

A Coast Guard spokesman said observers on a flight over the slick saw about 3,000 seagulls of which "only about 125 were covered with oil."

"They also flew over Muskeget and Tuckernut Islands west of Nantucket and they didn't see any of the seals which are usually there. They may have been out feeding or they could have been scared away by all the helicopter flights which have been going on since this thing started," he said.

Automen Joyous Over Sales

DETROIT (UPI) — The auto assembly lines were stilled for a 10-day holiday today, but not before industry executives jubilantly reported their second highest pre-Christmas new car sales in history.

The 32½ per cent mid-December gain reported Thursday was the best gain over a comparable 1975 period since early June. It assured that 1976 would be the U.S. auto industry's best year since pre-energy crisis 1973.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the 10 million annual sales rate was the best so far this year.

With the sales report out of the way, auto plants began shutting for a 10-day holiday that ends Jan. 3.

Seven Ford Motor Co. car and truck plants will work an unusual four days during the holiday with workers earning triple-time pay to build mid-sized and full-sized cars and vans that are in strong demand.

The 223,556 cars sold in the Dec. 11-20 period were about 23,000 more than most analysts had expected.

Bank Closings

In Thursday's edition of the Daily Freeman, it was stated that the county's banks would keep "regular hours" today.

Regular hours on a Friday would normally be until 8 p.m. according to Francis R. Kugelman, of the Ulster County Financial Council. He said that actually the banks would be closing at 3 p.m. today.

A White Christmas Assured for Buffalo

By UPI

A potent snow storm assured a white Christmas in the Northeast but made holiday travel a hazard in some areas.

Tax Hike Notice Inadequate

Dear Editor:

On Tuesday night, Dec. 14, the Ulster County Legislature passed a 40 per cent increase in sales tax that affects 115,000 people in the county — everyone except City of Kingston residents. The notice given to county residents that they were to be hit with the 40 per cent increase was mere hours. Not even a full day's notice.

With the exception of four conscientious and independent-minded legislators, the county legislators, led by "I-know-what's-good-for-'em" Savago, arrogantly jammed this increase down our throats with such speed that it was all but impossible for a legislator to hear a word from a constituent before the 7 p.m. caucus session on Dec. 14.

As the Freeman editorial of Dec. 15 pointed out, "Ulster County citizens...should have had a chance to ponder and diocuos this measure before it was approved."

The deal was obviously in the making for weeks, but there was no chance for a question to be asked nor alternatives to be examined.

Would a six per cent tax and a 12 per cent property tax increase have been less destructive to the county? (Bordering Orange county has a four per cent tax and Dutchess a five per cent rate. Could that last one per cent have lost us more than we gained? Who knows? The whole thing was a secret from the public until it happened. Other considerations are:

• The sales tax hits the poorest hardest, as the Freeman pointed out.

• The average taxpayer gets no three per cent decrease in his property tax for 1977 despite the deceptive "Three Per Cent Property Tax Drop Expected" headline on Dec. 15. The three per cent decrease is the most optimistic figure for the county portion of your property tax. Almost all town property tax rates will rise. If you live in the Town of Ulster, you can expect an over-all increase of about $3.50 per $1,000 assessed valuation in your tax, exclusive of special assessments such as a sewer district. No decrease.

• The 7 per cent sales tax will increase the inherent cost of everthing you buy by more than the obvious 2 per cent. The electricity bill, fuel oil bill, toilet tissue bill, and so on will rise for every business as well as every resident outside Kingston, and for Kingstonians who shop outside Kingston. Where do you think the increase in the cost of doing business will end up? You now pay 40 per cent more tax on what will have to be a higher-priced article or service.

• The larger sales tax on prices that increase 6 or 7 per cent a year for inflation reasons alone should really drag in everyone's spare change.

But our arrogant 27 in the legislature gave us no chance to discuss any of the above points, nor a host of others. Based on the legislature's reaction to the 650 who attended the budget hearing — "They were just venting themselves" — the county taxpayers should be getting the picture on the importance of their opinions.

The legislature knows for months something of the general area of the increase in funds needed. Can't you just see how these wise people will solve our fiscal problems in December 1977? A 30 per cent increase in property taxes But don't get excited. The politicians will tell us this averages out to only 15 per cent (a year) because we had no property tax increase (except from our town governments) for a whole year.

No Substitutes for Mother

WASHINGTON- Would Mary have sent the Baby Jesus to a day care center? She might if she were with us this Christmas and she was a career woman out there in the market place battling for a paycheck right along with Joseph. That's assuming that Joseph had seniority in the carpenter's union and hadn't been laid off; otherwise he could stay home with the Baby, although few men in our culture have done very well at that job.

If Jesus had been sent to a day care center shortly after Mary had recovered her strength enough to go back to work as an account executive in an advertising agency or as a lawyer, her Son might not have become the symbol and ideal of love, both human and divine, which He has been for our civilization for 20 centuries. Our experience with infants who are put in the institutional setting so early in life is that they grow up with considerable difficulty expressing love or loyalty. It's not known as a scientific fact, but the impression garnered by many observers is that the children of a kibbutz-type infancy grow up to be intensely middling people, never at the bottom, never at the top.

The day care center seems to be an efficient means of rearing organization men and women, but as Dr. Herbert Ratner has said, "If nature wanted children to be raised in litters, they would be born that way .. The reason only one child is born at a time is because the only way to teach children love is in a one-to-one relationship. That is why I'm against day care centers."

Parents in the kibbutz are now being encouraged to spend more time with their very young infants for some of these very reasons. Not that there is any ground for comparing the care an infant gets in Israel with the treatment it gets in America. We can't begin to offer such quality of nurture. "During the first few months of existence," writes Barbara Joe, a mother of four with a masters degree in social care services, "they require many of the services that would be provided by an intensive care nursing home at any other stage of life - a liquid diet, round-the-clock feedings and assurance that their breathing is unobstructed. They must be dressed and bathed, they are incontinent, they often regurgitate their food, they cannot speak, and they are practically immobile." After that comes love and a million other less tangible but no less important things.

The further away one gets from home and mother the less able our society is to provide these necessities for our children The reason isn't hard to come by. The high status, high respect occupations are those concerning money, production, power and fame. The care of human beings is a despised, low-caste occupation. Our hospitals, old age, nursing and convalescent homes are staffed with poorly paid, looked-down-upon people, mostly black people and more often than not black women who can't get any other kind of a job.

The clamor for day care centers from some women's organizations but by no means all women's groups is, then, not for the benefit of the child, but only the mother and father who don't want to or can't take care of their offspring. However, since there is no data anywhere suggesting the institutional rearing of infants and small children is better than or even as good as a good home, feminist groups might be wiser urging women who don't want to take care of their children just not to have them.

The pressure is all the other way, to go on increasing day care center financing by the government. With the new administration, which is rather thoughtlessly committed to day care, there will be yet more pressure, especially in view of the fact these centers can appear to create jobs, although it's actually only hocus-pocus to pay people to perform a service outside the home that can be performed in it for about 20 per cent of the cost.

Switching over to government rearing of small children isn't like switching from the production of one kind of bomber to another. Once you do it, you must accept that you may have irreversibly changed society and not necessarily for the better, for as Barbara Joe writes: "... once begun, the experiment would be difficult to abandon. This is because the way people learn to parent - and girls specifically to 'mother' - is first by experiencing mothering roles. It would be almost impossible for a whole generation of children raised in group settings without individualized mothering and without examples of this in their experience to suddenly be able to adapt this behavior upon achieving biological parenthood, whatever their intellectual commitment might be. Thus, day care, while liberating girls from the stereotyped motherhood role, might liberate them to the extent that mothering would no longer be an option for them and the choice, once made, would have become irreversible."

The least we can do, as Barbara Joe points out in her excellent unpublished paper, "Child in Crisis," is debate the significance of what we're drifting into here. There are other ways to handle these problems. Many have been suggested but scarcely given a serious hearing, such as according wives and mothers social security protection even if they don't work outside the home; universal child allotments; and perhaps the novel idea of one job (decently paid) per every two parents, perhaps jointly held by the wife-husband-mother-father together. Call it a shared employment program.

There are many things we can do beside bureaucratizing infancy and early childhood. We can pay attention to The Martha Movement (1022 Wilson Boulevard, Suite 2610, Arlington, Virginia, 22209), an organization trying to give some respect, dignity and prestige to the calling of wife, mother and homemaker in the traditional sense. Don't knock it until you can come up with a substitute. Certainly we need the role models of women Supreme Court Justices and women in other power, prestige positions, but the role of Mother in the Holy Family isn't without honor either.

Our Gifts on His Birthda

Silent Night...

Street lamps swing in the night wind. Rhinestones gleam yellow and red on sheaves of snow. There is a solemn silence, as though the world is holding its breath.

Trees wear ermine on their arms. Boots crunch and squeak in the drifts. Somewhere, there is the sound of sleighbells and the muffled thud of hoofs. The night sky is an indigo vault, pale on the edges. A billion stars wink like Christmas tree lights.

Holy Night...

Before the moment of dawn, there is the smell of wood smoke. This is the only occasion when time hangs still between tick and tock. This is the interval when the infant Jesus was born. His mother bathed Him and wrapped Him warm against the chill of Bethlehem. The tiny legs moved up and down and He uttered His first cry.

It is the rule of God that as her suffering ended, His began.

Dawn is special on Christmas Day. The great blue star in the East fights the rising rays of pale blue and yellow and pink. It flashes color onto fleecy clouds and tosses long blankets of blue shadows on the snow.

All Is Calm...

Most of all, it is a children's dawn. Sleepy-heads tumble out of bed as the rising sun studies its reflection in a billion windows. It is a time of happy cries; of apple cheeks and little faces with thumbs stuck in them.

It is kisses and shouts of "Merry Christmas." It is a green tree laden with colored ornaments. It is candy and apples and nuts in stockings. Most of all, it is happy surprises: a doll, a train, a football, a mitt, a doll house, skates, a sled, games.

All Is Bright...

It is also His birthday. Light streams in colored bands in churches where hosts of people say "Happy Birthday" in many languages and in many ways. A choir swells the old story to the skies - the birth, the star, the adoration, the magi.

Thick white flakes fall lazily. Little tongues are out to taste them. Boys play in mittens and stocking hats. A little girl visits all the neighbors, both hands stuck in a new fur muff. Strangers smile at strangers.

It is a day of cooking smells and white linen tablecloths. A day for slender glasses with stems and the ruby flash of port wine. A day for crackling log fires and a busted wind-up toy.

'Round yon Virgin, Mother and Child...

College students are back home in their own bedrooms. Adults crowd the kitchen with gossip. There are creamed onions and giblet gravy and candied yams and a turkey shining in its own juices. It is pfefferneusse and oranges and candy canes and hot toddies.

It is new robes and wallets and ties and shirts and pocketbooks, tennis racquets and a fancy putter. It is warm hearts and cold bathrooms and a clutch at the heart remembering who isn't here. It is giving and getting and loving and forgiving and remembering and forgetting.

Holy Infant So Tender and Mild...

It is snowballs in flight and runny noses. Steamy plumes from farm horses and someone reading aloud, " 'Twas the Night Before Christmas." It's a chemistry set, a manger, building blocks and television. It is a well-fed old man snoring in a chair.

It is also unexpected visits, a little stomach in cramps, the women straightening the living room every hour. It is a late bronze sun and automobiles which will not start.

Sleep in Heavenly Peace...

And, lest we forget, it is also wrong sizes, a leaden sky, a busy telephone, a roof weeping icicles, and small bottles of perfume. It is a fat puppy looking up at his new owner and wetting the rug. It is early darkness, bowls of fruit and Christmas cards.

It is little nighties much too long and lighted candles in the window which grow brighter as the sun goes down. There is a silent glance of understanding between a mother and a father. One more Christmas.

It is a sink full of dishes and a copy of "Little Women." It is a tree in tilt with a lighted star on top. It is a day on which to meditate, to wonder at the enigmatic story of life itself. A day for giving a small gift to Him.

Sleep in Heavenly Peace...

New Info On Ray And Oswald

WASHINGTON — House investigators have uncovered dramatic new evidence that the accused killer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. may not have acted alone.

The murder was pinned on James Earl Ray, an escaped convict, who used phony passports to slip out of the country. According to the investigators, he got as far as Portugal, where he received "further instructions" from a secret conspirator.

Ray finally was tracked down in London and extradited to the United States for trial. His activities in Portugal, meanwhile, have been concealed from the authorities for eight years.

Not until a few weeks ago did the House investigators learn about Ray's Portugal connection from "a witness who had never previously been interviewed by any investigative agency."

The investigators reported this startling development confidentially to the Select Committee on Assassinations. "Ray contacted another person from whom he received further instructions," they disclosed cautiously in a preliminary report.

They didn't mention in the report where the contact was made, except that it was "out of the United States." We have established that the location was Portugal.

The investigators also have uncovered some intriguing new information about Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

According to the report, the committee staff "spent seven hours questioning an ex-CIA agent who had come forth to relate his personal knowledge of the contents of conversations between Lee Harvey Oswald and personnel within the Cuban and Soviet embassies in Mexico City."

Oswald's conversations, according to our sources, were monitored by the Central Intelligence Agency. Immediately, staff members "were dispatched to Mexico City where they conducted further interviews," the report discloses. No evidence has been uncovered so far, however, that Oswald discussed the Kennedy assassination at either embassy.

The committee will probe deeply into any connection between the CIA and Kennedy's assassination. The agency, we have learned, has more than 60 cartons of top-secret documents "relating to the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and the activities of Lee Harvey Oswald prior to that assassination."

Meanwhile, the committee staff is anxiously awaiting congressional approval of their request for a record $6.5 million to investigate the assassinations. Behind closed doors, Richard Sprague, the panel's brilliant staff director from Philadelphia, dramatically laid out his plans, and persuaded even the most stubborn members of the committee that the money was necessary.

Sprague pointed out that, compared to other investigations, the money he wanted was not an unreasonable sum. For example, he noted that for the first three month period of the search for Patty Hearst, the FBI spent $2.6 million.

In addition, Sprague explained, the New York State investigation of abuse in the Medicaid program has a budget of $6 million for its second year.

Rep. Henry Gonzales, D.-Tex., the incoming chairman of the assassination committee, told us he is convinced that Sprague is right.

CONFLICT CURBS: President-elect Jimmy Carter, armed with an unpublished survey showing that employes are abysmally ignorant of conflict-of-interest laws, plans to make an exective order on the problem one of his first orders of business.

According to the survey, prepared by Ralph Nader's Center for Law and Social Policy, the conflict laws are so complex that employes can't understand them.

In fact, the employes told the Nader interviewers, the legal terminology is "so boring and burdensome" that they sign federal job agreements without even reading the regulations.

Some agencies, states the report, don't even bother to provide workers with the written laws. Instead, the employes receive quick oral briefings.

Incredibly, federal agencies do not remind employes about potential conflicts when they leave the government. The burden is on the worker to determine if taking a new job is illegal.

Christmas is... Tinsel, Laughter, LOVE

'Twas the Night Before Christmas" was dramatized by Stephanie Jackson, Michael Krein, Gina Sottile, Kenneth Krom and Sabrina Medley at the Kennedy School holiday program Tuesday night. The school orchestra also participated in the festivities.

The Lost Christmas

(Reprinted by Request)

There is nothing sadder in this world than to awake Christmas morning and not be a child.

Not to feel the cold on your bare feet as you rush to the Christmas tree in the living room. Not to have your eyes sparkle at the wonderment of discovery. Not to rip the ribbons off the shiny boxes with such abandon.

What happened?

When did the cold, bare feet give way to reason and a pair of sensible bedroom slippers? When did the sparkle and the wonderment give way to depression of a long day? When did a box with a shiny ribbon mean an item on the "charge"?

A child of Christmas doesn't have to be a toddler or a teen. A child of Christmas is anyone who believes that Kings have birthdays.

The Christmases you loved so well are gone. What happened?

Maybe they diminished the year you decided to have your Christmas cards printed to send to 1,500 of your "closest friends and dearest obligations." You got too busy to sign your own name.

Maybe it was the year you discovered the traditional Christmas tree was a fire hazard and the needles had to be vacuumed every three hours and you traded its holiday aroma for a silver one that revolved, changed colors, played "Silent Night" and snowed on itself.

Or the year it got to be too much trouble to sit around the table and put popcorn and cranberries on a string. Possibly you lost your childhood the year you solved your gift problems neatly and coldly with a checkbook.

Think about it. It might have been the year you were too rushed to bake and resorted to slice-and-bake with no nonsense. Who needs a bowl to clean — or lick?

Most likely it was the year you were so efficient in paying back all your party obligations. A wonderful little caterer did it for you for $3 per person.

Children of Christmas are givers. That's what the day is for. They give thanks, love, gratitude, joy and themselves to one another.

It doesn't necessarily mean you have to have children around a tree. It's rather like lighting a candle you've been saving, caroling when your feet are cold, building a fire in a clean grate, grinding tinsel deep into the rug, licking frosting off a beater, giving something you made yourself.

It's laughter, being with people you like, and at some time falling to your knees and saying, "Thank you for coming to my birthday party."

How sad indeed to awake on Christmas and not be a child.

Time, self-pity, apathy, bitterness and exhaustion can take the Christmas out of the child, but you cannot take the child out of Christmas.

The Living Nativity

The Saugerties Stockaders climaxed a week of activities last Sunday with the presentation of the Living Nativity at the Partition Automotives Building, Main Street. For the week previous a Christmas display and tree that might have graced the home of a Colonist in 1776 was prepared by about 100 children from the Stockaders group. A different Santa Claus each night played by one of the Senior Citizens assisted the young people. The group also did carolling in Saugerties and heralded the whole celebration with a parade through Saugerties accompanied by the Sawyer Band brass ensemble under the direction of David Keehn.

Dolls Distributed in Time for Christmas

KINGSTON—Making clothes for and dressing dolls has long been a favorite pastime. contests are also fun, and the people at Bankers Trust Hudson Valley combined the two ideas this year for a program that would eventually cheer some child who is sick or underprivileged at Christmas

Dolls were provided by the bank early in December to any employee, or any member of an employee's immediate family, who wished to participate Three prizes would be awarded in each of the bank's major regions (Ulster, Dutchess and Rockland Counties).

The Ulster Region judging took place Monday at the Wall Street Branch and winners are firat prize, Mary Ann Kelly of bookkeeping, Port Ewen, second, Mary Soodek, research, Port Ewen; and third, Elna Demarest, Wall Street branch.

Judges were Harry Kapreilian, president of Charles Ramsey Corp.; Harlow F. DeForest, president of the Chidsey-DeForest Insurance Agency; Walter Maxwell of WGHQ and WBPM; and John Betaudier of WKNY.

The Ulster Region dolls were distributed to Benedictine Hospital, Kingston Hospital, WKNY's Toys for Tots Program; and Head Start programs in Saugerties and Woodstock which are supported by WGHQ-WBPM.

Musical Program Slated at Ancram

ANCRAM—Among the activities at the Ancram Restoration this Christmas is The Spiffy Music Hall, a relatively new but highly polished music hall show performed by three young gentlemen and a lady. The program runs the gamut of numbers from the 1890's through a medley of songs written in the last 80 years; an imaginary trip around the world in Flo Ziegfield style of songs; bright and lively sophisticated musical pieces which Noel Coward, Rodgers and Hart, Cole Porter wrote in the 1920's and '30s.

The troupe performs the music as it was written, high stepping, rhythmic dance routines that accompany the songs and done as they should be with grace and style.

Information for the busy schedule may be obtained at the Ancram Opera House. The schedule for The Spiffy Music Hall includes Christmas Day, 8:30 p.m.; Sunday, Dec. 26, 2:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.; Saturday, New Year's Day, 8:30 p.m. and Sunday, Jan. 2, 2:30 p.m. Tickets are $6.95 for orchestra seats and $9.95 for box seats. Special dinner-theater prices are available.

The Ancram Opera House will be the site used for the first Christmas Mass (Roman Catholic Liturgy) to be celebrated in the restoration for the general public. The Candlelight Carol Service to mark the end of Advent and Eucharistic Celebration will start tonight at 11:30. The Rev. Gerard Tierney, director of religious education of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Albany, will celebrate the liturgy.

DEAR ABBY

Unmarried Mother Expecting Again

DEAR ABBY. I am 29 years old, have seven kids and I am pregnant again I've never been married, but I've been engaged twice and I've been pinned several times Don't tell me I should have been more careful because I WAS careful, but nothing seemed to work with me

A doctor put me on birth control pills, and I followed his instructions, but I turned up pregnant anyway The doctor said it must have been the fault of the pills, so he put me on another brand, and the same thing happened

I've used other methods in cluding marking the calendar, but they all failed I must be one of those super fertile types

I don't want any more kids after this, at least not until I get married, but I don't want an operation to make me ster ile because I might meet a guy who wants a kid of his own, and then what will I do?

Is there a method of birth control that is positively sure? Don't send me to a doctor They re the ones who got me into this fix —FERTILE MYRTLE

DEAR MYRTLE: When it comes to birth control, the only method that's 100 per cent effective is SELF-control

You don't say who's supporting all those kids, but if we taxpayers are, you owe it to your country to visit the Planned Parenthood people and turn off the baby machine.

DEAR ABBY I am 18 and have this problem with my boyfriend We've been going together for nearly two years, and when we go to a movie or out to eat, he thinks I should pay my own way I suppose it's only fair because I'm working, too, but this is what bothers me He asks me for the money in private and then pays for both of us in public so it won t make him look bad He says it s embarrassing for a guy to be with a girl who lays down her own cash

Well, it makes me feel bad to see him pretending to be a big shot But on the other hand, when a girl pays her own way, it makes her look like she couldn't get a guy any other way

What do you think, Abby? Should a girl pay her own way? And if she does, should she be up front about it? Or should she slip it to the guy so he won't look cheap?— —JUST ME

DEAR JUST: If the girl wants to pay her own way, and her date has no objections, why not? But if she does, she should do so openly. And the guy who would accept a girl's money privately and then make a big show of "treating" her is phony.

DEAR ABBY I am so mad at myself, I don't know what else to do, so I'm writing to Dear Abby!

I let an 8-year-old con artist (my son) talk me into buying him a dog! He cried and begged and promised to take care of it, so like a fool I gave in

For exactly one week the kid "took care ' of his dog He ever got up early to take the dog out Well, the novelty soon wore off, and now guess who's taking care of the dog? The kid does the dog a favor and plays with it (in the house) for maybe 10 minutes

I guess I want to tell other parents that just because a kid begs for a dog doesn't mean he really wants it

I wish there was a "rent-a-dog" outfit in business somewhere I'd have rented this pooch first to find out if I really wanted to buy him — GROWLING MAD

DEAR GROWLING: Thanks for the tip. Put your kid in the doghouse and try to find a good home for the pooch

There Are Many Faces of Santa

(By UPI)

To the Johnnie Shoate family, Santa Claus is the Detroit police force. And in the Louisiana bayous, Santa is a raggedy man in muskrat trappings driving a skiff pulled by alligators.

Santas of all shapes emerged today for Christmas Eve, some in red suits bearing gifts, others in more mundane attire, bearing Christmas cheer for the down-and-out.

The Detroit police force is Santa for the family of Lt. Johnnie Shoates, who was shot in the head trying to stop a restraurant robbery while off duty last October. Shoates is still in critical condition and semiconscious. He has never seen his daughter, Kelli, born 11 days after the shooting.

Officers in Shoates' precinct and throughout the city have raised $3,050 for the Shoates and have helped out in other ways — even putting up the Christmas tree.

Somewhere between the North Pole and Louisiana's Bayou Teche, Santa sheds his crimson-and-white suit for muskrat trappings and ditches his reindeer and sleigh for a gator-pulled skiff.

That's the Santa of "Cajun Night Before Christmas," an illustrated Cajun dialect version of Clement Moore's classic. The Cajun version's fast becoming a classic of its own in the bayous.

Bruce McDonald, however, is a more traditional St. Nick. And the Chicago businessman says he sometimes thinks — like the children he visits — that he really is Santa.

McDonald has been taking time off the job to play Santa for 24 years.

"It's my way of saying 'I love you' to my world," says McDonald, who is visiting his son in Richmond, Va., for the holidays.

His visits are rarely announced — sometimes to homes where he's a stranger. His appointment book is as full as his sack of candy canes but he's always ready to add another stop.

"When I'm dead tired, I play Santa Claus because of a memory," he said.

The memory is of a visit to a Chicago hospital, where a nurse asked him to make one more stop to see her mother, an elderly stroke victim who hadn't moved for several days.

"I leaned down to her and said, 'Hello Mary. This is Santa.'"

He said he laid a candy cane by her hand and started to leave when her face lit up and she waved faintly.

"That's why I play Santa. If you can bring love and happiness to just one person, it's well worth it."

At San Quentin prison in California, Santa is a convict serving a life term on two murder charges. But the convict Santa, Don Blansett, is a marvel to the children of fellow inmates. After a few minutes on his knee, most forget where they are.

Speriglio is director of the Nick Harris Private Detective Agency, where a telephone problem four years ago began a tradition. Four years ago the 87-person agency was flooded with calls from children asking for Santa Claus after a dial-a-Santa service took a phone number only one digit removed from theirs. Rather than disappoint the children, the detectives began pretending to be Santa. Women detectives said they were Mrs. Claus or an elf.

The number was passed around school yards and every year since, the detectives found themselves spending a lot more time ho-ho-hoing than gumshoeing.

And, while Santa has been under fire recently from psycholists who say the Santa tradition may be harmful to children, Texas Tech University professor of psychiatry Dr. Harold M. Erickson Jr. says Santa represents hope for many children and is a good idea, if not carried too far.

Woes Fail to Mar Yule

(By UPI)

People around the world are celebrating the Christmas holiday in a festive mood despite economic uncertainty, warnings of violence and government attempts to discourage religion.

In Bethlehem, the birthplace of Jesus, thousands of pilgrims were expected today to attend a Midnight Mass at St. Catherine's Church, adjoining the fourth century Basilica of the Nativity. A silver star in the Basilica marks the spot where Jesus was born nearly 2,000 years ago.

Italy is celebrating Christmas in the usual way — with two papal Masses, cribs in churches and a strike, this time the railroads. But shopping is down and the atmosphere is less cheerful than in previous years because of the nation's economic woes.

Pope Paul VI's Yule program includes a midnight Mass in St. Peter's Cathedral televised live to more than 30 countries and a morning Mass on Christmas Day.

Even nations that live under harsh governments are not immune from the holiday spirit. The South Korean government is lifting its midnight to 4 a.m. curfew and Chileans will not face a curfew for the first time since a 1973 military coup.

In Argentina, the military government is warning citizens to beware of bombs disguised as Christmas gifts and distributed by "subversive criminals (who) have no feeling of Christian peace and may use the holiday to spread chaos."

"It's a turkey and guns Christmas for Rhodesia," said Jack Jocelyn, a white storekeeper near Salisbury.

"We still go to the usual round of Christmas parties but all people can talk about is whether we'll still be in Rhodesia next year."

Yugoslavs are managing to celebrate Christmas despite the government's attempt to discourage the practice by replacing it with a two-day holiday for the New Year.

Swedish families start feasting early today on dark raisin bread dipped in ham cooking juices, pate, meatballs, sausages, red cabbage, stout beer and lemonade. German, Dutch, French and British families also were gathering for traditional Christmas feasts.

THE FORGOTTEN MOUNTAIN

Is a Renaissance Dawning For the Windham Mt. Club?

By STEVE KANE
Freeman Staff

WINDHAM — It's easy to imagine how one person, especially one so insignificant as Rip Van Winkle, could have been lost and forgotten in the Catskills for 20 years, but a whole mountain?

Move over, Washington Irving, truth is stranger than fiction.

Ten years is more like the number in this case, but that certainly serves to make the case of Windham Mountain unique. Windham, for those who don't know, is a ski area, a big ski area. It has everything you would expect to find in a major Eastern ski resort, everything save skiers. And therein lies the puzzle.

Gene McMasters pushed himself away from his desk and swung his gaze out the window. In the distance empty chairs spun silently around the base of a chairlift. "I think my third goal would be to increase the midweek business up from zero to 100 skiers per day."

Windham didn't start out the way most ski areas did, and that's essentially the reason for the current state of affairs. Four years after Tom Sheridan bought his 800 acres, four years of a small return on a large investment, Windham became a private club. A few hundred people had effectively solved the problem that ranks second only to bad weather for skiers—overcrowding.

After a few refinements the club concept proved workable. Windham maintained its equilibrium, and the membership climbed to about 650. New trails were cut, facilities were added, and still there were no liftlines. But in the early '70s a lot of Eastern ski areas went under. Dry, warm winters gobbled up a bunch of small time operations. Windham also felt the heat.

"I think the weather was the prime reason. The economy was bad, too, but we had a lot of members who were able to stand that. There was no snow, and people just weren't skiing."

Before McMasters could continue a young boy knocked on the open door of the office. He wanted to know if he could go sleighriding on the slope. It probably didn't occur to him that the only reason his Flexible Flyer might get a workout was because a crew of men worked all summer with backhoes and bulldozers laying miles of pipe that were attached to a huge compressor.

Last season Windham's membership rolls were at 450. Thanks to a few of those members the club survived, but it was apparent some changes were needed. The club started by hiring Gene McMasters. They told him to do the rest. It was the scope of that assignment that lured McMasters away from Loon Mountain, New Hampshire.

He'd enjoyed his tenure at Loon. Under Loon's guiding light, Sherman Adams, he'd experienced what he considers the better side of skiing. A good mountain, an ambience fostered by Loon's limited lift ticket sale, and a strong cadre of repeat customers. All that especially in contrast to his first ski resort job at Mount Snow, "life with the barracudas," as he says.

A Madison Avenue warrior until the age of 45, he first saw the challenge of selling Windham—and that was no challenge at all. Of the 90-odd ski areas in New York State, he points out, only three have a bigger vertical. The snowmaking capacity is also exceptional. Few places in the East can cover more acres artificially, and Windham's system reaches to the summit and fans out under every lift.

Peter Klempa's accent doesn't hinder his speech at all, probably because for the last decade or so he's been spending only half a year in his native Argentina. He looked up at his winter home and drew a comparison with the ski area seven miles down the road.

"Sometimes when they close the lifts at Hunter because of the wind, we're still going here. This is much more sheltered."

If a ski area were measured by how much enjoyment it provided, Windham's potential has been barely scratched. McMasters wants to tap that potential with his first responsibility to the current members of the Windham club.

The mountain belongs to the club members on the weekends. For a substantial investment you can join the club. During the week, though, all you need is eight dollars and a serious attitude.

That midweek business would be a welcome boon to Windham. To help promote it, McMasters has a list of daily deals—things like discounts for college students and senior citizens, cut rates for residents of certain counties (Ulster included), and a special rate for mixed couples. (Dogs don't count, unless they ski.)

If a cash flow from that source develops, it would be something of a bonus. It ranks behind McMaster's second goal of adding 50 new members this year.

The word "millionaire" has been used. We've been told some members are "out of the country." McMasters realizes it and doesn't want to distort the perspective.

"We're shooting for the middle income guy. The guy who makes $20,000 and has a couple of kids."

All the ingredients for success seem to be present. The only potential pitfall looming is some kind of economic crunch, and Windham survived one already. McMasters certainly believes in the future and he's got a rolled up map of Windham, 1990, to prove it.

The simple factors are that Windham is a fine mountain; it has a base lodge that borders on extravagant; it has expansion possibilities that few, if any, ski areas in the East can match. Right now it is a rare entity—an uncrowded mountain, and is it designed to stay that way.

McMasters crushed a Taryton and blew out the last of the smoke. "You know," he said, "Windham was ten years ahead of its time."

Every Point Counts For Improving Rangers

BOSTON (UPI) — This tie was akin to punching your sister and having her hit back with a lead-lined pocketbook.

The 3-3 deadlock between the Boston Bruins and New York Rangers Thursday night kept the Rangers in last place in the Patrick Division and dropped the Bruins two points out of first in the Adams Division. But it was a good, physical hockey game that left each coach satisfied with the progress of his team.

New York's Steve Vickers forced the deadlock with a quick poke from in front of the Boston goal with 7:20 remaining in the contest. Fleet rookie Don Murdoch had the first two Ranger goals, his 26th and 27th, while Earl Anderson, Terry O'Reilly and John Bucyk registered the Boston scores.

"We've got to play for ties in our division," said Rangers' Coach John Ferguson, whose club trails third-place Atlanta by one point and first-place Philadelphia by 10 points in the NHL's Patrick Division. "Every point is so valuable.

"We've got to get (catch up) to Atlanta and then...we're going for first place."

The Bruins, whose 10-point lead over Buffalo has dissolved during a 3-8-2 stretch have played three more games than the first place Buffalo Sabres.

"We've played two super games in a row (including a 3-0 loss to the New York Islanders (Tuesday night) and we've only got one point to show for it," said Boston Coach Don Cherry.

"I like what I'm seeing. I know no one believes me — I'm like Shakespeare: 'Thou dost protest too much' — but I do like what I see."

What Cherry saw was 60 minutes of hard-fought hockey as the Bruins jumped to a 2-0 lead 43 seconds into the middle period only to have Murdoch's pair even the match. Bucyk stole a pass and got an unassisted goal 4:15 into the final period and Vickers knotted the game again on a cross-ice pass from Wayne Dillon.

The theatrics in between the goals made the game more enjoyable for the 12,178 Boston Garden fans who love to hate the Rangers. Ranger wing Nick Fotiu picked up an interference penalty 56 seconds into the game and added a high stick and misconduct penalty six minutes later.

The second period was rugged but penalty free, setting up a brutal third period. First Rod Gilbert received a 10-minute misconduct on Bucyk's goal. The veteran Ranger, upset because Boston's Rick Middleton had pinned goalie Gilles Gratton behind the New York net to leave Bucyk a wide-open shot, tossed his stick into the stands.

The main event occurred at 7:29 when Murdoch went after a puck along the Boston boards and appeared to hit Milbury with a clean, hard check. Milbury, upset over an earlier elbow joust with the Ranger rookie, whacked Murdoch repeatedly behind the head and shoved him to the ice. Ranger center Walt Tkaczuk zoomed to Murdoch's aid and received a game misconduct.

Milbury ended up with a five-minute fighting penalty and Murdoch a two-minute infraction for roughing.

Five seconds before the tying goal, Carol Vadnais and Brad Park —involved in last year's Rangers-Bruins trade — traded sticks and elbows and were awarded two-minute penalties by referee Wally Harris.

Flyers 5, Caps 2

After a slow start, the Philadelphia Flyers finally have overtaken the New York Islanders for first place in the Patrick Division of the National Hockey League, and the prime mover in the past two games is a player not well known for knowing where the goal is.

Don Saleski, best-known for having the same nickname as Mark "The Bird" Fidrych (Saleski had his "bird" first), scored more than 15 goals only once in his five-year National Hockey League career —last season, with 21— and had just four this season before Wednesday night's contest against the New York Rangers.

He now has seven, thanks to a short-handed goal that helped the Flyers to a tie against the Rangers and two goals, including the winner, Thursday night in a 5-2 triumph over the Washington Capitals that gave Philadelphia a two-point Patrick Division lead over the Islanders.

In the World Hockey Association, Houston edged Cincinnati 6-5 in overtime, Calgary nipped Minnesota 2-1 and New England outscored San Diego 5-3.

Red Wings 5, Penguins 2

Jim Nahrgang and Rick Wilson scored open net goals in the final minute of play, Nahrgang's coming from 160 feet. Bill Lochead paced Detroit with a pair of goals and Walt McKechnie added another before Pittsburgh Coach Ken Schinkel pulled goalie Denis Herron twice to give the Penguins an extra forward advantage in the final minute.

Sabres 4, Leafs 2

Rene Robert scored his 10th goal on a 20-foot shot with 4:46 to play and Craig Ramsay added an insurance goal into an empty net in the final minute to rally Buffalo from a 2-0 deficit to its seventh straight victory. The Leafs got their two goals from Bob Neely and Dave Williams 33 seconds apart in the first period. Rick Martin scored his 22nd goal for Buffalo.

Blues 4, Canucks 2

Bob Gassoff scored with three seconds left in the second period to break a 2-2 tie. His point shot was deflected past goaltender Cesare Maniago, who played his second game in as many nights.

New Jersey Eyeing All-Stars

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — First the New York Giants, next the College All-Star Game?

The New Jersey Sports Authority, which lured the New York Giants away from New York City and refurbished Yankee Stadium, has now become the second bidder for the recently discontinued College All-Star football game amid suggestions of possible changes in the game's format.

A spokesman for the Sports Authority said Thursday that Chairman Sonny Werblin contacted National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle about sponsoring the game in New Jersey's Giants Stadium.

On Wednesday, Joe Albritton, publisher of the Washington Star, expressed interest in acquiring the game, which traditionally matches a squad of college football all-stars against the NFL Super Bowl champions and had been sponsored for 43 years by the Chicago Tribune. But the Chicago paper Tuesday cited increased expenses and uncertainty over its ability to recruit personnel as reasons for withdrawing its backing of the game.

The brainchild of former Tribune sports editor Arch Ward, the game, played annually in Chicago, has raised more than $4 million for needy causes.

In recent years, the game has been opposed by many NFL owners, who object to their high draft choices missing the first three weeks of preseason training and risking possible injury. In addition, 26 of the 54 players who participated in last year's game were unsigned.

Among the alternatives proposed by the New Jersey Sports Authority are a rematch between the Super Bowl finalists or a game between two college all-star squads. The collegiate players have not beaten the NFL representative since 1963, with many scores being one-sided.

"To put it in a basically positive plane," the spokesman said, "we would be interested in reviving the game in any conceivable type, shape or form."

MR Closing Jan. 2

MONTICELLO — Monticello Raceway has announced that the closing of the track's Winter Meet will be after the matinee card on January 2 rather than on January 3. The raceway customarily ends its racing meets on Sundays.

Monticello's 1977 summer racing dates are March 31 through September 30.

Millbrook Trims Rhinebeck Cagers

PINE PLAINS — After posting its first win of the season in Wednesday's opening round of the Pine Plains Christmas Tournament, Rhinebeck High's basketball team fell to Millbrook, 59-48, in Thursday's championship contest.

The smaller Indians hung in for a good half against the Blazers, but a series of Millbrook fast breaks in the third period enabled the winners to open up an eight-point lead Not a strong offensive club, that gap was too much for Rhinebeck to close.

"We kept their big men off the boards, but while we were concentrating on that we didn't contain (Wayne) Finger" said Rhinebeck coach Bob Ahlin. "He's about a six foot guard, and he gets up and down the court pretty fast."

Finger had 20 points to lead all scorers, and he was a key factor in the third period when Millbrook took command. Ahlin figured his squad was caught napping for about four uncontested layups during that period.

Steve Sherman had 17 points to pace the Indians, but only five of the losers hit the scoreboard, and only three reached double figures. That situation was a little different in the first round battle.

Rhinebeck took on host Pine Plains in their opener after took the preliminary contest, 55-55 from Webutuck. The Indians had been winless in three previous starts, but they jumped right out in front of the Bombers and managed to stay there.

"We pressed the whole game and forced a lot of turnovers, Ahlin said, "that's the only way we won Joe Mazzarella did some scoring for us too, and that's something we hadn't been getting."

Sherman and John O'Han each had 15, Jim Ferriello had 12 and Mazzarella chipped in with 11 against Pine Plains.

Rhinebeck will seek to improve its 1-4 slate January 4 when Webutuck pays a visit for a Bi-Valley contest. The Indians have a chance to even the score with Millbrook on January 21.

"I think we can take them on our court," said Ahlin. "It's a little smaller, and our press might work better there."

JV Tourney at Rhinebeck

RHINEBECK — Rhinebeck Central School will host its third annual junior varsity basketball tournament Tuesday and Wednesday.

Germantown, Haldane and North Salem will be in the field with the Indians. Rhinebeck, 0-4 thus far, will meet 5-0 Germantown in the Tuesday nitecap at 8:45 p.m. North Salem, 0-2, faces Haldane, 2-1, in the opener at 7 p.m.

The championship and consolation games will occupy the same time slots Wednesday. Thursday has been reserved in case of inclement weather.

Gay's Wife Is Indicted

CAMDEN, N.J. (UPI) — Roxanne Gay, the wife of Philadelphia Eagles' defensive lineman Blenda Gay, has been indicted on charges of stabbing her husband to death in their apartment Monday.

A Camden County grand jury handed up the first-degree murder indictment Thursday charging Mrs. Gay, 26, with stabbing her husband in the neck with an eight-inch kitchen knife while their 3-year-old daughter, Fonda, slept in another room.

Mrs. Gay was arrested at the Gays' luxury garden apartment in Blackwood after Gay telephoned for help, saying he had been stabbed in the neck. She has been held in lieu of $100,000 bail since her arrest on murder charges.

Camden County Prosecutor Thomas J. Shusted said the couple had a history of quarreling.

Mrs. Gay's defense lawyer said at her arraignment that Gay had beaten his wife and a Gloucester Township official said Mrs. Gay once filed assault charges against her husband.

Rams Had Better Bring Their Mittens to Chilly Minnesota

By UPI

The Los Angeles Rams are reminded to take their mittens to Minnesota for this Sunday's National Football Conference championship game against the Vikings.

It is expected to be considerably warmer in Oakland for the American Football Conference's championship game between the Raiders and the defending Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers.

With temperatures in the teens and wintry winds whipping across the Minnesota flatland, the visitors from sunny Southern California will have to battle the elements as well as the Vikings.

In past years, the Vikings have moved their postseason practices to Tulsa, Okla., because of the Minnesota's annual ice age. But this year Coach Bud Grant elected to remain in Bloomington and quarterback Fran Tarkenton believes it will help the Vikings.

"Staying here to practice has been a definite advantage for us," Tarkenton said. "That's not because of the cold, but because traveling is never an advantage. It's never a convenience. It wears you out."

"The cold weather doesn't hamper our practices," Grant said. "It's the snow that's the troublemaker."

It used to be the worse the weather, the bigger the advantage for the Vikings.

But the Vikings have a new look this season with an explosive offense centered around Tarkenton and wide receivers Sammie White and Ahmad Rashad. Clearly, the Vikings will be hoping for dry weather Sunday in order to deploy their air attack.

Conversely, the Rams appear better suited for an "off-track", as running backs Lawrence McCutcheon and John Cappelletti each gained 100 yards in a 10-10 tie against the Vikings earlier this season. In that game, Minnesota's Chuck Foreman and Brent McClanahan combined for only 59 yards.

While a good football game is expected in Minnesota, war is forecast for Oakland.

"I think people are expecting to see the Little Big Horn out there," Pittsburgh defensive end Dwight White said.

The Pittsburgh-Oakland rivalry has been pro football's bitterest since the immaculate reception by St. Franco in 1973 when Jack Tatum batted down a Terry Bradshaw pass which Franco Harris scooped up at his shoetops and carried into the end zone for the winning touchdown in the final seconds of a playoff game.

Lawsuits are being served on Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll for referring to the Raiders' defensive back George Atkinson as part of the "criminal element" in the NFL. Additionally, Atkinson gave the Steelers' top wide receiver, Lynn Swann, a concussion with a blow from behind in Pittsburgh's season-opening loss to the Raiders.

"I think it's going to be a high intensity game, with some vicious hitting out there," White said. But, he added, "That goes on every week.

"They've got too much to lose to worry about fighting. We've got too much to lose to worry about fighting. I think whoever does the most fighting is probably going to end up the loser."

Oakland Coach John Madden is more concerned with the Pittsburgh defense, which has been almost impenetrable during the Steelers' 10-game winning streak.

"They're red-dogging a little more than they used to and they're mixing up their defense a lot more," Madden said.

In losing four of their first five games, the Steelers yielded 95 points. In winning their final nine games, the Steelers gave up only two touchdowns and a total of 28 points while recording five shutouts. The Steelers then met Baltimore, the NFL's top offensive team, in the first round of the playoffs last week and routed the Colts, 40-14.

Indiana Cage Fans Rate an Assist

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The basketball fans gained a large part of the credit for the Indiana Pacers' 96-94 comeback victory over the New York Nets in the National Basketball Association Thursday night.

However, Nets' Coach Kevin Loughery didn't even think he had a right to say anything about the game since he wasn't around for the final two minutes when Indiana charged from 10 points back and moved ahead on Billy Knight's three-point play with 28 seconds remaining.

"I didn't see the game so I can't comment on it," claimed Loughery, who was chased with two technical fouls late in the fourth quarter.

But Bobby Leonard of Indiana and assistant New York Coach Rod Thorn agreed the fans were a big factor.

"Our crowd is not very vocal and a crowd pushes a team a lot," Thorn said. "This crowd tonight helped the Pacers win."

But Thorn also said several key steals when Indiana went to a hounding defense also counted a lot.

"We couldn't get a good shot off. They made a good comeback," he concluded.

"Our crowd really helped," Leonard explained. "That's what a home crowd is for. When you get something going like we did and the crowd gets excited and vocal it really helps."

He added that "we had to go to our trap defense and go after the ball. It really worked out right tonight."

Knight finished with 32 points, high for all players. New York's John Williamson pumped in 28. Forward Darnell Hillman also contributed 19 points for Indiana along with a strong rebounding effort with a season high 22 rebounds. He also blocked seven shots.

Dan Roundfield, who injured his right wrist and will be X-rayed today, scored 16 points for Indiana, the final one on a free throw after the final buzzer when he was fouled and hurt.

Suns 107, Braves 92

Excuse Ernie DiGregorio if he "Bah, humbugs" his Christmas gift from Phoenix' Ricky Sobers.

Ever since coming into the National Basketball Association, DiGregorio has strived to escape the nickname "Ernie No D," a reference to his reputed defensive shortcomings. And Sobers may have stuck the Buffalo guard with that sobriquet permanently Thursday night.

Sobers, known primarily as a defensive specialist, scored a career-high 28 points to lead the Suns to a 107-92 victory over the Braves.

Even more damaging to DiGregorio was what Sobers had to say after the game.

"I tried to be more offensive minded against him," Sobers said of DiGregorio. "I feel I can take him one-on-one because of my height advantage and because he has the reputation of not being a good defensive player. I think he really is the weak link in Buffalo's defense."

The Suns' victory ended a four-game losing streak.

DiGregorio also had a tough night offensively as he scored only 11 points.

The Suns' guards scored 69 points as Paul Westphal scored 22 and reserves Ron Lee and Dick Van Arsdale had 11 and 8, respectively.

John Shumate was high for Buffalo with 26 points.

Spurs 118, Bullets 116

Larry Kenon scored 26 points to lead San Antonio to victory as Washington's Elvin Hayes missed a last-second tap, which would have tied the game. Hayes had 32 points and 15 rebounds to lead the Bullets.

Bulls 101, Hawks 95

Mickey Johnson scored 26 points to lead Chicago to its eighth victory in the last 10 games. Artis Gilmore had 23 points for the Bulls, while Lou Hudson scored 22 to lead Atlanta, which lost its fourth straight.

Bucks 107, Warriors 92

Bobby Dandridge scored 22 points and Milwaukee scored the game's final eight points to record its third straight victory. Gus Williams led the Golden State scoring with 26 points.

Nuggets 123, SuperSonics 95

David Thompson scored a season-high 38 points and Bobby Jones added 20 by extending his string of consecutive field goals to a team-record 17 over a two-game period to lead Denver to an easy victory. Tom Burleson scored 17 points to lead Seattle, which lost its fifth straight game.

Long Beach St. 'Celebrates'

By UPI

Long Beach State received word Thursday night the NCAA was lifting its athletic probation effective Jan. 5, then went out and celebrated by losing to Montana, 77-75, for the 49ers' fourth loss in 104 games at the Long Beach Arena.

The end of the probation means Long Beach State football and basketball teams will not be barred from television appearances or post-season competition after Jan. 5.

The violations responsible for the NCAA penalties occured under the coaching regimes of Jerry Tarkanian, now the basketball coach at Nevada-Las Vegas, and Jim Strangland, who resigned as football coach to go into the insurance business.

"This is the best holiday present possible," Long Beach State president Stephen Horn said after the NCAA's announcement "They (the 49ers' athletes) have waited patiently for this moment. Now our teams are ready and anxious to meet any and all comers."

He was proved wrong less than a few hours later.

Montana guard Kirk Rocholeau scored with 19 seconds left in the game to lift the Grizzlies over the 49ers. M.R. Richardson, a 6-5 forward, scored 28 points and 6-10 Lee Johnson added 24 to lead Montana to its sixth victory in eight games.

Long Beach State got 12 points apiece from Ricard Johnson, Donnie Martin and highly-recruited freshman Michael Wiley as the 49ers' record dropped to 6-3.

Despite the loss, however, it was still a night for celebration in Long Beach.

Alabama also had good reason to celebrate as the fourth-ranked Crimson Tide won the Carolina Classic with a 67-62 victory over South Carolina.

Freshman Robert Scott came off the bench and scored 12 of his 14 points in the second half to lead Alabama to its eighth victory without a loss his season.

Guard T.R. Dunn' an strong defensive player, was named the tournament's most valuable Player, after scoring 15 points in the victory over the Gamecocks.

No 20 Georgetown won third place in the tournament with a 60-40 romp over Harvard as Derick Jackson and Ed Hopkins each scored 12 points for the Hoyas.

Roy Hamilton sank four free throws and Jim Shilgo25q ltWilbur Olinde added two apiece in the final 58 seconds to give eighth-ranked UCLA a 59-55 victory over William & Mary.

Brad Holland led the UCLA scoring with 11 points and Hamilton added 10 Matt Courage led William & Mary with 18 points.

No. 15 Utah scored the first six points in overtime and topped Weber State, 88-81 Greg Deane, who scored six points in the overtime, and Jeff Judkins had 20 points each for the Utes and Jeff Jonas added 19 although his string of consecutive free throws ended at 42, a school record. Bruce Collins of Weber State scored a game-high 28 points.

No. 16 Minnesota edged Kansas State, 62-60, on guard Ray Williams' layup in the final minute. Mike Thompson led the Minnesota scoring with 16 points.

Greg Ballard scored 15 points and Rob Closs nine to lead 18th-ranked Oregon to a 42-38 victory over Grambling.

Finley: It Was My Decision

CHICAGO (UPI) — Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley says he believed the decision on whether to buy, trade or sell players on his team was solely his prerogative and was outside the realm of Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Finley was in court Thursday in hopes of giving owners sole control over the purchase, sale and trading of players.

Finley announced in June the sale of pitcher Vida Blue to the New York Yankees for $1.5 million, and of relief pitcher Rollie Fingers and outfielder Joe Rudi to the Boston Red Sox for $1 million each. Kuhn blocked the sale in "the best interests of baseball," and Finley alleges in his suit that Kuhn had no authority to do so.

Testifying for the second day in his $3.5 million U.S. District Court suit against Kuhn, Finley outlined his understanding of how deals for players should be made.

"It was a very simple understanding, that if I cared to buy a ball player or trade a ball player, that that was my prerogative. And in the same respect, if I cared to sell a ball player, that also was my prerogative," he said.

"At the time I came into baseball and today, it has been my understanding that the 'best interest of baseball' provision (was) that the commissioner would make sure there was no gambling going on, that there was nothing immoral going on."

The Oakland owner said that in his 17 years in baseball he had never heard of a commissioner disapproving a sale.

Finley said he tried to sign some of his star players whose contracts were expiring but they all turned his offers down and he said he had to either trade or sell them.

He cited as one example slugger Reggie Jackson. Finley said he offered Jackson $1.5 million to sign a five-year contract but he refused and was later traded to the Baltimore Orioles.

Finley said he offered Don Baylor, Rudi, Fingers, Bert Campaneris and Gene Tenace each at least a three year contract at $90,000 a year. Most of them were offered much more money, he said.

U.S District Court Judge Frank J. McGarr recessed after 45 minutes Thursday and scheduled the next session for 2 p.m. Jan. 3, when Finley is expected to be questioned by Kuhn's attorneys.

'Most Confused Deal of Year'

ATLANTA (UPI) — Former Texas Ranger Jeff Burroughs apparently plans to become an Atlanta Brave next season after all, a Braves' spokesman said Thursday.

"At this point the plans are for Burroughs and his fiance to come to Atlanta the first week in January for his first introduction to the city," said Bob Hope of the Braves.

Hope said Burroughs, Atlanta owner Ted Turner, Rangers' owner Brad Corbett, General Manager Eddie Robinson, and Burroughs' attorney, Marvin Demoff, had straightened out "one of the most confused baseball deals of the year" on the telephone.

The men had "pretty much come to the agreement" that the trade was valid, Hope said.

Turner said "our position is that he's an Atlanta Brave and that's the way it stands now."

The Braves swapped five players and $250,000 in cash for the Ranger outfielder who has a reputation as a long hitter. Burroughs, however, balked at going to Atlanta and said he had signed a no-trade contract with the Rangers last year.

But Robinson argued Burroughs had no choice but to move to Atlanta because his contract did not include a no-cut clause.

Earlier in the day, the situation had begun to take on the proportions of a confused soap opera with none of those involved apparently knowing what was going on.

Corbett had reportedly taken Burroughs and Demoff to Las Vegas Tuesday night to discuss the situation. Afterwards, Burroughs said the trade had been canceled and he would be remaining with the Rangers

Turner charged the deal was never in question and Corbett was playing "king of the mountain."

For his part, Corbett said the matter was up to Turner, but he hoped to work out a new deal to bring Burroughs back to the Rangers.

Yost to Red Sox

BOSTON (UPI) — Eddie Yost, an 18-year major leaguer who coached the New York Mets the past nine seasons, signed Thursday to coach for the Boston Red Sox.

Yost, a six-time American League leader in walks earned, was a third baseman with a lifetime batting average of .254.

He spent 14 seasons with the Washington Senators before finishing his career with Detroit and the Los Angels Angels. Yost, 50, set a major league record for games played at third base (2,008).

It has not been announced where he will be used, although it expected he will coach first base.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Tom Gorman announced his retirement Thursday after a 25-year career as a National League umpire.

NL president Charles S. Feeney said Gorman, 57, would continue to work in baseball and for the National League. His duties will include special assignments and speaking engagements.

Gorman, who once pitched for the New York Giants, began his umpiring career in 1947 in the New England League and joined the NL staff in 1951.

Ralston Won't Quit

DENVER (UPI) — John Ralston, the winningest coach in Denver Bronco history, Thursday refused to quit as head coach of the National Football League club despite dissension among key players who urged his resignation

The 49-year-old coach made the announcement after a meeting with team owner Gerald Phipps and General Manager Fred Gehrke. The two officials had met two days earlier in the week with several players who demanded Ralston's resignation.

"I have never walked away from anything in my life, and I'm not a quitter," Ralston said. "We've gone too far in the last five years not to see this thing through."

Ralston, whose 9-5 record this past season was the best in Bronco history, said he expected apologies from the players who took the action. He also warned some of them would be wearing different uniforms next year.

Babe Wrapped in Clothing Left in Shopper's Auto

WALTON, N.Y. (UPI) — The calls have begun to come into the Delaware County Sheriff's Department from persons seeking to adopt a newborn boy hastily left on the seat of a car while the owner of the vehicle was shopping.

Hazel O'Dell scarcely believed what she saw Thursday when she returned to her auto after 15 minutes of shopping at McLean's Food Store and found the infant. She called police.

The boy, nearly nine pounds, had been born less than two hours earlier, Chief Paul Peterson said. The umbilical cord had been clipped with a clothes pin and the boy was wrapped in a blanket.

Mrs. O'Dell said she had been in the store for only 15 minutes, and that the child must have been left during that time in her unlocked car, which was parked in front of the store.

The store is on the main street of this village of 3,700 persons, and officials said it seemed inconceivable that someone could have placed the infant in the vehicle without someone noticing. They have asked all local residents for help in solving the mystery.

The baby was taken to Delaware Valley Hospital, where doctors report he is in good condition today.

A deputy at the sheriff's department in Delhi, where calls are taken for the Walton village police, said that once the story got around, there had been several calls from persons seeking to adopt the boy. All had to be refused, he said.

Police are searching for the child's mother who could be charged with abandonment if she were found, deputies said. If she is not located, the baby will be turned over to the county's welfare agency for adoption procedings.

'Miss Lillian' Will Miss The Carter Family Yuletide

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — President-elect Jimmy Carter, the job of selecting a Cabinet behind him, settled down today to a quiet Yuletide celebration with his family.

The matriarch of the Carter family, "Miss Lillian" will be missing from the Plains home, however. Carter's 78-year old mother is recuperating from arthritic discomfort in an Americus, Ga., hospital, where she will have to stay through Christmas.

Family sources said she wants to be in "top health" for her son's inauguration. "The family will take Christmas to her," sources said.

Christmas Day at the Carter's will be devoted to the traditional exchange of gifts and holiday feasting.

Next week, the President-elect will gather his Cabinet and New York's top executive officers, Gov. Hugh Carey and Mayor Abraham Beame, at St. Simons, an island off the south coast of Georgia, for wide-ranging talks on policy and New York's finances.

Carter signed off at his news conference announcing the rest of his appointments Thursday with an expression of hope "that we can enter the New Year with a commitment to being closer together, to sharing our problems and our opportunities ..."

Carter penciled in the last name for his cabinet by selecting Washington attorney and former Johnson White House adviser Joseph Califano to head the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

With Califano, Carter also named former Ford Defense Secretary James Schlesinger as a White House assistant "for coordination of all energy efforts," and Theodore Sorenson, a former speech writer and adviser to President John Kennedy, to be director of the CIA.

Overall, Carter's campaign promise of new faces in his administration went unfulfilled in the choice of a Cabinet. He picked seven veterans of other administrations, plus two congressmen — a mostly middleaged, middle-of-the-road group.

Carter has noted he still has many important appointments to make at the Cabinet level and others, as he described of "acute importance" such as FBI director.

The President-elect has indicated he believes it within his power to replace FBI director Clarence Kelley, even though the tenure for that postion is now set at 10 years. Carter aides believe Kelley will go.

Carter met with Treasury Secretary-designate Michael Blumenthal Thursday but there were no details on their talks.

He also was moving toward release next week of the strict code of ethics he has mandated for anyone serving in his administration. At the same time, Carter was expected to disclose plans for divesting his own interests in the family's peanut business.

On St. Simons there will be a thorough review of the economy —including the New York picture — and recommendations to Carter on whether to seek a tax cut next year to stimulate the economy.

Outing Ends in Upset Epidemic

Skiers Take Gastric Spill

DENVER(UPI) — As many as 200 teen-age church group members ending a five-day ski outing have been hospitalized in two states with stomach ailments suffered as they were heading home.

Dr. Tom Vernon, state epidemiologist for the Colorado Health Department, Thursday diagnosed the illnesses as "winter vomiting disease." He said it was characterized by vomiting and nausea followed by diarrhea.

Officials received reports of young people being hospitalized in Dallas, Memphis and Wichita Falls, Tex., and in Las Animas and Denver, Colo. Others still at the mountain camp also were ill.

Some doctors imvycaply IAGnosed 'the illness as food poisoning, but health officials in Colorado ruled against that diagnosis. All of the stricken youths had vacationed at Snow Mountain Ranch, a YMCA camp west of Granby in Grand County.

"We feel certain it was not food poisoning," said health department spokesman Rtwene Danbaum. "From the information we have received so far — and it still is very sketchy — we think as many as 200 young people were stricken."

Mrs. Danbaum said those ill were all members the church groups from Houston, Beaumont and Dallas in Texas, and Jackson, Miss. They were ending their five-day ski outing when the illnesses occurred.

"Some of them were on their way home and some were still up there when they became ill," Mrs. Danbaum said.

Grand County Sanitarian Jack Eslien went to the ranch to check the food handlers and to take specimens of all food products.

"There is no evidence at all to incriminate the food or anything at the ranch itself," Mrs. Danbaum said. "There appears to be nothing improper at all.

"Dr. Vernon said it is a strange disease, probably viral in origin and probably spread by the respiratory tract. It moves explosively through groups in dormitories such as this.

"Recovery begins with 8 to 10 hours, and it's almost never fatal. However, there is not a whole lot known about it."

Probing Sex Charged By Fun City Massagers

NEW YORK (UPI) — A midManhattan massage parlor sued the city for $275,000 Thursday, alleging city officials hired three private investigators to obtain first hand information on its activities.

The lawsuit filed in U.S. District Court in Manhattan claimed the investigators engaged in sexual activities with the employes of BOCA Trading Corp. and provided evidence which led to its closing.

The suit claims violations of BOCA's constitutional rights to due process and freedom from unlawful searches.

It names as defendants Sidney Baumgarten, a special assistant to Mayor Abraham Beame, and Manhattan District Attorney Robert Morgenthau.

Swindle Charged To Firm

NEW YORK (UPI) — The government charged Thursday that the five top officers of Stirling Homex Corp., a now-defunct modular housing company, fooled their auditors, inflated the firm's worth and swindled investors out of $40 million.

But the defense said they were financial naives who built their business from nothing and then "relied totally" on "brokers, bankers and other financially sophisticated people" to manage the firm.

The five defendants are on trial in U.S. District Court on charges of securities fraud for selling lots owned by Stirling Homex to dummy corporations that could not pay for them, thus exaggerating the corporation's worth to its investors.

They also are charged with forging a $15 million federal financing commitment concerning a contract to provide low-cost modular housing for hurricane victims in Mississippi and bribing union officials to ensure labor peace.

The indictment said the artificial inflation of the company's worth led the public to invest heavily in Stirling Homex, headquartered in the Rochester suburb of Avon, N.Y., until it went bankrupt in 1972.

Assistant U.S. Attorney William MacDonald said the investors lost $40 million when the company folded but the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, which first investigated the matter, said it was more like $100 million.

But defense lawyer Albert Gaynor said the defendants —particularly David Stirling Jr., 45, the company's chief executive officer, and his brother, William, 38, its president — were not to blame for the investors' losses.

Gaynor said Stirling Homex' sudden "success did not go unnoticed" and the Stirlings "were sought after by brokers, bankers and other financially sophisticated people who wanted to take things in hand.

"The Stirlings relied totally on these people to the very end," Gaynor said, with no intent to defraud.

In addition to the Sterlings, both Canadians now living in England, the defendants are Harold M. Yanowitch, 56, of Braintree, Mass., executive vice president and general counsel; Edwin J. Schulz, 43, of Lancaster, Pa., controller, and Rubel L. Phillips, 51, of Jackson, Miss., a politically connected lawyer who was hired by Stirling.

Pilgrims Progress Peaceful

BETHLEHEM, Israeli-occupied Jordan(UPI) — Officials in the birthplace of Jesus expect thousands of pilgrims and "no trouble whatsoever" this Christimas — the ninth celebrated under Israeli occupation.

"I can assure you there will be no trouble whatsoever," said Mayor Elias Freij, a ChristianArab and one of the few Palestinian moderates to retain his office in local elections this spring.

"The Arabs respect Christmas as a national religious holiday and no one will do anything to harm it. All people will be safe and secure in Bethlehem," he said.

The ceremonies were to begin at noon today, when the Roman Catholic Patriarch of Jerusalem, Msgr. Giacomo Beltritti, sets out on foot with a procession of bands and acolytes for Bethlehm, six miles to the south

Services leading up to the Midnight Mass at St. Catherine's Church, adjoining the fourth century Basilica of the Nativity, begin at 10:30 p.m. The mass will be transmitted to a big outdoor television screen for celebrants on Manger Square outside.

The Basilica, a massive Greek Orthodox Church, houses the grotto where a silver star marks Jesus' birthplace.

In Manger Square, workmen erected platforms for the 10 choirs expected from Africa, America, Australia, Britain and Sweden and decorated a big Christmas tree with neon starts and silver stars of Bethlehem.

Authorities mounted special security precautions for the festivities, beefing up the local police force to 400 men in addition to stepped up Israeli army patrols.

Tourism ministry and local officials said they expected 20,000 pilgrims from abroad and thousands more from Israel and the occupied territories to visit Bethlehem during the holiday weekend.

Early Approval Hope Of Senate on Cabinet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate hopes to confirm President-elect Jimmy Carter's proposed Cabinet shortly after his inauguration, barring strong opposition to any of the candidates.

When a new administration comes into office, the Senate tries to complete the confirmation inquiry in advance and then take the actual vote on each Cabinet member after inauguration.

Technically, Carter cannot submit the nominations to the Senate until after he is sworn in.

Proposed reorganization of Senate committees could prevent assignments of new senators before inauguration day.

One suggestion is to let new senators sit in on any nomination inquiry they want to. They would, of course, have a vote when the nomination reaches the Senate.

Congress convenes Jan. 4 and will have ample time for informal confirmation hearings before the Jan. 20 inauguration.

The Senate is heavily Democratic and traditionally inclined to give a new president the Cabinet he wants. Carter's Cabinet choices should have no serious problems.

But Attorney General-designate Griffin Bell could spend some uncomfortable days before the Senate Judiciary Committee and HUD Secretary-designate Patricia Roberts Harris may run into stiff questioning on her expertise in the complex housing field.

A number of the prospective Cabinet members served in the Kennedy-Johnson era and their views are well-known. Included in this group are Secretary of State-designate Cyrus Vance, Treasury Secretary-designate W. Michael Blumenthal, Defense Secretary-designate Harold Brown, HEW Secretary-designate Joseph Califano and Harris.

Robert Bergland, picked as agriculture secretary, and Brock Adams, named to head the Department of Transportation, are congressmen whose views are on record. Cecil Andrus, named to Interior, is a well-known, longtime governor.

Commerce Secretary-designate Juanita Kreps, Labor Secretary-designate Ray Marshall and Bell are probably the three least familiar to the Senate.

The only opposition so far is to Bell's nomination. Senate liberals are certain to investigate deeply Bell's 15-year career as a federal judge, with emphasis on his rulings in civil rights and school desegregation cases.

We Get Warning On Canal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Reacting to U.S. press reports unfavorable to his government, Panama's strongman, General Omar Torrijos has released a tough-worded letter to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

The State Department, where publication of the letter was the subject of day-long high-level consultations Thursday, declined comment on Panama's decision to release the diplomatic note that Torrijos had called confidential.

In the letter, Torrijos warned Kissinger that recent "rash accusations" by the United States may threaten the security of the Panama Canal and negotiations on a new treaty.

"I am writing you this letter to warn you that it is not with threats that you will gain our support and continued vigilance, which will ensure that the canal continues to operate efficiently and with the proper defense," Torrijos said.

The Nov. 29 note was made public Thursday by the Panamanian Embassy in Washington, after published reports had quoted Defense and State Department "secret cables" that recent terrorist activities in the U.S.-controlled Panama Canal Zone allegedly were carried out by members of Panama's National Guard.

The Panamanian leader told Kissinger that similar charges about alleged National Guard activities in the Canal Zone were made by U.S. Ambassador William Jorden in a meeting with him Nov. 9 in Panama City.

Torrijos said Jorden told him the United States had proof of that and "that any repetition of these activities would have serious consequences for our relations and for the negotiations aimed at a new Panama Canal treaty."

Torrijos said a full investigation of the National Guard found "no evidence that such an accusation is well-founded."

"We do not wish to publicize our indignation and displeasure in the face of this rash accusation made by your government, particularly because we wish to avoid inflaming the people and, in particular, to prevent the young people of Panama from engaging in angry and vigorous protests," Torrijos wrote Kissinger.

NOTICE OF SALE
INDEX NO. 76-623

In pursuance of a Judgment of Foreclosure and Sale duly made and entered in the above entitled action, bearing date the 12th day of November, 1976, I, the undersigned, the Referee in said Judgment named, will sell at a public auction at the front vestibule of the Ulster County Court House, in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York, on the 10th day of January, 1977, at 11:00 in the forenoon of that day, the premises described by said Judgment to be sold and therein being described as follows:

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Woodstock, County of Ulster and State of New York, more particularly bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point in the center of a brook on the town line of Woodstock and Hurley, said point being at the southwesterly corner of lands herein described, and running thence down the center of said brook and along lands of Lillian D. West for the following bearings and distances: North 76° 10' east 45.0 feet to a point, thence south 74° 53' east 60.8 feet to a point, thence north 73° 30 east 66.2 feet to a point, thence north 85° 45' east 46.5 feet to a point; thence north 45° 46' east 44.0 feet to a point; thence north 82° 51' east 58.1 feet to a point; thence south 17° 55' east 18.1 feet to a point near a small dam; thence continuing along lands of said West and a wire fence and old wall north 47° 51' east 565.21 feet to a stake in said wall; thence along lands of Frank L. Tichenor and a wire fence and stone wall north 37° 22' west 712.67 feet to an iron pipe in said wall; thence along lands formerly of Edwin D. Schoonmaker and a stone wall south 59° 43' west 321.85 feet to an iron pipe in said wall; thence along a stone wall south 22° 05' east 264.75 feet to a stake in said wall; thence along a stone wall south 56° 41' west 229.64 feet to a point; thence continuing along said wall south 52° 21' west 228.93 feet to a stake in said wall on the Town Line of Woodstock and Hurley; thence along said Town Line and a stone wall south 39° 46' east 403.3 feet to the place of beginning. Containing 11.722 acres. (All bearings are referred to the Magnetic Meridian as of October, 1944). The above courses and distances are in accordance with a certain map entitled "Map of Lands of Helen C. Thibaut in the Town of Woodstock, Ulster Co., N.Y., dated Kingston, N.Y., Oct. 1944, made by G. W. Codwise, Civil Engineer."

The above parcel being the same premises conveyed to Allen DeLano and Gladys Hurlburt Delano, otherwise known as Allan Delano and Gladys Hurlburt Delano by three deeds as follows: (1) Deed from Gladys Hurlburt Delano to Allen Delano and Gladys Hurlburt Delano, dated November 2, 1936, and recorded on the same day in the Office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster in Liber 584 of deeds at page 427; (2) Deed from Saugerties Savings Bank to Allen Delano and Gladys Hurlburt Delano, his wife, dated April 18, 1938, and recorded on the same day in said Clerk's Office in Liber 594 of deeds at page 324, and (3) Deed from Lillian G. West to Allen Delano and Gladys H. Delano, his wife, dated May 17, 1939 and recorded on May 22, 1939 in said Clerk's Office in Liber 602 of deeds at page 269.

Together with the right to use a certain road leading from the premises hereby conveyed over premises of Lillian West and Florence Webster to the public highway as the same is now laid out and as the same is used and has been used in the past by Allen DeLano and Gladys Hurlburt DeLano and their predecessors in title for ingress, egress and regress over the same from the premises hereby conveyed to the public road. Said right of way was acquired by Allen DeLano and Gladys Hurlburt DeLano by two deeds: (1) Deed from the Saugerties Savings Bank to Allen DeLano and Gladys Hurlburt DeLano dated April 18, 1938, and thereafter recorded in the Office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster in Liber 594 of deeds at page 324, and (2) Deed from Florence Webster to the said Allen DeLano and Gladys Hurlburt DeLano, his wife, dated September 19, 1944 and recorded in the Office of the Clerk of the County of Ulster on September 22, 1944, in Liber 645 of deeds at page 126.

The above described premises and said right of way being the same as conveyed by Allen DeLano and Gladys Hurlburt DeLano, otherwise known as Allan DeLano and Gladys Hurlburt DeLano to Helen C. Thibaut, by deed dated October 6, 1944 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office on October 17, 1944 in Liber 645 of Deeds at page 536.

ALSO, ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Woodstock, County of Ulster and State of New York, bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point in the center of a small brook on the westerly side of a small bridge over the private road leading northerly to the residence of Percy and Nancy Lyons said point being 7.10 feet distant on a course of north 31° 34' west from an iron pipe driven in the ground on the southerly side of the said brook, said point of beginning also being the northeasterly corner of an 0.683 part acre parcel of land with house heretofore conveyed by Percy S. Lyon and Nancy R. Lyon to Jay W. Seeman and Lois A. Seeman, his wife, by deed dated August 15, 1966 and recorded on August 15, 1966 in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber of Deeds No. 1186 at page 793, thence from the said point of beginning running along the said Brook and following the southerly boundary of a 11.722 acre parcel of land being the house lot of said Percy and Nancy Lyon and which also are to be conveyed to the parties of the second part herein, north 66° 34' east 10.52 feet to a point, thence north 46° 33' east 44.00 feet to a point, thence north 83° 38' east 58.10 feet to a point, thence south 17° 08' east 18.10 feet to a point, thence following the line of an old fence and stone wall, being the division line of other lands of Lyons north 48° 38' east 33.56 feet to a point, thence leaving said division line south 55° 23' east 24.64 feet more or less, to an iron pipe driven in the ground on the easterly side of a pond, thence south 21° 50' east 82.50 feet to an iron pipe driven in the ground near a cedar tree, thence north 85° 36' west 78.98 feet to a steel rod driven in the ground on the easterly side of the aforesaid private road, thence crossing the same on a course of north 48° 30' west 49.38 feet to an iron pipe driven in the ground on the south side of the aforesaid brook; thence north 31° 34' west 7.10 feet to the point and place of beginning. Containing 0.206 part of an acre.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, DEC. 25

Your Birthday Today: Scholarship, both formally recognized and naturally embodied in your daily routines, dominates your coming year. Regular pursuits become training grounds in which you improve your skills, perception and personal effectiveness. Relationships multiply, mostly casual, a few coming on to lasting strength. Today's natives have charisma and meet all with an open heart. Those born this year will take initiative in serious research, constantly ask questions early in life.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Your inner nature is open to special influences and may not be understood by others. If away from home, take time to send out a word of holiday greeting.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): People and their festivities favor you; see that you respond. Tidying up must be done, but leave lots of time for celebration.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): This is about as smooth a day of personal and group rejoicing as you've had for many a year. What comes into your life now should be shared.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Consider the needs and capabilities of those around you. Organize a flexible program to fill the holiday with pleasant experiences for all. Stay cheerfully relaxed.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Entertaining attracts people of local importance, but it's no time for politicking or persuasive efforts. Let your personality shine for its own sake. Grant a favor.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Communication is important if you've neglected anyone faraway. Youngsters put on a good show. You're missing out on something; hurry and catch up!

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): In all the conviviality you can overdo most anything and get away with it up to a point. Let people enjoy their opinions, though you know they're wrong.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): It's a happy day if you'll remember original traditions and avoid commercial interpretations. Keep open house unless you've accepted invitations.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Visits are in order. Renew contacts wherever you can, even briefly. Everyone of importance in your life comes back to you in good time.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Don't look back. Take up what is at hand in good faith for joyful celebration. Family gatherings unite those who drifted apart and heal differences.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): This is a mellow Christmas Day, long to be remembered. Create your own entertainment if you aren't already in a whirl of social chores.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): You reach the peak of your efficiency cycle over this weekend. Enjoy the day's traditions, while you think seriously of opening doors into the future.

TEEN FORUM

By JEAN ADAMS, Ph.D.

SMEARED: (Q.) My best friend and I have always hung around together and tried to do the right thing. I guess we had a good reputation—until last summer.

Another girl came to stay the summer with us. She swore a lot and went wild around guys. She went home when school started. But now my friend and I have bad reputations because she stayed with us. What can we do? —Innocent in Oklahoma.

(A.) Getting a bad reputation is an easy thing to do. A girl can get one in one night. You and your friend spent the summer getting one. It may take longer to get rid of it.

I sympathize with you. I wish I could tell you how to clear away the dirty fog immediately, but I can't. All you can do is to be yourselves, doing what you know is right, and eventually the smut that was rubbed off on you will wear off.

If you had seen or thought about what was happening early in the summer and had talked to your parents about it, your problem might have been avoided, or at least eased. The girl could have been sent home then.

All teens should take note of the fact that being too close to evil can do harm to a person who is not evil at all.

REFUSED: (Q.) I've known this girl Tess for about a year now and I like her very, very much. But she's going out with this other guy. She says she likes him a lot.

Twice, several months ago, she went out with me. But now when I call her, she tells me she's going out with her boy friend. I don't know what to do. Should I keep trying for her? —No Luck in Maine.

(A.) Tess is going steady with someone else. She has told you as much. She has, since those early trial dates with you, decided that he is the one.

She has been fair with you and hasn't tried to string you along or encourage you in any way. Be fair with her and honest with yourself and stop calling her for dates. Your calls only serve to upset both of you.

AUTOMATIC RETURN MAY NOT BE BEST

Years ago, there were two sure ways to recognize a gentleman: He always stood up when a lady entered the room, and he always returned his partner's suit. Nowadays, a gentleman stands up mostly in self-defense and is equally lax about returning his partner's suit.

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 NT | Pass | 3 NT | All Pass |

Opening lead — ♠ 2

East wins the first trick with the ace of spades and, being an old-fashioned gentleman, returns his other spade.

South takes the king of spades and develops the diamonds, losing a diamond trick to East. Declarer is sure to win two spades, three diamonds, and three clubs. He can develop a heart as his ninth trick, and the opponents can do nothing to stop him.

TIMELY SWITCH

East should switch to hearts after winning the first trick. West's lead of the deuce of spades shows that he has only four spades, which means that South also has four spades. There cannot be much nourishment in such a suit, but hearts may be the stuff to feed the troops.

West takes the king of hearts and returns a heart. East gets in with a diamond in time to defeat the contract with the rest of the hearts.

Note that West does return his partner's suit, hearts. It is clear that East has rejected spades, presumably for a good reason. West has no reason to reject hearts, so he returns the suit. This, essentially, is the modern rule: Return your partner's suit unless you have a good reason to switch.

DAILY QUESTION

Dealer, at your right, opens with one spade. You hold: ♠KQ94 ♡Q10 ◇K863 ♣KQJ. What do you say?

ANSWER: In general, bid 1 NT, showing spade strength and the values for an opening bid of 1 NT. When not vulnerable against vulnerable opponents, you might pass in the hope that the opponents will dig themselves a pit and fall into it.

Says 89 Per Cent of Registered Voters Cast Ballots

Census Bureau Gives Lie to Poll Apathy Estimates

WASHINGTON(UPI) — The Census Bureau says 89 per cent of registered voters partic ipated in the Nov 2 election

Despite estimates that only little more than half of all eligible voters trooped to the polls, those that were actually registered took part in greater numbers than four years ago

A Census Bureau survey showed 89 per cent of those who were registered took the time to vote When Richard Nixon defeated George Mc Govern in the 1972 presiden tial race, the figure was 87 per cent

The reports of voter apathy which surfaced during and af ter the campaign dealt with those eligible to vote — regis-tered or not

Unofficial figures based on earlier Census Bureau esti mates of the voting age popu-lation showed the percentage of eligible voters —citizens over 18 — casting ballots was down from 55 5 per cent in 1972 to about 53 4 per cent this year

Officials said their survey indicates voting may have been heavier last month were it not for the drop off in regis tration following Nixon's land slide victory

"There was a 10 per cent drop in registrations between 1972 and 1974," said Census Bureau branch chief Larry Suter "Voters were apparent ly turned off by Watergate and the poor showing of the Demo-cratic candidate "

Folllowing a traditional pat tern, however, registrations in-creased 4 per cent during the last two years, he said

Complicated procedures for registration and a general feel-ing that Democratic candidate Jimmy Carter would easily de-feat President Ford may have combined to prevent a surge in registrations by those who al-lowed them to lapse, Suter said

"When the race heated up in October it was too late for many voters to register,' Suter said

People between the ages of 18 and 20 had the lowest per-centage of registered voters, 47 per cent, in 1976 Only 38 per cent in that age bracket ac-tually cast ballots in the Ford-Carter race

Highest participation was among those between the ages of 55 and 64 Almost 77 per cent registered while 70 per cent actually voted.

Fulton St. Fire Takes Four Lives

NEW YORK(UPI) — A loudspeaker blared a scratchy rendition of "O, Come All Ye Faithful for the Christmas shoppers milling along Fulton Street in Downtown Brooklyn Thursday

Across the street, stone-faced firemen lugged four can-vas body bags into the steely winter air from the charred shell of a five story depart ment store that burned and then collapsed a day before

Officials said four more bod-ies still may be inside, but the search was temporarily sus pended Thursday afternoon for fear that the building's cast iron columns might give way and bring down what little is left standing

A crane will be used today to help the finish the search, but Fire Commissioner John O'Hagan said the chances were "virtually nil' that any-one still caught in the building could survive

The three-alarm fire broke out at about 2 p m Wednes-day in the five story building at 526 Fulton St in Brooklyn's busy shopping district It housed a shoe store at street level and a department store above

The fire started in a stairwell between the first and second floors, O'Hagan said, then spread across the second floor and then up to the top of the building The cause of the fire could not be determined

Firemen controlled the blaze by late Wednesday night, but the building had collapsed meanwhile and could not be searched until Thursday morning, when the bodies of two men and two women were recovered None was identi-fied

O'Hagan said missing per-sons reports indicate that the death toll might reach eight In addition, eight civilians, two firemen and a police of-ficer were slightly hurt in the fire

O'H a g a n and Mayor Abraham Beame held a brief ing for reporters outside the burned out store but were in terrupted by a Morris Kashioff, 53, of Brooklyn, who denounced the commissioner for delays in responding to the fire

Kashioff turned away, made fists and choked back tears "Everything is finished,' he said "I can't find my wife " Yolande Kashioff, 39, was a cashier in the department store

Then, when he was finished with the cameras and micro phones, Beame walked over to Kashioff, who stood staring blankly at the burned out building with his 19 year old son, Jack

"I wish I could do some thing,' the mayor said

Kashioff could only respond, "It s too bad "
